

ARCHWAYS
OF LIFE

by

Mercedes de Acosta

ARCHWAYS
OF LIFE

by

Mercedes de Acosta

The Project Gutenberg eBook of Archways of life

This eBook is for the use of anyone anywhere in the United States and most other parts of the world at no cost and with almost no restrictions whatsoever. You may copy it, give it away or re-use it under the terms of the Project Gutenberg License included with this eBook or online at www.gutenberg.org. If you are not located in the United States, you will have to check the laws of the country where you are located before using this eBook.

Title: Archways of life

Author: Mercedes de Acosta

Release date: May 17, 2026 [eBook #78702]

Language: English

Original publication: New York: Moffat, Yard and Company, 1921

Other information and formats: www.gutenberg.org/ebooks/78702

Credits: Terry Jeffress and the Online Distributed Proofreading Team at <https://www.pgdp.net> (This file was produced from images generously made available by The Internet Archive)

 START OF THE PROJECT GUTENBERG EBOOK ARCHWAYS OF LIFE ***

ARCHWAYS OF LIFE

ARCHWAYS OF LIFE

by

Mercedes de Acosta

Author of "Moods," etc.

NEW YORK

MOFFAT, YARD AND COMPANY

1921

COPYRIGHT, 1921, BY MOFFAT, YARD & COMPANY

To

A. P.

Acknowledgment is made to "Poetry: A Magazine of Verse," for permission to reprint some of the poems in this volume.

CONTENTS

	PAGE
FADED PETALS	13
SOILED HANDS	14
REFLECTION	15
LUMBERMEN	16
SONNET	17
UNPOSSESSED	18
UNREALITY	19
MAGIC	20
PLATITUDES	21
A DREAM	22
TO VOULETTI	23
OCTOBER 28TH	24
LIFE'S MIRAGE	25
WIND	26
GOD'S HAND	27
WORDS	29
BLINDNESS	30
SPRING AND YOU	31
WALT WHITMAN	32

SURRENDER	33
WE THREE	34
IN THE WINGS	38
INFATUATION	39
ALL I ASK	40
SYMBOL	41
MISUNDERSTANDING	42
ENDING	44
POETRY	46
ATLANTIC CITY	48
YOUR FACE	49
ILLUSION	50
FESTA DEL REDENTORE IN VENICE	51
COLOR SYMPHONY	52
TO ONE WHO LOVES JEWELS	53
FOOTPRINTS	54
LIFE AND YOUTH	55
POOR FOOLS	58
LONGING	59
MUSIC	60
FLOWERS AND STARS	61

ARCHWAYS OF LIFE

*I am a part of all that I have met.
Yet all experience is an arch wherethro'
Gleams that untravelled world, whose margin fades
Forever and forever when I move.*

“ULYSSES.”

FADED PETALS

Come! Let us be friends.
Throw off the cloak of passion
(You wear it far too much)
And though your slightest touch
Has ceased to make me tremble,
There is no reason why—
We still cannot
Climb our hill together,
And, at twilight's end,
Call each other "friend."
The rose tree fades but has its spring and autumn,
And so with love.
But with a rose—
We gather its faded petals
And in a box of precious metals
We store its fragrance.
Why not with love?
And which is more beautiful—
Who can say?
A rose in bloom or the fragrance of its petals
In decay!

SOILED HANDS

After everyone had left,
It was always so wonderful sitting in the dark theatre with you.
There was a mystery about it,
As though the echo of many plays
Still lingered in the folds of the curtain,
While phantom figures crouched low in the chairs,
Beating suppressed applause with vapor hands.
Do you remember how we always sat silently?
I would shut my eyes to feel your closeness nearer.
Then slowly and like a ritual
I would take your hand,
And you would laugh a little and say,
“My hands are awfully sticky”—or
“I can’t seem to keep my hands clean in this theatre,”
As if that mattered ... as if that mattered....

REFLECTION

I, with my back to the window,
Can see bending and swinging trees,
A gay blue patch of the sky
With the corner of a cloud looking in
And you, with your face buried in a rose.
Thus, I have my whole world,
In just this little mirror
Which I hold in the hollow of my hand.

LUMBERMEN

I watch the lumbermen
Winding up the mountain
Between the autumn branches.
I see

Leaves gold, red, flame and green,
With flashes of faded blue between
Of their overalls.
Straining and pulling
Horses brown and soiled white
Stagger up the mountain side
Before them
Dragging huge and heavy timber.
Down in the valley
I can hear the echo
Of the men's muffled curses,
And the quick snap
Of long thin whips.

SONNET

I could not wish all pain and grief and fears
Should leave my life and let my heart go free;
For then true love could never stay with me,—
That deepest love that had its birth in tears.
Smiles come in eyes, while often joy appears
When lovers meet—but deeper than the sea,
With strength that could a thousand chains tear free,
Is love that from gray tragic sorrow rears.

So, love, but one rare bliss I would aspire:
If you would let me share your grief on earth,
Bear all your loss and take your pain entire—
Guide your dark way. Let others share your mirth,
I know your gay laughter is not for me—
But lean on me in grief, when tears flow free.

UNPOSSESSED

Never shall I be all subdued,
Nor the real secret of me understood;
Passionately and violently my body may be possessed,
But my spirit
Always a virgin,
Will wander on forever
Unpossessed!

UNREALITY

From out the window pane I see your face,
Its outline a little vague
In the dimness of the shadow.
But the whiteness of your skin
Is like a clean ship's sail,
Standing out in the darkness of a night.
And your eyes,—I see them like two golden bowls,
With the rays of a thousand moonbeams sweeping over them.
As I pass out into the blackness,
I wonder if I have ever really known you—
Or, if you exist at all—
And are not but a twisted, fevered, silver creation of my brain,
And the unreality of you comes over me,
Like a mist upon a lonely sea.

MAGIC

We, who yesterday were spring, and wine, and flame, to each other,
Today are only two human beings,
Commonplace, and tired;
You vaguely jealous, and I slightly bored....
But tomorrow—
Or the next day—
The Magic may come back again,
And with it Spring, and Wine, and Flame.

It is for this that I live.

PLATITUDES

Tonight for a second
I almost thought I could love you.
The mystery of the night
And stillness of the wind
Seemed to speak of love
And draw us closer.
There was something sublime
About our silence,
With only the sound of dripping water
As it splashed and fingered the bow of our boat.
I seemed to see you differently,
And for a brief instant
My love wanted to creep down
And kneel at your feet.
Just then you turned and said:
“Isn’t the moon wonderful tonight!” and
“It all seems like a stage setting,”
Then I knew I never could love you!

A DREAM

I remember when the moon cast down a flood
Of gold across my floor and you came through
And held my hand and brought me hope like silver dew.
I remember when your touch stirred my blood
And taught me in a flash to dream of you,
And recklessly I poured your face into my heart
And lodged you there—and you were a part
Of me, before I knew.

Then we became comrades, we two,
Even before this dream so strange and new
Fastened itself upon my wakeful life,
And from out the chaos and maddening strife
I called to you....

And now you do not answer.

TO VOULETTI

There is not a leaf grown,
Not a breeze that's blown,
Not a sweet fragrant tree
That is not you, to me.

In the sunlight I feel your smile,
In the moonlight the whole long while,
I feel the pressure of your hand,
And feeling this I understand.

I understand all sacred things,
The depths of Life, the secret wings
That carry beyond the dreary way,
Turning dark to light, and night to day.

All things fine, and straight, and true,
I know better because of you,
While your sweetness is like a warm fresh shower,
And your face and soul like a sun-kissed flower.

OCTOBER 28TH

Today is your birthday.
Many people will come to you with offerings,
While I,
Who seemingly know you so slightly,
Yet who truly know you so well,
Must stand aside with empty hands.
If love could make this day perfect,
My love would weave for you
A web enmeshed with all your desires.
On your pathway
I would fling stars for pebbles
And tear down the moon
So that you might wear
The radiance of its silver
In your hair.
But instead—
I stand outside like a wall
And quite powerless
I send no gift at all.

LIFE'S MIRAGE

I have seen happiness. I have seen a slim figure steal
Across my path, and gathering flowers, laughingly kneel
And strew them on my way....
Then, but for one brief day,
I have seen them bloom beneath my feet, and fade away.

I have heard happiness. I have heard its voice, blown through the trees,
Calling and whispering in soft minor keys;
I have heard the voice of heart's desire, the voice of Hope,
Chanting melodiously and luring me up the slope
Of Life.

I have held happiness. Like a grain of sand,
Golden and beautiful, and gathered in my hand.
There, one second—then gone again:
Elusive, transient: all in vain
To try and hold it.

WIND

If I should die,
I would be buried air-tight beneath the ground.
While you—
Your gold hair blowing in the breeze—
Would still feel the caress of the wind,
And on your face would steal
A smile.

If I should die,
My body would be buried air-tight beneath the ground,
But my spirit will wander in the wind
That touches and circles about your face.
Perhaps you will know this—
And recognizing my touch
For this reason, you will smile....

The smile I know and love.

GOD'S HAND

Let me wander back over the mountains,
And facing the sea
Live under the open sky—
Too long have I been encumbered
With the deceit of man
And his spoken lie.
I wish to die,
Away from petty thoughts
And treacherous ways,
And end my days
Alone.

I shall sing no sad lament
That no hand guides me;
But rather shall the vision I once have been Through solitude, make me again the thing I might have been.
The self I lost because I trusted, loved and hoped,
And blinded my eyes with the dust of faith and groped
My way to truth.

There is no truth in man—
Only shall I find it
In grasping God's Hand
That leads my way to hill and tree,
And stamps His Truth upon the sea.
In nature shall I find my life,
Through nature lose the poisoned knife,
That tried to slay me.

In solitude I shall breathe life's breath,
And breathing life I shall welcome death.

WORDS

Words—words—
Why are you forever fencing?
And if you must fence
Cannot you use something else
Besides words!
Do you remember the last night?
We talked so madly—
Words again
And then more words.
It all seemed a tangled net of words.
You were trying to convince me of something
(God knows what)
And I was trying to answer intelligently
And keep my end up.
But somehow and suddenly
Our words meant so little;
Then you leaned forward
And your knee touched mine
And after that my thoughts blurred
And our words meant nothing.

BLINDNESS

Perhaps you are not much—
And maybe you are heartless
As they say you are—
And yet,
I shall always try to believe
That you are all the things
That I would have you,
So, that in the end,
I shall not have to know
My love and dreams of you
Have been all in vain
And wasted.

SPRING AND YOU

Today there is a smell of Spring in the air—
That sad restless note that makes one stretch forth longing hands
Into the heart of Life.
I who used to hate Spring,
Can never hate it again,
Because it has brought me you.
Now, Love and April, and the gold of your hair,
Are all mingled together
Like the blending of an exotic dream plant
With the fragrant perfume of a strange, frail flower.

WALT WHITMAN

I would dare say that you are a superman.
Would fling the words out to the world
And dare him who dares to question it.
I would satiate myself with the art of you;
Would fling aside the talent of the many,
For the gift of the few
Whom you have touched.
In your hands you hold a torch of light,
A message in your being,
While in your eyes—
Far seeing vision clear and bright.
There is power in your poise,
And magic
In your rhythm, advance and wait.
Drinking in your greatness,
I, myself, am great.

SURRENDER

I will offer all my love
 Recklessly, without rest,
And give myself completely
 Upon my darling's breast—
Our pulses shall beat as one pulse,
 And in that sacred breath
I shall feel the touch of Life
 Yet know the truth of Death!

WE THREE

There is something that from between us has slipped away and left me chill,
Something that by its loss has made the world less warm
And made me feel as though the sun rising o'er the purple dew-touched hill,
Finds its rays cold as it touches the face of dawn.

Although we kiss and meet the same each day,
You speak my name and I yours and we clasp hands,
Yet from somewhere, I do not know which way,
Stealing between us a lurking figure stands.

A figure clad in gray....
To me a dream, a phantom come to steal
My starlight quite away.
To you a gay figure, not strange but real.

And all the while it lurks and turns,
And from every cell and corner of my brain
I feel its presence and the burns
Even of your kisses cannot make me sane.

Why should this figure strange and sinister
Keep on coming? Why should she in the night
Breathe words of comfort and administer
Balm to my soul, pointing the way to light?

While when we meet in the day a dread silence lingers,

A silence chill which with no kindness blends
A word of cheer, or kind touch for my trembling fingers;
No look to prove that we are even friends.

Sometimes when you call my name I hear a tone
Of her voice within yours, and you say
Things which she will say at night and when alone,
Or what she's said before just that way.
They say we dream in sleep, but I must dream by day,
Because on waking she is a dream child, nor seems less fair,
Though more cruel than when I left her in my sleep sitting there.

If I could brush away this vision and start once again,
If I could see sunlight and feel less sad,
If I could only steady the confusion of my brain,
Somewhere, somehow I might again be glad.
And by a laugh or carefree jest,
I might once more call your love from out the past
And hold you closely to my side—lest,
Again between us the figure stand and fast
Would bind my hands and from me turn your face away,
Making once more my day a night and my night a day.

Ah, love, if we could turn Spring into last Spring again,
Or if I could toss my heart away and make it new;
If I could drink deeply of some draught to ease the pain,
Or become more callous, less kind and far, far less true....
Less true to ideals, to love and you.

Perhaps I will, then my brain will cease to ache,
And this sad frenzied chaos I will not prolong;
Then for yours, or mine or hers or each one's sake,
I will wave farewell to you, singing Love's Swan Song.
Singing Love's Swan Song, so that this may truly be,
That never again will false love take hold of me;
I may be mad, but which is the maddest of we three,
Is it you? Or I? Or is it she?

IN THE WINGS

Back in the wings
I remember how I used to stand by your side until you went on.
I remember the darkness and the slow beat of the music—
And the mad desire in me to hold you always near me.
I remember the weird reflection of the colored spot as it circled round,
And you gazing intensely at the dancers,
While I watched only the curve of your neck and the way your hair grew.
You seemed to be always thinking of the dancers,
Or, as you said yourself so often,
“Of nothing at all.”
But I, while standing with my shoulder touching yours,
Or holding your hand—
Would dream great, wonderful dreams that carried far beyond the horizon!

INFATUATION

It is not that I shall ever forget
The charm of your face, this I do not fear,
Or the rhythmic sway of your form, nor yet
The melody of the voice I loved to hear.
These things I shall remember.
I shall remember, too, the beauty of your eyes
And the stirring curves of your crimson mouth,
Like lightning storms and wind-swept flaming skies
Set on fire by the hot sun of the South.
I can recall all the words you promised and said,
Your seductive caressing ways and the false kisses you gave to me;
Remembering these I cannot help harboring the dread
That some day I will return, remembering no longer your cruelty.

ALL I ASK

Not caresses, nor the touch of your hand, nor the sweet savor
Of your love, I ask; nor the flavor
Of your lips against mine day by day;
(These joys I could not hope to stay).
They will pass and naught remain,
Except sweet memories, or perhaps the pain
Of their departure.
I could not hope that you would give these things forever,
Nor that our lives in one long dream could pass together;
But when love's tide has ebbed and after you quite forget,
May there come to you no sad remorse or deep regret
For the things that you have given.

SYMBOL

You are a symbol to me
Of all the better things I might have been,
Of all the best things I still might be,
Of all the wonderful things that are not
But exist somewhere in the God Mind
As yet unborn and unfulfilled—
These things you are to me.
Then you are Truth and Silence—
Both the Divine Force and the Great Strength,
And being all these things
You cannot help—being Love!

MISUNDERSTANDING

You have so completely misunderstood me—
Vainly I have tried to reach you
But always you have turned away.
And yet,
Like a blue flame
Burning hot and fiercely
My faith has ever burned for you.
Through the darkness
Of my loneliness
I have prayed for even small gleams
From the candle of your thoughts—
I would not pray for love;
But all the while
I would gladly have worn my soul out
To bring you joy.
And more than that....
Had you asked—
For you I would have made a plaything
Of my dreams.

But what does it all matter—
Why should I care
That you do not love me,
Or that you turn away and despise me?
Since through you I have found inspiration
(All unworthy that you are)
And quite unknowingly you have shown me
The pathway to a star!

ENDING

Life! I am broken, tired,
I have drunk too deep and wandered far—
And coveted a star.
I have been a rebel
And fought against your laws. I was bent
On wielding you ... but you had me in your firmament
And I never knew.
Now I know—
I know I cannot beat you,
And he who wants to meet you
Must go your way
Or Perish.

Life! I am weary, spent,
The sun you gave me was only lent
And now at the end of my day
It has faded and gone away.
I am lonely and grown cold;
Youth is on my brow, yet I am old,
And darkness falls around me.

Life! I am finished, ended,
But before my way from you I've wended,
I only ask one thing. I, who used to ask so much!
(The music has stopped and I feel no touch),
Life! I falter because the way is far too steep
And so in pity just send me ... Sleep!

POETRY

Like a beautiful, frail, seductive woman
Who flings herself across her lover's couch
And wets his lips with desire—
So you, too,
Fling and stretch your long, lean, white-limbed body,
Across the couch of Life
And with your lips alluring,
You chant your rhythmic, undulating, euphonious, melodious song,
Into the heart of me.
Vainly I try to tear myself
From the bondage of your voice,
And cast you off—
But from far away,
And deep down in the long unlivd-in and barren valleys of my soul,
I feel the breath of you.
You are like pastures green,
When one has lived forever with face pressed to the sand;
You are like cool, moist rocks with moss between;
You are like shadows of thin cypress trees
Across a moonlit stream—
Like rippling, twisting, sprays of foam
Across the dark unfathomable sea.
These things you seem to me.
In you, Oh, Poetry,
Lies the power to lift me up,
And mad with frenzied exaltation
To bear my spirit beyond the need of any mortal want.

In you the power
To beat upon my heart strings,
And quivering, with your music,
To toss for me weird, flaming words across my brain,
And hear your rhythm in my soul beat back again.
In you the power to dash me down—
For in my desire to create a child of yours;
And after infinite toil and labor pain,
To find it deformed, weak, and not worthy of your name.

ATLANTIC CITY

Vulgar houses
And large grotesque hotels,
Thousands of swarming people,
Overfed, disgusting, and fat,
Or pale and sickly;
Creeping along the boardwalk
Or being pushed by sweating niggers
In pigmy houses built on wheels.
Shops filled with gaudy finery—
Cheap laces, false jewelry, and pink and blue sea salt candy....
And then more shops,
And million dollar piers
Stretching their sordid hands out toward the horizon,
And reaching down into the depths and sacred blueness of the ocean,
Which, in the face of all such man-built hideousness,
Remains forever, mysterious,
Sublime and beautiful!

YOUR FACE

How glorious is the coming back to your face
After I have seen so many others
All missing something,
And failing me completely.
Faces filled with lust and hatred,
With joy, hope and despair;
Some dripping with greed and others fresh with love—
But in your face,
I find the consummation or possibility of all these things,
Both good and evil—
Like a well
With no man capable of measuring its depth.
Mysterious, pathetic, sensitive, strong and weak;
But always exquisite
With a beauty that creates in my heart an aching thing
That penetrates and fires my soul forever.
How glorious is the coming back to your face
After I have seen so many others.

ILLUSION

Last year
Within this door
We stood and dreamed
Great dreams.
I remember the light
In your face,
And the odor of my lilies,
Suffocating and strange.
This year—
You have gone
And I have ceased to dream.
But my lilies are flowering once more,
And their odor,
In the dusk's wane,
Creates you,
And our dreams,
All over again.

FESTA DEL REDENTORE IN VENICE

Deep blue water,
Like a dark sapphire;
A thousand swinging lanterns
Reflected in its depths,
And hung from gondolas
Whose blackness makes them forever
True comrades of the night.
Fireworks with spark and light;
Dripping from the skies,
Like thirsty stars
Bending to cool their lips
On Venetian waters.
Near by and far
The echo of a carefree laugh,
The plaintive voices of violins,
And clear songs of living men;
While deep in the shadows
Of beauty and old palaces,
Crouch the ghosts of tears and crime,
And men long centuries dead.

COLOR SYMPHONY

Open wings of sea gulls
And snow peaks are white;
Deep water in ancient slime-lined wells
Is black—
Great cities are gray,
With dark, gloomy smoke rising to kill the day.
Sunsets are gold
And sometimes red,
While the moon glows silver,
And then instead
Its face seems rose.
But love—
Love is all colors,
Sometimes black and sometimes red,
Seldom white but again gold—
Colors of youth and colors old;
Faded colors.
Lavender, green,
With stretches of orange in between.
Love is often a deep rich blue,
Or crimson for blood
With a dark brown hue.
Love is gray
Like twilight's breath—
Love—all color symbols of life
Yet, in reality, Death!

TO ONE WHO LOVES JEWELS

I gave you verses of mine
Telling of my sadness
And praising your beauty,
But you tossed the beautiful white sheets
That bore my poems
Disdainfully away from you.

I gave you my love—
And more than that,
I gave my dreams by night and day,
But you understood neither
And turned your face away.

Then I gave you a jewel,
A dark sapphire like the night
With depths in it like the sea,
And for that sapphire alone
You smiled at me.

FOOTPRINTS

Stretching before me the ever-moving but never-changing sea,
Looking so wild and dark with mad white blotches of foam across its face—

While I,
A mere grain of sand in the turmoil and winds of Time,
Stand alert and tense,
Gazing forward and wondering and peering into the Future....
Across the depths of the sea hundreds of centuries roll past,
And along its shores I follow the worn and faded footprints
Of men long since dead.

LIFE AND YOUTH

Through the archways of Life I tread,
Nor do I walk with much less dread,
Because I know
That where I go,
Millions have walked before me.

I do not feel less pain because 'tis said,
That saints and martyrs and soldiers have bled
For what they gave.
I am not brave
Because of this.

I weep not less,
Because in distress
Others, perhaps being stronger, have not wept as much;
For Stoics, and tearless people, and because of such Restraint, I hold not back my tears.

I borrow not my courage from the crowd.
My heart is heavy and my head is bowed—
But were I to raise my head high,
And cast my eyes up to the sky,
A star might guide me.

I cannot be what has been,
I cannot see what's been seen.
I shape my course,
And gather force,

From what's to come.

The future is my golden star,
My inspiration—and from afar,
I see the deeds that may be done,
I watch a race that may be run,
And hold my breath in ecstasy.

Away! Black shadows of the past,
Stale traditions that hold us fast.
Because they were,
Must we not stir
From off their worn out path?

I take up the spade of Youth and of Life,
And fling new pebbles on the path, where strife
Has worn the old ones out.
I dig and put to rout,
Old fancies and old doubt.

Across the world I hear a clear, new note;
The locks are shattered and the chains are smote,
And a moonbeam has fallen across life's shoulder.
I raise my sword, and like a pioneer soldier,
I sharpen it on the Shield of Hope.

POOR FOOLS

The war is over—
Once more they think that they may dance,
And make the old-time gilded show,
And drink behind closed doors
Their forbidden, hoarded wine,
And pin jewels upon their breasts.
Dance on,
Poor fools,
Because you do not know
That marching
Over the face of the world
Another Great Army is sweeping!

LONGING

All night long I used to wish that I were dead,
“May I never see another dawn,” I said.
Now I long for dawn the whole night through
Because on waking it brings me—you!

MUSIC

Forever, they are telling me
How futile are your words.
And yet—
It seems strange the spell you created when you spoke to me.
I would never listen much to what you were saying,
Because I was always hearing just the song in your voice.
Quite ordinary things you would say,
Such as:
“I am really very tired tonight”—or
“I wonder why the curtain is so late?”
Or sometimes you would talk of simple things done during the day.
But to me—
To me it was all wonderful
Because your voice
Was mellow and low,
And sounded like the muffled pealing
Of some distant old church bell.

FLOWERS AND STARS

Flowers are the stars of earth,
Stars, the flowers of the sky;
But you are both in my heart—
Flowers and stars till I die.

 END OF THE PROJECT GUTENBERG EBOOK ARCHWAYS OF LIFE ***

Updated editions will replace the previous one—the old editions will be renamed.

Creating the works from print editions not protected by U.S. copyright law means that no one owns a United States copyright in these works, so the Foundation (and you!) can copy and distribute it in the United States without permission and without paying copyright royalties. Special rules, set forth in the General Terms of Use part of this license, apply to copying and distributing Project Gutenberg™ electronic works to protect the PROJECT GUTENBERG™ concept and trademark. Project Gutenberg is a registered trademark, and may not be used if you charge for an eBook, except by following the terms of the trademark license, including paying royalties for use of the Project Gutenberg trademark. If you do not charge anything for copies of this eBook, complying with the trademark license is very easy. You may use this eBook for nearly any purpose such as creation of derivative works, reports, performances and research. Project Gutenberg eBooks may be modified and printed and given away—you may do practically ANYTHING in the United States with eBooks not protected by U.S. copyright law. Redistribution is subject to the trademark license, especially commercial redistribution.

START: FULL LICENSE

THE FULL PROJECT GUTENBERG™ LICENSE

PLEASE READ THIS BEFORE YOU DISTRIBUTE OR USE THIS WORK

To protect the Project Gutenberg™ mission of promoting the free distribution of electronic works, by using or distributing this work (or any other work associated in any way with the phrase “Project Gutenberg”), you agree to comply with all the terms of the Full Project Gutenberg License available with this file or online at www.gutenberg.org/license.

Section 1. General Terms of Use and Redistributing Project Gutenberg electronic works

1.A. By reading or using any part of this Project Gutenberg electronic work, you indicate that you have read, understand, agree to and accept all the terms of this license and intellectual property (trademark/copyright) agreement. If you do not agree to abide by all the terms of this agreement, you must cease using and return or destroy all copies of Project Gutenberg electronic works in your possession. If you paid a fee for obtaining a copy of or access to a Project Gutenberg electronic work and you do not agree to be bound by the terms of this agreement, you may obtain a refund from the person or entity to whom you paid the fee as set forth in paragraph 1.E.8.

1.B. “Project Gutenberg” is a registered trademark. It may only be used on or associated in any way with an electronic work by people who agree to be bound by the terms of this agreement. There are a few things that you can do with most Project Gutenberg electronic works even without complying with the full terms of this agreement. See paragraph 1.C below. There are a lot of things you can do with Project Gutenberg electronic works if you follow the terms of this agreement and help preserve free future access to Project Gutenberg electronic works. See paragraph 1.E below.

1.C. The Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation (“the Foundation” or PGLAF), owns a compilation copyright in the collection of Project Gutenberg electronic works. Nearly all the individual works in the collection are in the public domain in the United States. If an individual work is unprotected by copyright law in the United States and you are located in the United States, we do not claim a right to prevent you from copying, distributing, performing, displaying or creating derivative works based on the work as long as all references to Project Gutenberg are removed. Of course, we hope that you will support the Project Gutenberg mission of promoting free access to electronic works by freely sharing Project Gutenberg works in compliance with the terms of this agreement for keeping the Project Gutenberg name associated with the work. You can easily comply with the terms of this agreement by keeping this work in the same format with its attached full Project Gutenberg License when you share it without charge with others.

1.D. The copyright laws of the place where you are located also govern what you can do with this work. Copyright laws in most countries are in a constant state of change. If you are outside the United States, check the laws of your country in addition to the terms of this agreement before downloading, copying, displaying, performing, distributing or creating derivative works based on this work or any other Project Gutenberg work. The Foundation makes no representations concerning the copyright status of any work in any country other than the United States.

1.E. Unless you have removed all references to Project Gutenberg:

1.E.1. The following sentence, with active links to, or other immediate access to, the full Project Gutenberg License must appear prominently whenever any copy of a Project Gutenberg work (any work on which the phrase “Project Gutenberg” appears, or with which the phrase “Project Gutenberg” is associated) is accessed, displayed, performed, viewed, copied or distributed:

This eBook is for the use of anyone anywhere in the United States and most other parts of the world at no cost and with almost no restrictions whatsoever. You may copy it, give it away or re-use it under the terms of the Project Gutenberg™ License included with this eBook or online at www.gutenberg.org. If you are not located in the United States, you will have to check the laws of the country where you are located before using this eBook.

1.E.2. If an individual Project Gutenberg electronic work is derived from texts not protected by U.S. copyright law (does not contain a notice indicating that it is posted with permission of the copyright holder), the work can be copied and distributed to anyone in the United States without paying any fees or charges. If you are redistributing or providing access to a work with the phrase “Project Gutenberg” associated with or appearing on the work, you must comply either with the requirements of paragraphs 1.E.1 through 1.E.7 or obtain permission for the use of the work and the Project Gutenberg trademark as set forth in paragraphs 1.E.8 or 1.E.9.

1.E.3. If an individual Project Gutenberg electronic work is posted with the permission of the copyright holder, your use and distribution must comply with both paragraphs 1.E.1 through 1.E.7 and any additional terms imposed by the copyright holder. Additional terms will be linked to the Project Gutenberg License for all works posted with the permission of the copyright holder found at the beginning of this work.

1.E.4. Do not unlink or detach or remove the full Project Gutenberg License terms from this work, or any files containing a part of this work or any other work associated with Project Gutenberg.

1.E.5. Do not copy, display, perform, distribute or redistribute this electronic work, or any part of this electronic work, without prominently displaying the sentence set forth in paragraph 1.E.1 with active links or immediate access to the full terms of the Project Gutenberg License.

1.E.6. You may convert to and distribute this work in any binary, compressed, marked up, nonproprietary or proprietary form, including any word processing or hypertext form. However, if you provide access to or distribute copies of a Project Gutenberg work in a format other than “Plain Vanilla ASCII” or other format used in the official version posted on the official Project Gutenberg website (www.gutenberg.org), you must, at no additional cost, fee or expense to the user, provide a copy, a means of exporting a copy, or a means of obtaining a copy upon request, of the work in its original “Plain Vanilla ASCII” or other form. Any alternate format must include the full Project Gutenberg License as specified in paragraph 1.E.1.

1.E.7. Do not charge a fee for access to, viewing, displaying, performing, copying or distributing any Project Gutenberg works unless you comply with paragraph 1.E.8 or 1.E.9.

1.E.8. You may charge a reasonable fee for copies of or providing access to or distributing Project Gutenberg electronic works provided that:

- You pay a royalty fee of 20% of the gross profits you derive from the use of Project Gutenberg works calculated using the method you already use to calculate your applicable taxes. The fee is owed to the owner of the Project Gutenberg trademark, but he has agreed to donate royalties under this paragraph to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation. Royalty payments must be paid within 60 days following each date on which you prepare (or are legally required to prepare) your periodic tax returns. Royalty payments should be clearly marked as such and sent to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation at the address specified in Section 4, “Information about donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation.”
- You provide a full refund of any money paid by a user who notifies you in writing (or by e-mail) within 30 days of receipt that s/he does not agree to the terms of the full Project Gutenberg™ License. You must require such a user to return or destroy all copies of the works possessed in a physical medium and discontinue all use of and all access to other copies of Project Gutenberg™ works.
- You provide, in accordance with paragraph 1.F.3, a full refund of any money paid for a work or a replacement copy, if a defect in the electronic work is discovered and reported to you within 90 days of receipt of the work.

- You comply with all other terms of this agreement for free distribution of Project Gutenberg™ works.

1.E.9. If you wish to charge a fee or distribute a Project Gutenberg™ electronic work or group of works on different terms than are set forth in this agreement, you must obtain permission in writing from the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, the manager of the Project Gutenberg™ trademark. Contact the Foundation as set forth in Section 3 below.

1.F.

1.F.1. Project Gutenberg volunteers and employees expend considerable effort to identify, do copyright research on, transcribe and proofread works not protected by U.S. copyright law in creating the Project Gutenberg™ collection. Despite these efforts, Project Gutenberg™ electronic works, and the medium on which they may be stored, may contain “Defects,” such as, but not limited to, incomplete, inaccurate or corrupt data, transcription errors, a copyright or other intellectual property infringement, a defective or damaged disk or other medium, a computer virus, or computer codes that damage or cannot be read by your equipment.

1.F.2. LIMITED WARRANTY, DISCLAIMER OF DAMAGES - Except for the “Right of Replacement or Refund” described in paragraph 1.F.3, the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, the owner of the Project Gutenberg™ trademark, and any other party distributing a Project Gutenberg™ electronic work under this agreement, disclaim all liability to you for damages, costs and expenses, including legal fees. YOU AGREE THAT YOU HAVE NO REMEDIES FOR NEGLIGENCE, STRICT LIABILITY, BREACH OF WARRANTY OR BREACH OF CONTRACT EXCEPT THOSE PROVIDED IN PARAGRAPH 1.F.3. YOU AGREE THAT THE FOUNDATION, THE TRADEMARK OWNER, AND ANY DISTRIBUTOR UNDER THIS AGREEMENT WILL NOT BE LIABLE TO YOU FOR ACTUAL, DIRECT, INDIRECT, CONSEQUENTIAL, PUNITIVE OR INCIDENTAL DAMAGES

EVEN IF YOU GIVE NOTICE OF THE POSSIBILITY OF SUCH DAMAGE.

1.F.3. LIMITED RIGHT OF REPLACEMENT OR REFUND - If you discover a defect in this electronic work within 90 days of receiving it, you can receive a refund of the money (if any) you paid for it by sending a written explanation to the person you received the work from. If you received the work on a physical medium, you must return the medium with your written explanation. The person or entity that provided you with the defective work may elect to provide a replacement copy in lieu of a refund. If you received the work electronically, the person or entity providing it to you may choose to give you a second opportunity to receive the work electronically in lieu of a refund. If the second copy is also defective, you may demand a refund in writing without further opportunities to fix the problem.

1.F.4. Except for the limited right of replacement or refund set forth in paragraph 1.F.3, this work is provided to you 'AS-IS', WITH NO OTHER WARRANTIES OF ANY KIND, EXPRESS OR IMPLIED, INCLUDING BUT NOT LIMITED TO WARRANTIES OF MERCHANTABILITY OR FITNESS FOR ANY PURPOSE.

1.F.5. Some states do not allow disclaimers of certain implied warranties or the exclusion or limitation of certain types of damages. If any disclaimer or limitation set forth in this agreement violates the law of the state applicable to this agreement, the agreement shall be interpreted to make the maximum disclaimer or limitation permitted by the applicable state law. The invalidity or unenforceability of any provision of this agreement shall not void the remaining provisions.

1.F.6. INDEMNITY - You agree to indemnify and hold the Foundation, the trademark owner, any agent or employee of the Foundation, anyone providing copies of Project Gutenberg™ electronic works in accordance with this agreement, and any volunteers associated with the production, promotion and distribution of Project Gutenberg™ electronic works, harmless from all liability, costs and expenses, including legal fees, that arise directly or indirectly from any of the following which you do or cause to occur: (a) distribution of this or any Project Gutenberg work, (b) alteration, modification, or additions or deletions to any Project Gutenberg work, and (c) any Defect you cause.

Section 2. Information about the Mission of Project Gutenberg

Project Gutenberg is synonymous with the free distribution of electronic works in formats readable by the widest variety of computers including obsolete, old, middle-aged and new computers. It exists because of the efforts of hundreds of volunteers and donations from people in all walks of life.

Volunteers and financial support to provide volunteers with the assistance they need are critical to reaching Project Gutenberg's goals and ensuring that the Project Gutenberg collection will remain freely available for generations to come. In 2001, the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation was created to provide a secure and permanent future for Project Gutenberg and future generations. To learn more about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation and how your efforts and donations can help, see Sections 3 and 4 and the Foundation information page at www.gutenberg.org.

Section 3. Information about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

The Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation is a non-profit 501(c)(3) educational corporation organized under the laws of the state of Mississippi and granted tax exempt status by the Internal Revenue Service. The Foundation's EIN or federal tax identification number is 64-6221541. Contributions to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation are tax deductible to the full extent permitted by U.S. federal laws and your state's laws.

The Foundation's business office is located at 41 Watchung Plaza #516, Montclair NJ 07042, USA, +1 (862) 621-9288. Email contact links and up to date contact information can be found at the Foundation's website and official page at www.gutenberg.org/contact

Section 4. Information about Donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

Project Gutenberg™ depends upon and cannot survive without widespread public support and donations to carry out its mission of increasing the number of public domain and licensed works that can be freely distributed in machine-readable form accessible by the widest array of equipment including outdated equipment. Many small donations ($1 to $5,000) are particularly important to maintaining tax exempt status with the IRS.

The Foundation is committed to complying with the laws regulating charities and charitable donations in all 50 states of the United States. Compliance requirements are not uniform and it takes a considerable effort, much paperwork and many fees to meet and keep up with these requirements. We do not solicit donations in locations where we have not received written confirmation of compliance. To SEND DONATIONS or determine the status of compliance for any particular state visit www.gutenberg.org/donate.

While we cannot and do not solicit contributions from states where we have not met the solicitation requirements, we know of no prohibition against accepting unsolicited donations from donors in such states who approach us with offers to donate.

International donations are gratefully accepted, but we cannot make any statements concerning tax treatment of donations received from outside the United States. U.S. laws alone swamp our small staff.

Please check the Project Gutenberg web pages for current donation methods and addresses. Donations are accepted in a number of other ways including checks, online payments and credit card donations. To donate, please visit: www.gutenberg.org/donate.

Section 5. General Information About Project Gutenberg electronic works

Professor Michael S. Hart was the originator of the Project Gutenberg concept of a library of electronic works that could be freely shared with anyone. For forty years, he produced and distributed Project Gutenberg eBooks with only a loose network of volunteer support.

Project Gutenberg eBooks are often created from several printed editions, all of which are confirmed as not protected by copyright in the U.S. unless a copyright notice is included. Thus, we do not necessarily keep eBooks in compliance with any particular paper edition.

Most people start at our website which has the main PG search facility: www.gutenberg.org.

This website includes information about Project Gutenberg, including how to make donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, how to help produce our new eBooks, and how to subscribe to our email newsletter to hear about new eBooks.