

Rule a Wife, and Have a Wife

John Fletcher

Project Gutenberg

Rule a Wife, and Have a Wife

John Fletcher

Project Gutenberg

The Project Gutenberg eBook of Rule a Wife, and Have a Wife

This eBook is for the use of anyone anywhere in the United States and most other parts of the world at no cost and with almost no restrictions whatsoever. You may copy it, give it away or re-use it under the terms of the Project Gutenberg License included with this eBook or online at www.gutenberg.org. If you are not located in the United States, you will have to check the laws of the country where you are located before using this eBook.

Title: Rule a Wife, and Have a Wife

Author: John Fletcher

Release date: January 1, 2005 [eBook #14549]

Most recently updated: October 28, 2024

Language: English

Other information and formats: www.gutenberg.org/ebooks/14549

Credits: Produced by Jonathan Ingram, Paul Murray and the Online Distributed Proofreading Team

 START OF THE PROJECT GUTENBERG EBOOK RULE A WIFE, AND HAVE A WIFE ***

Rule a Wife, and have a Wife

The works of Beaumont and Fletcher, edited by A.R. Walker

Actus Primus

Scena Prima

Enter Juan de Castro, and Michael Perez.

Michael Perez

Are your Companies full, Colonel?

Juan de Castro

No, not yet, Sir:
Nor will not be this month yet, as I reckon;
How rises your Command?

Michael Perez

We pick up still, and as our monies hold out,
We have men come, about that time I think
We shall be full too, many young Gallants go.

Juan de Castro

And unexperienced,
The Wars are dainty dreams to young hot spirits,
Time and Experience will allay those Visions,
We have strange things to fill our numbers,
There's one Don Leon, a strange goodly fellow,
Recommended to me from some noble Friends,
For my Alferes, had you but seen his Person,
And what a Giants promise it protesteth.

Michael Perez

I have heard of him, and that he hath serv'd before too.

Juan de Castro

But no harm done, nor never meant, Don Michael,
That came to my ears yet, ask him a question,
He blushes like a Girl, and answers little,
To the point less, he wears a Sword, a good one,
And good Cloaths too, he is whole skin'd, has no hurt yet,
Good promising hopes, I never yet heard certainly
Of any Gentleman that saw him angry.

hael Perez

Preserve him, he'll conclude a peace if need be,
Many as strong as he will go along with us,
That swear as valiantly as heart can wish,
Their mouths charg'd with six oaths at once, and whole ones,
That make the drunken Dutch creep into Mole-hills.

n de Castro

'Tis true, such we must look for: but Mich. Perez, When heard you of Donna Margarita, the great Heiress?

hael Perez

I hear every hour of her, though I never saw her,
She is the main discourse: noble Don Juan de Castro,
How happy were that man could catch this Wench up,
And live at ease! she is fair, and young, and wealthy,
Infinite wealthy, and as gracious too
In all her entertainments, as men report.

n de Castro

But she is proud, Sir, that I know for certain,
And that comes seldome without wantonness,
He that shall marry her, must have a rare hand.

hael Perez

Would I were married, I would find that Wisdom,
With a light rein to rule my Wife: if ever Woman
Of the most subtile mould went beyond me,
I would give the Boys leave to whoot me out o'th' Parish.

Enter a Servant.

Ant

Sir, there be two Gentlewomen attend to speak
With you.

Don de Castro

Wait on 'em in.

Don Perez

Are they two handsome Women?

Ant

They seem so, very handsom, but they are vail'd, Sir.

Don Perez

Thou put'st sugar in my mouth, how it melts with me!
I love a sweet young Wench.

Don de Castro

Wait on them in I say.

[Exit Servant.]

Don Perez

Don Juan.

Don de Castro

How you itch, Michael! how you burnish!
Will not this Souldiers heat out of your bones yet,
Do your Eyes glow now?

Don Perez

There be two.

Don de Castro

Say honest, what shame have you then?

Don Perez

I would fain see that,
I have been in the Indies twice, and have seen strange things,

But two honest Women;--one I read of once.

n de Castro

Prithee be modest.

hael Perez

I'll be any thing.

Enter Servant, Donna Clara, and Estifania vail'd.

n de Castro

You are welcome Ladies.

hael Perez

Both hooded, I like 'em well though,
They come not for advice in Law sure hither;
May be they would learn to raise the Pike,
I am for 'em: they are very modest, 'tis a fine Preludium.

n de Castro

With me, or with this Gentleman,
Would you speak, Lady?

ra

With you, Sir, as I guess, Juan de Castro.

hael Perez

Her Curtain opens, she is a pretty Gentlewoman.

n de Castro

I am the Man, and shall be bound to Fortune,
I may do any service to your Beauties.

ra

Captain, I hear you are marching down to Flanders,
To serve the Catholick King.

n de Castro

I am sweet Lady.

ra

I have a Kinsman, and a noble Friend,
Imploy'd in those Wars, may be, Sir, you know him,
Don Campusano Captain of Carbines,
To whom I would request your Nobleness,
To give this poor Remembrance.

[A Letter.

n de Castro

I shall do it,
I know the Gentleman, a most worthy Captain.

ra

Something in private.

n de Castro

Step aside: I'll serve thee.

[Ex. Juan, and Clara.

hael Perez

Prithee let me see thy face.

fania

Sir, you must pardon me,
Women of our sort, that maintain fair memories,
And keep suspect off from their Chastities,
Had need wear thicker Vails.

hael Perez

I am no blaster of a Ladies Beauty,
Nor bold intruder on her special favours,
I know how tender Reputation is,
And with what guards it ought to be preserv'd, Lady,
You may to me.

fania

You must excuse me, Seignior, I come Not here to sell my self.

hael Perez

As I am a Gentleman, by the honour of a Souldier.

fania

I believe you,
I pray you be civil, I believe you would see me,
And when you have seen me I believe you will like me,
But in a strange place, to a stranger too,
As if I came on purpose to betray you, Indeed I will not.

hael Perez

I shall love you dearly,
And 'tis a sin to fling away affection,
I have no Mistress, no desire to honour
Any but you, will not this Oyster open?
I know not, you have struck me with your modesty;
She will draw sure; so deep, and taken from me
All the desire I might bestow on others, Quickly before they come.

fania

Indeed I dare not:
But since I see you are so desirous, Sir,
To view a poor face that can merit nothing But your Repentance.

hael Perez

It must needs be excellent.

fania

And with what honesty you ask it of me,
When I am gone let your man follow me,
And view what house I enter, thither come,
For there I dare be bold to appear open:
And as I like your vertuous carriage then,

Enter Juan, Clara, a Servant.

I shall be able to give welcome to you;
She hath done her business, I must take my leave, Sir.

hael Perez

I'll kiss your fair white hand and thank you, Lady.
My man shall wait, and I shall be your Servant;
Sirrah, come near, hark.

vant

I shall do it faithfully.

[Exit.

n de Castro

You will command me no more services?

ra

To be careful of your noble health, dear Sir,
That I may ever honour you.

n de Castro

I thank you,
And kiss your hands, wait on the Ladies down there.

[Exeunt Ladies, and Servants.

hael Perez

You had the honour to see the face that came to you?

n de Castro

And 'twas a fair one; what was yours, Don Michael?

hael Perez

Mine was i'th' clipse, and had a Cloud drawn over it.
But I believe well, and I hope 'tis handsome,
She had a hand would stir a holy Hermite.

n de Castro

You know none of 'em?

hael Perez

No.

n de Castro

Then I do, Captain,
But I'll say nothing till I see the proof on't, Sit close Don Perez, or your Worship's caught.
I fear a Flye.

hael Perez

Were those she brought Love-Letters?

n de Castro

A Packet to a Kinsman now in Flanders, Yours was very modest methought.

hael Perez

Some young unmanag'd thing,
But I may live to see--

n de Castro

'Tis worth experience,
Let's walk abroad and view our Companies.

[Exeunt.

Enter Sanchio, and Alonzo.

chio

What, are you for the Wars, Alonzo?

lonzo

It may be I,
It may be no, e'n as the humour takes me.
If I find peace amongst the female Creatures,
And easie entertainment, I'll stay at home,

I am not so far obliged yet to long Marches
And mouldy Biskets, to run mad for Honour,
When you are all gone I have my choice before me.

chio

Of which Hospital thou wilt sweat in; wilt thou Never leave whoring?

120

There is less danger in't than gunning, Sanchio,
Though we be shot sometimes, the shot's not mortal,
Besides, it breaks no limbs.

chio

But it disables 'em,
Dost thou see how thou pull'st thy legs after thee, as they Hung by points.

120

Better to pull 'em thus than walk on wooden ones, Serve bravely for a Billet to support me.

chio

Fye, fye, 'tis base.

120

Dost thou count it base to suffer?
Suffer abundantly? 'tis the Crown of Honour;
You think it nothing to lie twenty days
Under a Surgeons hands that has no mercy.

chio

As thou hast done I am sure, but I perceive now
Why you desire to stay, the orient Heiress,
The Margarita, Sir,

120

I would I had her.

chio

They say she will marry.

120

I think she will.

chio

And marry suddenly, as report goes too,
She fears her Youth will not hold out, Alonzo.

120

I would I had the sheathing on't.

chio

They say too
She has a greedy eye that must be fed
With more than one mans meat.

120

Would she were mine,
I would cater for her well enough; but Sanchio,
There be too many great men that adore her,
Princes, and Princes fellows, that claim priviledge.

chio

Yet those stand off i'th' way of marriage,
To be tyed to a man's pleasure is a second labour.

120

She has bought a brave house here in town.

chio

I have heard so.

120

If she convert it now to pious uses,
And bid poor Gentlemen welcome.

chio

When comes she to it?

120

Within these two days, she is in the Country yet,
And keeps the noblest House.

chio

Then there's some hope of her,
Wilt thou go my way?

izo

No, no, I must leave you,
And repair to an old Gentlewoman
That has credit with her, that can speak a good word.

chio

Send thee good fortune, but make thy Body sound first.

izo

I am a Souldier,
And too sound a Body becomes me not;
Farewel, Sanchio.

[Exeunt.

Enter a Servant of Michael Perez.

ant

'Tis this or that house, or I have lost my aim,
They are both fair buildings, she walked plaguy fast,

Enter Estifania.

And hereabouts I lost her; stay, that's she,
'Tis very she,--she makes me a low court'sie,
Let me note the place, the street I well remember.

[Exit.

She is in again, certain some noble Lady.
How happy should I be if she love my master:

A wondrous goodly house, here are brave lodgings,
And I shall sleep now like an Emperour,
And eat abundantly: I thank my fortune,
I'll back with speed, and bring him happy tidings.

[Exit.

Enter three old Ladies.

Idy

What should it mean, that in such haste
We are sent for?

Idy

Belike the Lady Margaret has some business
She would break to us in private.

Idy

It should seem so.
'Tis a good Lady, and a wise young Lady.

Idy

And vertuous enough too I warrant ye
For a young Woman of her years; 'tis pity
To load her tender Age with too much Vertue.

Idy

'Tis more sometimes than we can well away with.

Enter Altea.

a

Good morrow, Ladies.

'Morrow, my good Madam.

Idy

How does the sweet young Beauty, Lady Margaret?

Idy

Has she slept well after her walk last night?

Idy

Are her dreams gentle to her mind?

a

All's well,
She's very well, she sent for you thus suddenly
To give her counsel in a business
That much concerns her.

Idy

She does well and wisely,
To ask the counsel of the ancientst, Madam,
Our years have run through many things she knows not.

a

She would fain marry.

Idy

'Tis a proper calling,
And well beseems her years, who would she yoke with?

a

That's left to argue on, I pray come in And break your fast, drink a good cup or two,
To strengthen your understandings, then she'l tell ye.

Idy

And good wine breeds good counsel.
We'l yield to ye.

[Exeunt.]

Enter Juan de Castro, and Leon.

n de Castro

Have you seen any service?

n

Yes.

n de Castro

Where?

n

Every where.

n de Castro

What office bore ye?

n

None, I was not worthy.

n de Castro

What Captains know you?

n

None, they were above me.

n de Castro

Were you never hurt?

n

Not that I well remember,
But once I stole a Hen, and then they beat me;
Pray ask me no long questions, I have an ill memory.

n de Castro

This is an Asse, did you never draw your sword yet?

n

Not to do any harm I thank Heaven for't.

n de Castro

Nor ne'r ta'ne prisoner?

n

No, I ran away,
For I had ne'r no mony to redeem me.

n de Castro

Can you endure a Drum?

n

It makes my head ake.

n de Castro

Are you not valiant when you are drunk?

n

I think not, but I am loving Sir.

n de Castro

What a lump is this man,
Was your Father wise?

n

Too wise for me I'm sure,
For he gave all he had to my younger Brother.

n de Castro

That was no foolish part I'll bear you witness.
Canst thou lye with a woman?

n

I think I could make shift Sir,
But I am bashfull.

n de Castro

In the night?

n

I know not,
Darkness indeed may do some good upon me.

n de Castro

Why art thou sent to me to be my officer,
I, and commended too, when thou darst not fight?

n

There be more officers of my opinion,
Or I am cozen'd Sir, men that talk more too.

n de Castro

How wilt thou scape a bullet?

n

Why by chance,
They aim at honourable men, alas I am none Sir.

n de Castro

This fellow has some doubts in's talk that strike me,

Enter Alonzo.

He cannot be all fool: welcom Alonzo.

120

What have you got there, temperance into your company?
The spirit of peace? we shall have wars

Enter Cacafofo.

By th'ounce then. O here's another pumpion,
Let him loose for luck sake, the cram'd son
Of a stay'd Usurer, Cacafofo, both their brains butter'd, Cannot make two spoonfulls.

afogo

My Father's dead: I am a man of war too,
Monyes, demesns; I have ships at sea too, Captains.

n de Castro

Take heed o'th' Hollanders, your ships may leak else.

afogo

I scorn the Hollanders, they are my drunkards.

120

Put up your gold Sir, I'll borrow it else.

afogo

I am satisfied, you shall not,
Come out, I know thee, meet mine anger instantly.

n

I never wrong'd ye.

afogo

Thou hast wrong'd mine honor,
Thou look'dst upon my Mistris thrice lasciviously, I'll make it good.

n de Castro

Do not hea[t] your self, you will surfeit.

afogo

Thou wan'st my mony too, with a pair of base bones,
In whom there was no truth, for which I beat thee,
I beat thee much, now I will hurt thee dangerously.
This shall provoke thee.

[He strikes.

120

You struck too low by a foot Sir.

n de Castro

You must get a ladder when you would beat
This fellow.

n

I cannot chuse but kick again, pray pardon me.

afogo

Had'st thou not ask'd my pardon, I had kill'd thee,
I leave thee as a thing despis'd, assoles manus a vostra siniare a Maistre.

[Exit .

120

You have scap'd by miracle, there is not in all Spain,
A spirit of more fury than this fire drake.

n

I see he is hasty, and I would give him leave
To beat me soundly if he would take my bond.

n de Castro

What shall I do with this fellow?

120

Turn him off,
He will infect the camp with cowardise,
If he goe with thee.

n de Castro

About some week hence Sir,
If I can hit upon no abler officer,
You shall hear from me.

n

I desire no better.

[Exit.

Enter Estifania, and Perez.

hael Perez

You have made me now too bountifull amends, Lady
For your strict carriage when you saw me first,
These beauties were not meant to be conceal'd,
It was a wrong to hide so sweet an object,
I cou'd now chide ye, but it shall be thus,
No other anger ever touch your sweetness.

fania

You appear to me so honest, and so civil,
Without a blush Sir, I dare bid ye welcom.

hael Perez

Now let me ask your name.

fania

'Tis Estifanie, the heir of this poor place.

hael Perez

Poor do you call it?
There's nothing that I cast mine eyes upon,
But shews both rich and admirable, all the rooms
Are hung as if a Princess were to dwell here,
The Gardens, Orchards, every thing so curious:
Is all that plate your own too?

fania

'Tis but little,
Only for present use, I have more and richer,
When need shall call, or friends compel me use it,
The sutes you see of all the upper chamber,
Are those that commonly adorn the house,
I think I have besides, as fair, as civil,
As any town in Spain can parallel.

hael Perez

Now if she be not married, I have some hopes.
Are you a maid?

fania

You make me blush to answer,
I ever was accounted so to this hour,
And that's the reason that I live retir'd Sir.

hael Perez

Then would I counsel you to marry presently,
(If I can get her, I am made for ever)
For every year you lose, you lose a beauty,

A Husband now, an honest careful Husband,
Were such a comfort: will ye walk above stairs?

fania

This place will fit our talk, 'tis fitter far Sir, Above there are day-beds, and such temptations
I dare not trust Sir.

hael Perez

She is excellent wise withal too.

fania

You nam'd a husband, I am not so strict Sir,
Nor ti'd unto a Virgins solitariness,
But if an honest, and a noble one,
Rich, and a souldier, for so I have vowed he shall be,
Were offer'd me, I think I should accept him,
But above all he must love.

hael Perez

He were base else,
There's comfort ministred in the word souldier,
How sweetly should I live!

fania

I am not so ignorant, but that I know well,
How to be commanded,
And how again to make my self obey'd Sir,
I waste but little, I have gather'd much,
My rial not the less worth, when 'tis spent,
If spent by my direction, to please my Husband,
I hold it as indifferent in my duty,
To be his maid i'th' kitchen, or his Cook,
As in the Hall to know my self the Mistris.

hael Perez

Sweet, rich, and provident, now fortune stick
To me; I am a Souldier, and a bachelour, Lady,
And such a wife as you, I cou'd love infinitely,

They that use many words, some are deceitfull,
I long to be a Husband, and a good one,
For 'tis most certain I shall make a president
For all that follow me to love their Ladies,
I am young you see, able I would have you think too,
If't please you know, try me before you take me.
'Tis true I shall not meet in equal wealth
With ye, but Jewels, Chains, such as the war
Has given me, a thousand Duckets I dare Presume on in ready gold, now as your Care may handle it, as rich cloths too, as Any he bears arms Lady.

fania

You are a true gentleman, and fair, I see by ye,
And such a man I had rather take.

hael Perez

Pray do so, I'll have a Priest o'th' sudden.

fania

And as suddenly you will repent too.

hael Perez

I'll be hang'd or drown'd first,
By this and this, and this kiss.

fania

You are a Flatterer,
But I must say there was something when I saw you
First, in that most noble face, that stirr'd my fancy.

hael Perez

I'll stir it better e're you sleep sweet Lady,
I'll send for all my trunks and give up all to ye,
Into your own dispose, before I bed ye,
And then sweet wench.

fania

You have the art to cozen me.

[Exeunt.

Actus Secundus

Scena Prima

Enter Margarita, and two Ladies, and Altea.

Margarita

Sit down and give me your opinions seriously.

Idy

You say you have a mind to marry Lady.

Margarita

'Tis true, I have for to preserve my credit, Yet not so much for that as for my state Ladies,
Conceive me right, there lies the main o'th' question,
Credit I can redeem, mony will imp it,
But when my monie's gone, when the law shall Seize that, and for incontineny strip me
Of all.

Idy

Do you find your body so malicious that way?

Margarita

I find it as all bodies are that are young and lusty,
Lazy, and high fed, I desire my pleasure,
And pleasure I must have.

Idy

'Tis fit you should have,
Your years require it, and 'tis necessary,
As necessary as meat to a young Lady,
Sleep cannot nourish more.

Idy

But might not all this be, and keep ye single.
You take away variety in marriage,
The abundance of the pleasure you are bar'd then,
Is't not abundance that you aim at?

garita

Yes why was I made a woman?

Idy

And every day a new?

garita

Why fair and young but to use it?

Idy

You are still i'th' right, why would you marry then?

a

Because a husband stops all doubts in this point,
And clears all passages.

Idy

What Husband mean ye?

a

A Husband of an easy faith, a fool,
Made by her wealth, and moulded to her pleasure,
One though he see himself become a monster,
Shall hold the door, and entertain the maker.

Idy

You grant there may be such a man.

Idy

Yes marry, but how to bring 'em to this rare Perfection.

Idy

They must be chosen so, things of no honour,
Nor outward honesty.

Garita

No 'tis no matter,
I care not what they are, so they be lusty.

Idy

Me thinks now a rich Lawyer, some such fellow,
That carries credit, and a face of awe,
But lies with nothing but his clients business.

Garita

No there's no trusting them, they are too subtil,
The Law has moulded 'em of natural mischief.

Idy

Then some grave governor,
Some man of honour, yet an easy man.

Garita

If he have honour I am undone, I'le none such, I'le have a lusty man, honour will cloy me.\

a

'Tis fit ye should Lady;
And to that end, with search and wit and labour,
I have found one out, a right one and a perfect,
He is made as strong as brass, is of brave years too,
And doughty of complexion.

Garita

Is he a Gentleman?

a

Yes and a souldier, as gentle as you would wish him,
A good fellow, wears good cloaths.

Garita

Those I'll allow him,
They are for my credit, does he understand
But little?

a

Very little.

'garita

'Tis the better,
Have not the wars bred him up to anger?

120

No, he will not quarrel with a dog that bites hi[m],
Let him be drunk or sober, is one silence.

'garita

H'as no capacity what honor is?
For that's the Souldiers god.

a

Honour's a thing too subtil for his wisdom,
If honour lye in eating, he is right honourable.

'garita

Is he so goodly a man do you say?

a

As you shall see Lady,
But to all this is but a trunk.

'garita

I would have him so,
I shall adde branches to him to adorn him,
Goe, find me out this man, and let me see him,
If he be that motion that you tell me of,
And make no more noise, I shall entertain him, Let him be here.

a

He shall attend your Ladship.

[Exeunt.

Enter Juan, Alonzo, and Perez.

n de Castro

Why thou art not married indeed?

hael Perez

No, no, pray think so,
Alas I am a fellow of no reckoning,
Not worth a Ladies eye.

Alonzo

Wou'dst thou steal a fortune,
And make none of all thy friends acquainted with it,
Nor bid us to thy wedding?

hael Perez

No indeed,
There was no wisdom in't, to bid an Artist,
An old seducer to a femal banquet,
I can cut up my pye without your instructions.

n de Castro

Was it the wench i'th' veil?

hael Perez

Basto 'twas she,
The prettiest Rogue that e're you look'd upon,
The lovingst thief.

n de Castro

And is she rich withal too?

hael Perez

A mine, a mine, there is no end of wealth Coronel,
I am an asse, a bashfull fool, prethee Coronel,
How do thy compa[ni]es fill now?

n de Castro

You are merry Sir,
You intend a safer war at home belike now.

hael Perez

I do not think I shall fight much this year Coronel,
I find my self given to my ease a little,
I care not if I sell my foolish company,
They are things of hazard.

120

How it angers me,
This fellow at first fight should win a Lady,
A rich young wench, and I that have consum'd
My time and art in searching out their subtleties,
Like a fool'd Alchymist blow up my hopes still?
When shall we come to thy house and be freely merry?

hael Perez

When I have manag'd her a little more,
I have an house to entertain an army.

120

If thy wife be fair, thou wilt have few less Come to thee.

hael Perez

But where they'l get entertainment is the point Signior.
I beat no Drum.

120

You need none but her taber,
May be I'll march after a month or two,
To get me a fresh stomach. I find Coronel
A wantonness in wealth, methinks I agree not with,
'Tis such a trouble to be married too,
And have a thousand things of great importance,
Jewels and plates, and fooleries molest me,

To have a mans brains whimsied with his wealth:
Before I walk'd contentedly.

Enter Servant.

Servant

My Mistris Sir is sick, because you are absent,
She mourns and will not eat.

Isabel Perez

Alas my Jewel,
Come I'll goe with thee, Gentlemen your fair leaves,
You see I am tied a little to my yoke,
Pray pardon me, would ye had both such loving wives.

Alonso de Castro

I thank ye

[Exit Perez, Servant.]

For your old boots, never be blank Alonso,
Because this fellow has outstript thy fortune,
Tell me ten daies hence what he is, and how
The gracious state of matrimony stands with him, Come, let's to dinner, when Margarita comes We'll visit both, it may be then your fortune.

[Exeunt.]

Enter Margarita, Altea, and Ladies.

Margarita

Is he come?

Altea

Yes Madam, he's been here this half hour,
I have question'd him of all that you can ask him,

And find him as fit as you had made the man,
He will make the goodliest shadow for iniquity.

garita

Have ye searcht him Ladies?

nes

Is a man at all points, a likely man.

garita

Call him in Altea.

[Exit Lady.

Enter Leon, Altea.

A man of a good presence, pray ye come this way,
Of a lusty body, is his mind so tame?

a

Pray ye question him, and if you find him not Fit for your purpose, shake him off, there's no harm Done.

garita

Can you love a young Lady? How he blushes!

a

Leave twirling of your hat, and hold your head up,
And speak to'th' Lady.

n

Yes, I think I can,
I must be taught, I know not what it means Madam.

garita

You shall be taught, and can you when she pleases Go ride abroad, and stay a week or two?

You shall have men and horses to attend ye,
And mony in your purse.

n

Yes I love riding,
And when I am from home I am so merry.

garita

Be as merry as you will: can you as handsomely
When you are sent for back, come with obedience,
And doe your dutie to the Lady loves you?

n

Yes sure, I shall.

garita

And when you see her friends here,
Or noble kinsmen, can you entertain
Their servants in the Celler, and be busied,
And hold your peace, what e're you see or hear of?

n

'Twere fit I were hang'd else.

garita

Let me try your kisses,
How the fool shakes, I will not eat ye Sir,
Beshrew my heart he kisses wondrous manly,
Can ye doe any thing else?

n

Indeed I know not;
But if your Ladiship will please to instruct me,
Sure I shall learn.

garita

You shall then be instructed:
If I should be this Lady that affects ye, Nay say I marry ye?

a

Hark to the Lady.

'garita

What mony have ye?

n

None Madam, nor friends,
I wou'd doe any thing to serve your Ladiship.

'garita

You must not look to be my Mr Sir,
Nor talk i'th' house as though you wore the breeches,
No, nor command in any thing.

n

I will not,
Alas I am not able, I have no wit Madam.

'garita

Nor do not labour to arrive at any,
'Twill spoil your head, I take ye upon charity,
And like a Servant ye must be unto me,
As I behold your duty I shall love ye,
And as you observe me, I may chance lye with ye,
Can you mark these?

n

Yes indeed forsooth.

'garita

There is one thing,
That if I take ye in I put ye from me,
Utterly from me, you must not be sawcy,
No, nor at any time familiar with me,
Scarce know me, when I call ye not.

n

I will not, alas I never knew my self sufficiently.

garita

Nor must not now.

n

I'll be a Dog to please ye.

garita

Indeed you must fetch and carry as I appoint ye.

n

I were to blame else.

garita

Kiss me again; a strong fellow,
There is a vigor in his lips: if you see me
Kiss any other, twenty in an hour Sir,
You must not start, nor be offended.

n

No, if you kiss a thousand I shall be contented,
It will the better teach me how to please ye.

a

I told ye Madam.

garita

'Tis the man I wisht for; the less you speak.

n

I'll never speak again Madam,
But when you charge me, then I'll speak softly too.

garita

Get me a Priest, I'll wed him instantly,
But when you are married Sir, you must wait Upon me, and see you observe my laws.

n

Else you shall hang me.

garita

I'll give ye better clothes when you deserve 'em,
Come in, and serve for witness.

nes

We shall Madam.

'garita

And then away toth' city presently,
I'll to my new house and new company.

n

A thousand crowns are thine, and I am a made man.

a

Do not break out too soon.

n

I know my time wench.

[Exeunt.

Enter Clara, and Estifania with a paper.

'a

What, have you caught him?

fania

Yes.

'a

And do you find him
A man of those hopes that you aim'd at?

fania

Yes too,
And the most kind man, and the ablest also
To give a wife content, he is sound as old wine,
And to his soundness rises on the pallat,
And there's the man; find him rich too Clara.

ra

Hast thou married him?

fania

What dost thou think I fish without a bait wench?
I bob for fools? he is mine own, I have him,
I told thee what would tickle him like a trout,
And as I cast it so I caught him daintily,
And all he has I have 'stowed at my devotion.

ra

Does thy Lady know this? she is coming now to town,
Now to live here in this house.

fania

Let her come,
She shall be welcom, I am prepar'd for her,
She is mad sure if she be angry at my fortune,
For what I have made bold.

ra

Dost thou not love him?

fania

Yes, intirely well,
As long as there he staies and looks no farther
Into my ends, but when he doubts, I hate him,
And that wise hate will teach me how to cozen him:
How to decline their wives, and curb their manners,
To put a stern and strong reyn to their natures,
And holds he is an Asse not worth acquaintance,
That cannot mould a Devil to obedience,
I owe him a good turn for these opinions,
And as I find his temper I may pay him,

Enter Perez.

O here he is, now you shall see a kind man.

hael Perez

My Estifania, shall we to dinner lamb?
I know thou stay'st for me.

fania

I cannot eat else.

hael Perez

I never enter but me thinks a Paradise Appears about me.

fania

You are welcom to it Sir.

hael Perez

I think I have the sweetest seat in Spain wench,
Me thinks the richest too, we'l eat i'th' garden
In one o'th' arbours, there 'tis cool and pleasant,
And have our wine cold in the running fountain.
Who's that?

fania

A friend of mine Sir.

hael Perez

Of what breeding?

fania

A Gentlewoman Sir.

hael Perez

What business has she?
Is she a learned woman i'th' Mathematicks,
Can she tell fortunes?

fania

More than I know Sir.

hael Perez

Or has she e're a letter from a kinswoman,
That must be delivered in my absence wife,

Or comes she from the Doctor to salute ye,
And learn your health? she looks not like a confessor.

fania

What need all this, why are you troubled Sir?
What do you suspect, she cannot cuckold ye,
She is a woman Sir, a very woman.

hael Perez

Your very woman may do very well Sir
Toward the matter, for though she cannot perform it
In her own person, she may do it by Proxie,
Your rarest jugglers work still by conspiracy.

fania

Cry ye mercy husband, you are jealous then,
And happily suspect me.

hael Perez

No indeed wife.

fania

Me thinks you should not till you have more cause
And clearer too: I am sure you have heard say husband,
A woman forced will free her self through Iron,
A happy, calm, and good wife discontented
May be taught tricks.

hael Perez

No, no, I do but jest with ye.

fania

To morrow friend I'll see you.

hael

I shall leave ye
Till then, and pray all may goe sweetly with ye.

[Exit.]

fania

Why where's this girle, whose at the door?

[Knock.

hael Perez

Who knocks there?

Is't for the King ye come, you knock so boisterously?

Look to the door.

Enter Maid.

d

My Lady, as I live Mistris, my Ladie's come,
She's at the door, I peept through, and I saw her,
And a stately company of Ladies with her.

fania

This was a week too soon, but I must meet with her,
And set a new wheel going, and a subtile one,
Must blind this mighty Mars, or I am ruin'd.

hael Perez

What are they at door?

fania

Such my Michael
As you may bless the day they enter'd there,
Such for our good.

hael Perez

'Tis well.

fania

Nay, 'twill be better
If you will let me but dispose the business,
And be a stranger to it, and not disturb me,
What have I now to do but to advance your fortune?

hael Perez

Doe, I dare trust thee, I am asham'd I am angry,
I find thee a wise young wife.

fania

I'll wise your worship
Before I leave ye, pray ye walk by and say nothing,
Only salute them, and leave the rest to me Sir,
I was born to make ye a man.

hael Perez

The Rogue speaks heartily,
Her good will colours in her cheeks, I am born to love her,
I must be gentler to these tender natures,
A Souldiers rude harsh words befit not Ladies, Nor must we talk to them as we talk to Our Officers, I'll give her way, for 'tis for me she Works now, I am husband, heir, and all she has.

Enter Margarita, Estifania, Leon, Altea, and Ladies.

Who are these, what flanting things, a woman
Of rare presence! excellent fair, this is too big
For a bawdy house, too open seated too.

fania

My Husband, Lady.

garita

You have gain'd a proper man.

hael Perez

What e're I am, I am your servant Lady.

[kisses.

fania

Sir, be rul'd now,
And I shall make ye rich, this is my cousin,

That Gentleman dotes on her, even to death, see how he observes her.

hael Perez

She is a goodly woman.

fania

She is a mirrour,
But she is poor, she were for a Princes side else,
This house she has brought him too as to her own,
And presuming upon me, and upon my courtesie.
Conceive me short, he knows not but she is wealthy,
Or if he did know otherwise, 'twere all one,
He is so far gone.

hael Perez

Forward, she has a rare face.

fania

This we must carry with discretion Husband,
And yield unto her for four daies.

hael Perez

Yield our house up, our goods and wealth?

fania

All this is but in seeming,
To milk the lover on, do you see this writing, 200l a year when they are married
Has she sealed to for our good; the time's unfit now, I'll shew it you to morrow.

hael Perez

All the house?

fania

All, all, and we'll remove too, to confirm him,
They'll into th' country suddenly again
After they are matcht, and then she'll open to him.

hael Perez

The whole possession wife? look what you doe,
A part o'th' house.

fania

No, no, they shall have all,
And take their pleasure too, 'tis for our 'vantage.
Why, what's four daies? had you a Sister Sir,
A Niece or Mistris that required this courtesie,
And should I make a scruple to do you good?

hael Perez

If easily it would come back.

fania

I swear Sir,
As easily as it came on, is't not pity
To let such a Gentlewoman for a little help-- You give away no house.

hael Perez

Clear but that question.

fania

I'll put the writings into your hand.

hael Perez

Well then.

fania

And you shall keep them safe.

hael Perez

I am satisfied; wou'd I had the wench so too.

fania

When she has married him,
So infinite his love is linkt unto her,
You, I, or any one that helps at this pinch
May have Heaven knows what.

hael Perez

I'll remove the goods straight,
And take some poor house by, 'tis but for four days.

fania

I have a poor old friend; there we'll be.

hael Perez

'Tis well then.

fania

Goe handsom off, and leave the house clear.

hael Perez

Well.

fania

That little stuff we'll use shall follow after;
And a boy to guide ye, peace and we are made both.

'garita

Come, let's goe in, are all the rooms kept sweet wench?

fania

They are sweet and neat.

[Exit Perez.]

'garita

Why where's your Husband?

fania

Gone Madam.

When you come to your own he must give place Lady.

'garita

Well, send you joy, you would not let me know't, Yet I shall not forget ye.

fania

Thank your Ladyship.

[Exeunt.

Actus Tertius

Scena Prima.

Enter Margarita, Altea, and Boy.

a

Are you at ease now, is your heart at rest,
Now you have got a shadow, an umbrella
To keep the scorching worlds opinion
From your fair credit.

garita

I am at peace Altea,
If he continue but the same he shews,
And be a master of that ignorance
He outwardly professes, I am happy,
The pleasure I shall live in and the freedom
Without the squint-eye of the law upon me,
Or prating liberty of tongues, that envy.

a

You are a made woman.

garita

But if he should prove now
A crafty and dissembling kind of Husband,
One read in knavery, and brought up in the art
Of villany conceal'd.

a

My life, an innocent.

'garita

That's it I aim at,
That's it I hope too, then I am sure I rule him,
For innocents are like obedient Children
Brought up under a hard Mother-in-law, a cruel,
Who being not us'd to break-fasts and collations,
When they have course bread offer'd 'em, are thankfull,
And take it for a favour too. Are the rooms
Made ready to entertain my friends? I long to dance now
And to be wanton; let me have a song, is the great couch up The Duke of Medina sent?

a

'Tis up and ready.

'garita

And day-beds in all chambers?

a

In all Lady,
Your house is nothing now but various pleasures,
The Gallants begin to gaze too.

'garita

Let 'em gaze on,
I was brought up a Courtier, high and happy,
And company is my delight, and courtship,
And handsom servants at my will: where's my good husband,
Where does he wait?

a

He knows his distance Madam,
I warrant ye he is busie in the celler
Amongst his fellow servants, or asleep,
Till your command awake him.

Enter Leon.

garita

'Tis well Altea.

It should be so, my ward I must preserve him.

Who sent for him, how dare he come uncall'd for,

His bonnet on too?

a

Sure he sees you not.

garita

How scornfully he looks!

n

Are all the chambers

Deckt and adorn'd thus for my Ladies pleasure?

New hangings every hour for entertainment,

And new plate bought, new Jewels to give lustre?

ant

They are, and yet there must be more and richer,

It is her will.

n

Hum, is it so? 'tis excellent,

It is her will too, to have feasts and banquets,

Revells and masques.

ant

She ever lov'd 'em dearly,

And we shall have the bravest house kept now Sir,

I must not call ye master she has warn'd me,

Nor must not put my hat off to ye.

n

'Tis no fashion,

What though I be her husband, I am your fellow,

I may cut first.

ant

That's as you shall deserve Sir.

n

And when I lye with her.

ant

May be I'll light ye,

On the same point you may doe me that service.

Enter 1 Lady.

dy

Madam, the Duke Medina with some Captains

Will come to dinner, and have sent rare wine,

And their best services.

garita

They shall be welcom,

See all be ready in the noblest fashion,

The house perfum'd, now I shall take my pleasure,

And not my neighbour Justice maunder at me.

Go, get your best cloths on, but till I call ye,

Be sure you be not seen, dine with the Gentlewomen,

And behave your self cleanly Sir, 'tis for my credit.

Enter 2 Lady.

dy

Madam, the Lady Julia.

n

That's a bawd,

A three pil'd bawd, bawd major to the army.

dy

Has brought her coach to wait upon your Ladiship,

And to be inform'd if you will take the air this morning.

n

The neat air of her nunnery.

garita

Tell her no, i'th' afternoon I'll call on her.

dy

I will Madam.

[Exit.

garita

Why are not you gone to prepare your self,
May be you shall be sewer to the fire course,
A portly presence, Altea he looks lean,
'Tis a wash knave, he will not keep his flesh well.

a

A willing, Madam, one that needs no spurring.

n

Faith madam, in my little understanding,
You had better entertain your honest neighbours,
Your friends about ye, that may speak well of ye,
And give a worthy mention of your bounty.

garita

How now, what's this?

n

'Tis only to perswade ye,
Courtiers are but tickle things to deal withal,
A kind of march-pane men that will not last Madam,
An egge and pepper goes farther than their potions,
And in a well built body, a poor parsnip
Will play his prize above their strong potabiles.

garita

The fellow's mad.

n

He that shall counsel Ladies,
That have both liquorish and ambitious eyes,
Is either mad, or drunk, let him speak Gospel.

a

He breaks out modestly.

n

Pray ye be not angry,
My indiscretion has made bold to tell ye,
What you'll find true.

garita

Thou darest not talk.

n

Not much Madam,
You have a tye upon your servants tongue,
He dares not be so bold as reason bids him,
'Twere fit there were a stronger on your temper.
Ne're look so stern upon me, I am your Husband,
But what are Husbands? read the new worlds wonders,
Such Husbands as this monstrous world produces,
And you will scarce find such deformities,
They are shadows to conceal your venial vertues,
Sails to your mills, that grind with all occasions,
Balls that lye by you, to wash out your stains,
And bills nail'd up with horn before your stories,
To rent out last.

garita

Do you hear him talk?

n

I have done Madam,
An oxe once spoke, as learned men deliver,
Shortly I shall be such, then I'll speak wonders,
Till when I tye my self to my obedience.

[Exit.

garita

First I'll unty my self, did you mark the Gentleman,
How boldly and how sawcily he talk'd,
And how unlike the lump I took him for,
The piece of ignorant drow, he stood up to me
And mated my commands, this was your providence,
Your wisdom, to elect this Gentleman,
Your excellent forecast in the man, your knowledge,
What think ye now?

a

I think him an Ass still,
This boldness some of your people have blown Into him, this wisdom too with strong wine,
'Tis a Tyrant, and a Philosopher also, and finds Out reasons.

garita

I'll have my cellar lockt, no school kept there,
Nor no discovery. I'll turn my drunkards,
Such as are understanding in their draughts,
And dispute learnedly the whyes and wherefores,
To grass immediatly, I'll keep all fools,
Sober or drunk, still fools, that shall know nothing,
Nothing belongs to mankind, but obedience,
And such a hand I'll keep over this Husband.

a

He will fall again, my life he cries by this time,
Keep him from drink, he has a high constitution.

Enter Leon.

n

Shall I wear my new sute Madam?

garita

No your old clothes,
And get you into the country presently,
And see my hawks well train'd, you shall have victuals,

Such as are fit for sawcy palats Sir,
And lodgings with the hindes, it is too good too.

a

Good Madam be not so rough, with repentance,
You see now he's come round again.

'garita

I see not what I expect to see.

n

You shall see Madam, if it shall please your Ladyship.

a

He's humbled,
Forgive good Lady,

'garita

Well go get you handsom,
And let me hear no more.

n

Have ye yet no feeling?
I'll pinch ye to the bones then my proud Lady.

[Exit.

'garita

See you preserve him thus upon my favour,
You know his temper, tye him to the grindstone,
The next rebellion I'll be rid of him,
I'll have no needy Rascals I tye to me,
Dispute my life: come in and see all handsom.

a

I hope to see you so too, I have wrought ill else.

[Exeunt.

Enter Perez.

hael Perez

Shall I never return to mine own house again?
We are lodg'd here in the miserablest dog-hole,
A Conjurers circle gives content above it,
A hawks mew is a princely palace to it,
We have a bed no bigger than a basket,
And there we lie like butter clapt together,
And sweat our selves to sawce immediately,
The fumes are infinite inhabite here too;
And to that so thick, they cut like marmaleet,
So various too, they'l pose a gold-finder,
Never return to mine own paradise?
Why wife I say, why Estifania.

fania [within]

I am going presently.

hael Perez

Make haste good Jewel,
I am like the people that live in the sweet Islands:
I dye, I dye, if I stay but one day more here,
My lungs are rotten with the damps that rise,
And I cough nothing now but stinks of all sorts,
The inhabitants we have are two starv'd rats,
For they are not able to maintain a cat here,
And those appear as fearfull as two Devils,
They have eat a map of the whole world up already,
And if we stay a night we are gone for company.
There's an old woman that's now grown to marble,
Dri'd in this brick hill, and she sits i'th' chimnie,
Which is but three tiles rais'd like a house of cards,
The true proportion of an old smok'd Sibyl,
There is a young thing too that nature meant
For a maid-servant, but 'tis now a monster,

She has a husk about her like a chesnut
With business, and living under the line here,
And these two make a hollow sound together,
Like frogs or winds between two doors that murmur:

Enter Estifania.

Mercy deliver me. O are you come wife,
Shall we be free again?

fania

I am now going,
And you shall presently to your own house Sir,
The remembrance of this small vexation
Will be argument of mirth for ever:
By that time you have said your orisons,
And broke your fast, I shall be back and ready,
To usher you to your old content, your freedom.

hael Perez

Break my neck rather, is there any thing here to eat
But one another, like a race of Cannibals?
A piece of butter'd wall you think is excellent,
Let's have our house again immediatly,
And pray ye take heed unto the furniture,
None be imbezil'd.

fania

Not a pin I warrant ye.

hael Perez

And let 'em instantly depart.

fania

They shall both,
There's reason in all courtesies, they must both,
For by this time I know she has acquainted him,
And has provided too, she sent me word Sir,
And will give over gratefully unto you.

hael Perez

I'll walk i'th' Church-yard,
The dead cannot offend more than these living,
An hour hence I'll expect ye.

fania

I'll not fail Sir.

hael Perez

And do you hear, let's have a handsom dinner,
And see all things be decent as they have been,
And let me have a strong bath to restore me,
I stink like a stal-fish shambles, or an oyl-shop.

fania

You shall have all, which some interpret nothing,
I'll send ye people for the trunks afore-hand,
And for the stuff.

hael Perez

Let 'em be known and honest,
And do my service to your niece.

fania

I shall Sir,
But if I come not at my hour, come thither,
That they may give you thanks for your fair courtesy,
And pray ye be brave for my sake.

hael Perez

I observe ye.

[Exeunt.

Enter Juan de Castro, Sancho, and Cacafogo.

chio

Thou art very brave.

afogo

I have reason, I have mony.

chio

Is mony reason?

afogo

Yes and rime too Captain,
If ye have no mony y'are an Asse.

chio

I thank ye.

afogo

Ye have manners, ever thank him that has mony.

chio

Wilt thou lend me any?

afogo

Not a farthing Captain, Captains are casual things.

chio

Why so are all men, thou shalt have my bond.

afogo

Nor bonds nor fetters Captain,
My mony is mine, I make no doubt on't.

n de Castro

What dost thou do with it?

afogo

Put it to pious uses,
Buy Wine and Wenches, and undo young Coxcombs
That would undo me.

n de Castro

Are those Hospitals?

afogo

I first provide to fill my Hospitals
With Creatures of mine own, that I know wretched,
And then I build: those are more bound to pray for me:
Besides, I keep th' inheritance in my Name still.

n de Castro

A provident Charity; are you for the Wars, Sir?

afogo

I am not poor enough to be a Souldier,
Nor have I faith enough to ward a Bullet;
This is no lining for a trench, I take it.

n de Castro

Ye have said wisely.

afogo

Had you but my money,
You would swear it Colonel, I had rather drill at home
A hundred thousand Crowns, and with more honour,
Than exercise ten thousand Fools with nothing,
A wise Man safely feeds, Fools cut their fingers.

chio

A right State Usurer; why dost thou not marry,
And live a reverend Justice?

afogo

Is't not nobler to command a reverend Justice, than to be one?
And for a Wife, what need I marry, Captain,
When every courteous Fool that owes me money,
Owes me his Wife too, to appease my fury?

n de Castro

Wilt thou go to dinner with us?

afogo

I will go, and view the Pearl of Spain, the Orient
Fair One, the rich One too, and I will be respected,

I bear my Patent here, I will talk to her,
And when your Captain's Ships shall stand aloof,
And pick your Noses, I will pick the purse
Of her affection.

n de Castro

The Duke dines there to day too, the Duke of Medina.

afogo

Let the King dine there,
He owes me money, and so far's my Creature,
And certainly I may make bold with mine own, Captain?

chio

Thou wilt eat monstrously.

afogo

Like a true born Spaniard,
Eat as I were in England where the Beef grows,
And I will drink abundantly, and then Talk ye as wantonly as Ovid did,
To stir the Intellectuals of the Ladies;
I learnt it of my Father's amorous Scrivener.

n de Castro

If we should play now, you must supply me.

afogo

You must pawn a Horse troop,
And then have at ye Colonel.

chio

Come, let's go:
This Rascal will make rare sport; how the Ladies
Will laugh at him?

n de Castro

If I light on him I'll make his Purse sweat too.

afogo

Will ye lead, Gentlemen?

[Exeunt.

Enter Perez, an old Woman, and Maid.

hael Perez

Nay, pray ye come out, and let me understand ye,
And tune your pipe a little higher, Lady;
I'll hold ye fast: rub, how came my Trunks open?
And my Goods gone, what Pick-lock Spirit?

Woman

Ha, what would ye have?

hael Perez

My Goods again, how came my Trunks all open?

Woman

Are your Trunks open?

hael Perez

Yes, and Cloaths gone,
And Chains, and Jewels: how she smells like hung Beef,
The Palsey, and Picklocks, fye, how she belches,
The Spirit of Garlick.

Woman

Where's your Gentlewoman?
The young fair Woman?

hael Perez

What's that to my question?
She is my wife, and gone about my business.

d

Is she your Wife, Sir?

hael Perez

Yes Sir, is that wonder?
Is the name of Wife unknown here?

Woman

Is she truly, truly your Wife?

hael Perez

I think so, for I married her;
It was no Vision sure!

d

She has the Keys, Sir.

hael Perez

I know she has, but who has all my goods, Spirit?

Woman

If you be married to that Gentlewoman,
You are a wretched man, she has twenty Husbands.

d

She tells you true.

Woman

And she has cozen'd all, Sir.

hael Perez

The Devil she has! I had a fair house with her,
That stands hard by, and furnisht royally.

Woman

You are cozen'd too, 'tis none of hers, good Gentleman.

d

The Lady Margarita, she was her Servant,
And kept the house, but going from her, Sir,
For some lewd tricks she plaid.

hael Perez

Plague o' the Devil,
Am I i'th' full Meridian of my Wisdom

Cheated by a stale Quean! what kind of Lady
Is that that owes the House?

Woman

A young sweet Lady.

hael Perez

Of a low stature?

Woman

She is indeed but little, but she is wondrous fair.

hael Perez

I feel I am cozen'd;
Now I am sensible I am undone,
This is the very Woman sure, that Cousin
She told me would entreat but for four days,
To make the house hers; I am entreated sweetly.

d

When she went out this morning, that I saw, Sir,
She had two Women at the door attending,
And there she gave 'em things, and loaded 'em,
But what they were--I heard your Trunks to open,
If they be yours?

hael Perez

They were mine while they were laden,
But now they have cast their Calves, they are not worth Owning: was she her Mistress say you?

Woman

Her own Mistress, her very Mistress, Sir, and all you saw About and in that house was hers.

hael Perez

No Plate, no Jewels, nor no Hangings?

d

Not a farthing, she is poor, Sir, a poor shifting thing.

hael Perez

No money?

Woman

Abominable poor, as poor as we are,
Money as rare to her unless she steal it,
But for one civil Gown her Lady gave her,
She may go bare, good Gentlewoman.

hael Perez

I am mad now,
I think I am as poor as she, I am wide else,
One civil Sute I have left too, and that's all,
And if she steal that she must fley me for it;
Where does she use?

Woman

You may find truth as soon,
Alas, a thousand conceal'd corners, Sir, she lurks in.
And here she gets a fleece, and there another,
And lives in mists and smoaks where none can find her.

hael Perez

Is she a Whore too?

Woman

Little better, Gentleman, I dare not say she is so Sir, because She is yours, Sir, these five years she has firkt
A pretty Living,
Until she came to serve; I fear he will knock my Brains out for lying.

hael Perez

She has serv'd me faithfully,
A Whore and Thief? two excellent moral learnings
In one she-Saint, I hope to see her legend.
Have I been fear'd for my discoveries,
And courted by all Women to conceal 'em?
Have I so long studied the art of this Sex,

And read the warnings to young Gentlemen?
Have I profest to tame the Pride of Ladies,
And make 'em bear all tests, and am I trickt now?
Caught in mine own nooze? here's a royal left yet,
There's for your lodging and your meat for this Week.
A silk Worm lives at a more plentiful ordinary,
And sleeps in a sweeter Box: farewell great Grandmother,
If I do find you were an accessory,
'Tis but the cutting off too smoaky minutes,
I'll hang ye presently.

Woman

And I deserve it, I tell but truth.

hael Perez

Not I, I am an Ass, Mother.

[Exeunt.

*Enter the Duke of Medina, Juan de Castro, Alonzo, Sanchio, Cacafofo.
Attendants.*

the Duke of Medina

A goodly house.

Juan de Castro

And richly furnisht too, Sir.

Alonzo

Hung wantonly, I like that preparation,
It stirs the blood unto a hopeful Banquet,
And intimates the Mistress free and jovial,
I love a house where pleasure prepares welcome.

the Duke of Medina

Now Cacafofo, how like you this mansion?
'Twere a brave Pawn.

Cacafofo

I shall be master of it,
'Twas built for my bulk, the rooms are wide and spacious,
Airy and full of ease, and that I love well,
I'll tell you when I taste the Wine, my Lord,
And take the height of her Table with my Stomach,
How my affections stand to the young Lady.

Enter Margarita, Altea, Ladies, and Servants.

Margarita

All welcome to your Grace, and to these Souldiers,
You honour my poor house with your fair presence,
Those few slight pleasures that inhabit here, Sir,
I do beseech your Grace command, they are yours,
Your servant but preserves 'em to delight ye.

Altea of Medina

I thank ye Lady, I am bold to visit ye,
Once more to bless mine eyes with your sweet Beauty,
'T has been a long night since you left the Court,
For till I saw you now, no day broke to me.

Margarita

Bring in the Dukes meat.

Altea

She is most excellent.

Alonso de Castro

Most admirable fair as e'r I look'd upon,
I had rather command her than my Regiment.

Alonso

I'll have a fling, 'tis but a thousand Duckets,
Which I can cozen up again in ten days,
And some few Jewels to justifie my Knavery,
Say, I should marry her, she'll get more money
Than all my Usury, put my Knavery to it,
She appears the most infallible way of Purchase,
I you'd wish her a size or two stronger for the encounter,

For I am like a Lion where I lay hold,
But these Lambs will endure a plaguy load,
And never bleat neither, that Sir, time has taught us,
I am so vertuous now, I cannot speak to her,
The arrant'st shamefac'd Ass, I broil away too.

Enter Leon.

garita

Why, where's this dinner?

n

'Tis not ready, Madam,
Nor shall not be until I know the Guests too,
Nor are they fairly welcome till I bid 'em.

n de Castro

Is not this my Alferes? he looks another thing;
Are miracles afoot again?

garita

Why, Sirrah, why Sirrah, you?

n

I hear you, saucy Woman,
And as you are my Wife, command your absence,
And know your duty, 'tis the Crown of modesty.

e of Medina

Your Wife?

n

Yes good my Lord, I am her Husband,
And pray take notice that I claim that honour,
And will maintain it.

afogo

It thou beest her Husband,
I am determin'd thou shalt be my Cuckold,
I'll be thy faithful friend.

n

Peace, dirt and dunghil,
I will not lose my anger on a Rascal,
Provoke me more, I'll beat thy blown body
Till thou rebound'st again like a Tennis-Ball.

120

This is miraculous.

chio

Is this the Fellow
That had the patience to become a Fool,
A flurted Fool, and on a sudden break,
As if he would shew a wonder to the World,
Both in Bravery, and Fortune too?
I much admire the man, I am astonisht.

'garita

I'll be divorced immediately.

n

You shall not,
You shall not have so much will to be wicked.
I am more tender of your honour, Lady,
And of your Age, you took me for a shadow;
You took me to gloss over your discredit,
To be your Fool, you had thought you had found a Coxcomb;
I am innocent of any foul dishonour I mean to ye.
Only I will be known to be your Lord now,
And be a fair one too, or I will fall for't.

'garita

I do command ye from me, thou poor fellow, Thou cozen'd Fool.

n

Thou cozen'd Fool? 'tis not so,
I will not be commanded: I am above ye:
You may divorce me from your favour, Lady,

But from your state you never shall, I'll hold that,
And then maintain your wantonness, I'll wink at it.

garita

Am I braved thus in mine own house?

n

'Tis mine, Madam,
You are deceiv'd, I am Lord of it, I rule it and all that's in't;
You have nothing to do here, Madam;
But as a Servant to sweep clean the Lodgings,
And at my farther will to do me service,
And so I'll keep it.

garita

As you love me, give way.

n

It shall be better,
I will give none, Madam,
I stand upon the ground of mine own Honour,
And will maintain it, you shall know me now
To be an understanding feeling man,
And sensible of what a Woman aims at,
A young proud Woman that has Will to sail with,
An itching Woman, that her blood provokes too,
I cast my Cloud off, and appear my self,
The master of this little piece of mischief,
And I will put a Spell about your feet, Lady,
They shall not wander but where I give way now.

e of Medina

Is this the Fellow that the People pointed at,
For the meer sign of man, the walking Image?
He speaks wondrous highly.

n

As a Husband ought, Sir,
In his own house, and it becomes me well too,

I think your Grace would grieve if you were put to it
To have a Wife or Servant of your own,
(For Wives are reckon'd in the rank of Servants,) Under your own roof to command ye.

n de Castro

Brave, a strange Conversion, thou shalt lead
In chief now.

e of Medina

Is there no difference betwixt her and you, Sir?

n

Not now, Lord, my Fortune makes me even,
And as I am an honest man, I am nobler.

garita

Get me my Coach.

n

Let me see who dares get it
Till I command, I'll make him draw your Coach too,
And eat your Coach, (which will be hard diet)
That executes your Will; or take your Coach, Lady,
I give you liberty, and take your People
Which I turn off, and take your Will abroad with ye,
Take all these freely, but take me no more,
And so farewell.

e of Medina

Nay, Sir, you shall not carry it
So bravely off, you shall not wrong a Lady
In a high huffing strain, and think to bear it,
We stand not by as Bawds to your brave fury,
To see a Lady weep.

n

They are tears of anger, I beseech ye note 'em, not worth pity, Wrung from her rage, because her Will prevails not,
She would swoond now if she could not cry,

Else they were excellent, and I should grieve too,
But falling thus, they show nor sweet nor orient.
Put up my Lord, this is oppression,
And calls the Sword of Justice to relieve me,
The law to lend her hand, the King to right me,
All which shall understand how you provoke me,
In mine own house to brave me, is this princely?
Then to my Guard, and if I spare your Grace,
And do not make this place your Monument,
Too rich a Tomb for such a rude behaviour,
I have a Cause will kill a thousand of ye, mercy forsake me.

n de Castro

Hold, fair Sir, I beseech ye,
The Gentleman but pleads his own right nobly.

n

He that dares strike against the husbands freedom,
The Husbands Curse stick to him, a tam'd Cuckold,
His Wife be fair and young, but most dishonest,
Most impudent, and have no feeling of it,
No conscience to reclaim her from a Monster,
Let her lye by him like a flattering ruine,
And at one instant kill both Name and Honour,
Let him be lost, no eye to weep his end,
Nor find no earth that's base enough to bury him.
Now Sir, fall on, I am ready to oppose ye.

e of Medina

I have better thought, I pray Sir use your Wife well.

n

Mine own humanity will teach me that, Sir,
And now you are all welcome, all, and we'll to dinner,
This is my Wedding-day.

e of Medina

I'll cross your joy yet.

n de Castro

I made seen a miracle, hold thine own, Souldier, Sure they dare fight in fire that conquer Women.

chio

H'as beaten all my loose thoughts out of me,
As if he had thresht 'em out o'th' husk.

Enter Perez.

hael Perez

'Save ye, which is the Lady of the house?

n

That's she, Sir, that pretty Lady,
If you would speak with her.

n de Castro

Don Michael, Leon, another darer come.

hael Perez

Pray do not know me, I am full of business,
When I have more time I'll be merry with ye.
It is the Woman: good Madam, tell me truly,
Had you a Maid call'd Estifania?

garita

Yes truly, had I.

hael Perez

Was she a Maid do you think?

garita

I dare not swear for her,
For she had but a scant Fame.

hael Perez

Was she your Kinswoman?

garita

Not that I ever knew, now I look better
I think you married her, 'give you joy, Sir,
You may reclaim her, 'twas a wild young Girl.

hael Perez

Give me a halter: is not this house mine, Madam?
Was not she owner of it, pray speak truly?

'garita

No, certainly, I am sure my money paid for it,
And I ne'r remember yet I gave it you, Sir.

hael Perez

The Hangings and the Plate too?

'garita

All are mine, Sir,
And every thing you see about the building,
She only kept my house when I was absent,
And so ill kept it, I was weary of her.

chio

What a Devil ails he?

n de Castro

He's possest I'll assure you.

hael Perez

Where is your Maid?

'garita

Do not you know that have her?
She is yours now, why should I look after her?
Since that first hour I came I never saw her.

hael Perez

I saw her later, would the Devil had had her,
It is all true I find, a wild-fire take her.

n de Castro

Is thy Wife with Child, Don Michael? thy excellent wife.
Art thou a Man yet?

120

When shall we come and visit thee?

chio

And eat some rare fruit? thou hast admirable Orchards,
You are so jealous now, pox o' your jealousy,
How scurvily you look!

hael Perez

Prithee leave fooling,
I am in no humour now to fool and prattle,
Did she ne'r play the wag with you?

garita

Yes many times, so often that I was asham'd to keep her,
But I forgave her, Sir, in hope she would mend still,
And had not you o'th' instant married her,
I had put her off.

hael Perez

I thank ye, I am blest still,
Which way so e'r I turn I am a made man,
Miserably gull'd beyond recovery.

n de Castro

You'll stay and dine?

hael Perez

Certain I cannot, Captain,
Hark in thine ear, I am the arrantst Puppy,
The miserablest Ass, but I must leave ye,
I am in haste, in haste, bless you, good Madam,
And you prove as good as my Wife.

[Exit.

n

Will you come near, Sir, will your Grace but honour me,
And taste our dinner? you are nobly welcome,
All anger's past I hope, and I shall serve ye.

n de Castro

Thou art the stock of men, and I admire thee.

[Ex.

Actus Quartus

Scena Prima.

Enter Perez.

hael Perez

I'll go to a Conjuror but I'll find this Pol-cat,
This pilfering Whore: a plague of Vails, I cry,
And covers for the impudence of Women,
Their sanctity in show will deceive Devils,
It is my evil Angel, let me bless me.

Enter Estifania with a Casket.

fania

'Tis he, I am caught, I must stand to it stoutly,
And show no shake of fear, I see he is angry, Vext at the uttermost.

hael Perez

My worthy Wife,
I have been looking of your modesty

All the town over.

fania

My most noble Husband,
I am glad I have found ye, for in truth I am weary, Weary and lame with looking out your Lordship.

hael Perez

I have been in Bawdy Houses.

fania

I believe you, and very lately too.

hael Perez

'Pray you pardon me,
To seek your Ladyship, I have been in Cellars,
In private Cellars, where the thirsty Bawds Hear your Confessions; I have been at Plays,
To look you out amongst the youthful Actors,
At Puppet Shews, you are Mistress of the motions,
At Gossippings I hearkned after you,
But amongst those Confusions of lewd Tongues
There's no distinguishing beyond a Babel.
I was amongst the Nuns because you sing well,
But they say yours are Bawdy Songs, they mourn for ye,
And last I went to Church to seek you out,
'Tis so long since you were there, they have forgot you.

fania

You have had a pretty progress, I'll tell mine now:
To look you out, I went to twenty Taverns.

hael Perez

And are you sober?

fania

Yes, I reel not yet, Sir,
Where I saw twenty drunk, most of 'em Souldiers,
There I had great hope to find you disguis'd too.
From hence to th' dicing-house, there I found

Quarrels needless, and senceless, Swords and Pots, and Candlesticks, Tables and Stools, and all in one confusion,
And no man knew his Friend. I left this Chaos,
And to the Chirurgions went, he will'd me stay,
For says he learnedly, if he be tipled,
Twenty to one he whores, and then I hear of him,
If he be mad, he quarrels, then he comes too.
I sought ye where no safe thing would have ventur'd,
Amongst diseases, base and vile, vile Women,
For I remembred your old Roman axiom,
The more the danger, still the more the Honour.
Last, to your Confessor I came, who told me,
You were too proud to pray, and here I have found ye.

hael Perez

She bears up bravely, and the Rogue is witty,
But I shall dash it instantly to nothing.
Here leave we off our wanton languages,
And now conclude we in a sharper tongue.

fania

Why am I cozen'd?
Why am I abused?

hael Perez

Thou most vile, base, abominable--

fania

Captain.

hael Perez

Thou stinking, oversteu'd, poor, pocky--

fania

Captain.

hael Perez

Do you echo me?

fania

Yes Sir, and go before ye,
And round about ye, why do you rail at me
For that that was your own sin, your own knavery?

hael Perez

And brave me too?

fania

You had best now draw your Sword, Captain!
Draw it upon a Woman, do, brave Captain,
Upon your Wife, Oh most renowned Captain.

hael Perez

A Plague upon thee, answer me directly;
Why didst thou marry me?

fania

To be my Husband;
I had thought you had had infinite, but I'm cozen'd.

hael Perez

Why didst thou flatter me, and shew me wonders?
A house and riches, when they are but shadows,
Shadows to me?

fania

Why did you work on me
(It was but my part to requite you, Sir)
With your strong Souldiers wit, and swore you would bring me
So much in Chains, so much in Jewels, Husband,
So much in right rich Cloaths?

hael Perez

Thou hast 'em, Rascal;
I gave 'em to thy hands, my trunks and all,
And thou hast open'd 'em, and sold my treasure.

fania

Sir, there's your treasure, sell it to a Tinker
To mend old Kettles, is this noble Usage?

Let all the World view here the Captain's treasure,
A Man would think now, these were worthy matters;
Here's a shooing-horn Chain gilt over, how it scenteth Worse than the mouldy durty heel it served for:
And here's another of a lesser value,
So little I would shame to tye my Dog in't,
These are my joynture, blush and save a labour,
Or these else will blush for ye.

hael Perez

A fire subtle ye, are ye so crafty?

fania

Here's a goodly jewel,
Did not you win this at Goletta, Captain,
Or took it in the field from some brave Bashaw
How it sparkles like an old Ladies eyes,
And fills each room with light like a close Lanthorn!
This would do rarely in an Abbey Window,
To cozen Pilgrims.

hael Perez

P[r]ithee leave prating.

fania

And here's a Chain of Whitings eyes for pearls,
A Muscle-monger would have made a better.

hael Perez

Nay, prithee wife, my Cloaths, my Cloaths.

fania

I'll tell ye,
Your Cloaths are parallels to these, all counterfeit.
Put these and them on, you are a Man of Copper,
A kind of Candlestick; these you thought, my Husband,
To have cozen'd me withall, but I am quit with you.

hael Perez

Is there no house then, nor no grounds about it?
No plate nor hangings?

fania

There are none, sweet Husband,
Shadow for shadow is as equal justice.
Can you rail now? pray put up your fury, Sir,
And speak great words, you are a Souldier, thunder.

hael Perez

I will speak little, I have plaid the Fool,
And so I am rewarded.

fania

You have spoke well, Sir,
And now I see you are so conformable
I'll heighten you again, go to your house,
They are packing to be gone, you must sup there,
I'll meet ye, and bring Cloaths, and clean Shirts after,
And all things shall be well, I'll colt you once more,
And teach you to bring Copper.

hael Perez

Tell me one thing,
I do beseech thee tell me, tell me truth, Wife,
However I forgive thee, art thou honest?
The Beldam swore.

fania

I bid her tell you so, Sir,
It was my plot, alas my credulous Husband,
The Lady told you too.

hael Perez

Most strange things of thee.

fania

Still 'twas my way, and all to try your sufferance,
And she denied the House.

hael Perez

She knew me not,
No, nor no title that I had.

fania

'Twas well carried;
No more, I am right and straight.

hael Perez

I would believe thee,
But Heaven knows how my heart is, will ye follow me?

fania

I'll be there straight.

hael Perez

I am fooled, yet dare not find it.

[Exit Perez.

fania

Go silly Fool, thou mayst be a good Souldier
In open field, but for our private service
Thou art an Ass, I'll make thee so, or miss else.

Enter Cacafo.

Here comes another Trout that I must tickle,
And tickle daintily, I have lost my end else.
May I crave your leave, Sir?

afogo

Prithie be answered, thou shalt crave no leave,
I am in my meditations, do not vex me,
A beaten thing, but this hour a most bruised thing,
That people had compassion on it, looked so,
The next Sir Palmerin, here's fine proportion,
An Ass, and then an Elephant, sweet Justice,
There's no way left to come at her now, no craving,

If money could come near, yet I would pay him;
I have a mind to make him a huge Cuckold,
And money may do much, a thousand Duckets,
'Tis but the letting blood of a rank Heir.

fania

'Pray you hear me.

afogo

I know thou hast some wedding Ring to pawn now,
Of Silver and gilt, with a blind posie in't,
Love and a Mill-horse should go round together,
Or thy Childs whistle, or thy Squirrels Chain,
I'll none of 'em, I would she did but know me,
Or would this Fellow had but use of money,
That I might come in any way.

fania

I am gone, Sir,
And I shall tell the beauty sent me to ye,
The Lady Margarita.

afogo

Stay I prithee,
What is thy will? I turn me wholly to ye,
And talk now till thy tongue ake, I will hear ye.

fania

She would entreat you, Sir,

afogo

She shall command, Sir,
Let it be so, I beseech thee, my sweet Gentlewoman,
Do not forget thy self.

fania

She does command then
This courtesie, because she knows you are noble.

afogo

Your Mistress by the way?

fania

My natural mistress,
Upon these Jewels, Sir, they are fair and rich,
And view 'em right.

afogo

To doubt 'em is an heresie.

fania

A thousand Duckets, 'tis upon necessity
Of present use, her husband, Sir, is stubborn.

afogo

Long may he be so.

fania

She desires withal a better knowledge of your parts and person,
And when you please to do her so much honour.

afogo

Come, let's dispatch.

fania

In troth I have heard her say, Sir,
Of a fat man she has not seen a sweeter.
But in this business, Sir.

afogo

Let's do it first
And then dispute, the Ladies use may long for't.

fania

All secrecy she would desire, she told me How wise you are.

afogo

We are not wise to talk thus,
Carry her the gold, I'll look her out a Jewel,
Shall sparkle like her eyes, and thee another,

Come prethee come, I long to serve thy Lady,
Long monstrously, now valor I shall meet ye,
You that dare Dukes.

fania

Green goose you are now in sippets.

[Exeunt.

Enter the Duke, Sanchio, Juan, Alonzo.

e of Medina

He shall not have his will, I shall prevent him,
I have a toy here that will turn the tide,
And suddenly, and strangely, hear Don Juan,
Do you present it to him.

n de Castro

I am commanded.

[Exit.

e of Medina

A fellow founded out of Charity,
And moulded to the height condemn his maker,
Curb the free hand that fram'd him? This must not be.

chio

That such an oyster shell should hold a pearl,
And of so rare a price in prison,
Was she made to be the matter of her own undoing,
To let a slovenly unweildy fellow,
Unruly and self will'd, dispose her beauties?
We suffer all Sir in this sad Eclipse,
She should shine where she might show like her self,
An absolute sweetness, to comfort those admire her,
And shed her beams upon her friends.

We are gull'd all,
And all the world will grumble at your patience,
If she be ravish't thus.

e of Medina

Ne'r fear it Sanchio,
We'll have her free again, and move at Court
In her clear orb: but one sweet handsomeness,
To bless this part of Spain, and have that slubber'd?

120

'Tis every good man's cause, and we must stir in it.

e of Medina

I'll warrant he shall be glad to please us,
And glad to share too, we shall hear anon
A new song from him, let's attend a little.

[Exeunt.]

Enter Leon, and Juan, with a commission.

n

Coronel, I am bound to you for this nobleness,
I should have been your officer, 'tis true Sir,
And a proud man I should have been to have serv'd you,
'T has pleas'd the King out of his boundless favours,
To make me your companion, this commission
Gives me a troop of horse.

n de Castro

I do rejoyce at it,
And am a glad man we shall gain your company,
I am sure the King knows you are newly married,
And out of that respect gives you more time Sir.

n

Within four daies I am gone, so he commands me,
And 'tis not mannerly for me to argue it,
The time grows shorter still, are your goods ready?

n de Castro

They are aboard.

n

Who waits there?

Enter Servant.

ant

Sir.

n

Do you hear ho, go carry this unto your Mistris Sir,
And let her see how much the King has honour'd me,
Bid her be lusty, she must make a Souldier.

[Exit.

Enter Lorenzo.

enzo

Sir,
Go take down all the hangings,
And pack up all my cloths, my plate and Jewels,
And all the furniture that's portable,
Sir when we lye in garrison, 'tis necessary
We keep a handsom port, for the Kings honour;
And do you hear, let all your Ladies wardrobe
Be safely plac'd in trunks, they must along too.

enzo

Whither must they goe Sir?

n

To the wars, Lorenzo,
And you and all, I will not leave a turn-spit,
That has one dram of spleen against a Dutchman.

enzo

Why then St Jaques hey, you have made us all Sir,
And if we leave ye--does my Lady goe too?

n

The stuff must goe to morrow towards the sea Sir,
All, all must goe.

enzo

Why Pedro, Vasco, Dego,
Come help me, come come boys, soldadocs, comrades,
We'l fley these beer-bellied rogues, come away quickly.

[Exit.

n de Castro

H'as taken a brave way to save his honour,
And cross the Duke, now I shall love him dearly,
By the life of credit thou art a noble Gentleman.

Enter Margarita, led by two Ladies.

n

Why how now wife, what, sick at my preferment?
This is not kindly done.

garita

No sooner love ye,
Love ye intirely Sir, brought to consider
The goodness of your mind and mine own duty,
But lose you instantly, be divorc'd from ye?
This is a cruelty, I'le to the King
And tell him 'tis unjust to part two souls,
Two minds so nearly mixt.

n

By no means sweet heart.

garita

If he were married but four daies as I am.

n

He would hang himself the fifth, or fly his Country.

garita

He would make it treason for that tongue that durst
But talk of war, or any thing to vex him,
You shall not goe.

n

Indeed I must sweet wife,
What shall I lose the King for a few kisses?
We'l have enough.

garita

I'le to the Duke my cousin, he shall to th' King.

n

He did me this great office,
I thank his grace for't, should I pray him now,
To undoe't again? fye 'twere a base discredit.

garita

Would I were able Sir to bear you company,
How willing should I be then, and how merry!
I will not live alone.

n

Be in peace, you shall not.

[knock within.]

garita

What knocking's this? oh Heaven my head, why rascals
I thin[k] the war's begun i'th' house already.

n

The preparation is, they are taking down,
And packing up the hangings, plate and Jewels,
And all those furnitures that shall befit me
When I lye in garrison.

Enter Coachman.

chman

Must the Coach goe too Sir?

n

How will your Lady pass to th' sea else easily?
We shall find shipping for't there to transport it.

garita

I goe? alas!

n

I'll have a main care of ye,
I know ye are sickly, he shall drive the easier,
And all accommodation shall attend ye.

garita

Would I were able.

n

Come I warrant ye,
Am not I with ye sweet? are her cloaths packt up,
And all her linnen? give your maids direction,
You know my time's but short, and I am commanded.

garita

Let me have a nurse,
And all such necessary people with me,
And an easie bark.

n

It shall not trot I warrant ye,
Curvet it may sometimes.

Garita

I am with child Sir.

n

At four days warning? this is something speedy,
Do you conceive as our jennets do with a west winde?
My heir will be an arrant fleet one Lady,
I'll swear you were a maid when I first lay with ye.

Garita

Pray do not swear, I thought I was a maid too,
But we may both be cozen'd in that point Sir.

n

In such a strait point sure I could not err Madam.

n de Castro

This is another tenderness to try him,
Fetch her up now.

Garita

You must provide a cradle, and what a troubles that?

n

The sea shall rock it,
'Tis the best nurse; 'twill roar and rock together,
A swinging storm will sing you such a lullaby.

Garita

Faith let me stay, I shall but shame ye Sir.

n

And you were a thousand shames you shall along with me,
At home I am sure you'll prove a million,
Every man carries the bundle of his sins
Upon his own back, you are mine, I'll sweat for ye.

Enter Duke, Alonzo, Sanchio.

Señor of Medina

What Sir, preparing for your noble journey?

'Tis well, and full of care.

I saw your mind was wedded to the war,

And knew you would prove some good man for your country,

Therefore fair Cousin with your gentle pardon,

I got this place: what, mourn at his advancement?

You are to blame, he will come again sweet cousin,

Mean time like sad Penelope and sage,

Amongst your maids at home, and huswifely.

Don

No Sir, I dare not leave her to that solitariness,

She is young, and grief or ill news from those quarters

May daily cross her, she shall goe along Sir.

Señor of Medina

By no means Captain.

Don

By all means an't please ye.

Señor of Medina

What take a young and tender bodied Lady,

And expose her to those dangers, and those tumults,

A sickly Lady too?

Don

'Twill make her well Sir,

There's no such friend to health as wholsom travel.

Don

Away it must not be.

Don

It ought not Sir,

Go hurry her? it is not humane, Captain.

Señor of Medina

I cannot blame her tears, fright her with tempests,
With thunder of the war.
I dare swear if she were able.

n

She is most able.
And pray ye swear not, she must goe, there's no remedy,
Nor greatness, nor the trick you had to part us,
Which I smell too rank, too open, too evident
(And I must tell you Sir, 'tis most unnoble)
Shall hinder me: had she but ten hours life,
Nay less, but two hours, I would have her with me,
I would not leave her fame to so much ruine,
To such a desolation and discredit
As her weakness and your hot will wou'd work her to.

Enter Perez.

What Masque is this now?
More tropes and figures, to abuse my sufferance,
What cousin's this?

n de Castro

Michael van owle, how dost thou?
In what dark barn or tod of aged Ivy Hast thou lyen hid?

hael Perez

Things must both ebbe and flow, Coronel,
And people must conceal, and shine again.
You are welcom hither as your friend may say, Gentleman,
A pretty house ye see handsomely seated,
Sweet and convenient walks, the waters crystal.

120

He's certain mad.

n de Castro

As mad as a French Tayler,
That has nothing in's head but ends of fustians.

hael Perez

I see you are packing now my gentle cousin,
And my wife told me I should find it so,
'Tis true I do, you were merry when I was last here,
But 'twas your will to try my patience Madam.
I am sorry that my swift occasions
Can let you take your pleasure here no longer,
Yet I would have you think my honour'd cousin,
This house and all I have are all your servants.

n

What house, what pleasure Sir, what do you mean?

hael Perez

You hold the jest so stiff, 'twill prove discourteous,
This house I mean, the pleasures of this place.

n

And what of them?

hael Perez

They are mine Sir, and you know it,
My wives I mean, and so confer'd upon me,
The hangings Sir I must entreat, your servants,
That are so busie in their offices,
Again to minister to their right uses,
I shall take view o'th' plate anon, and furnitures
That are of under place; you are merry still cousin,
And of a pleasant constitution,
Men of great fortunes make their mirths at placitum.

n

Prethee good stubborn wife, tell me directly,
Good evil wife leave fooling and tell me honestly,
Is this my kinsman?

garita

I can tell ye nothing.

n

I have many kinsmen, but so mad a one,
And so phantastick--all the house?

hael Perez

All mine,
And all within it. I will not bate ye an ace on't.
Can you not receive a noble courtesie,
And quietly and handsomely as ye ought Couz,
But you must ride o'th' top on't?

n

Canst thou fight?

hael Perez

I'll tell ye presently, I could have done Sir.

n

For ye must law and claw before ye get it.

n de Castro

Away, no quarrels.

n

Now I am more temperate,
I'll have it prov'd if you were never yet in Bedlam,
Never in love, for that's a lunacy,
No great state left ye that you never lookt for,
Nor cannot manage, that's a rank distemper;
That you were christen'd, and who answer'd for ye,
And then I yield.

hael Perez

H'as half perswaded me I was bred i'th' moon,
I have ne'r a bush at my breech, are not we both mad,
And is not this a phantastick house we are in,
And all a dream we do? will ye walk out Sir,
And if I do not beat thee presently
Into a sound belief, as sense can give thee,
Brick me into that wall there for a chimney piece,
And say I was one o'th' Caesars, done by a seal-cutter.

n

I'll talk no more, come we'll away immediatly.

Garita

Why then the house is his, and all that's in it,
I'll give away my skin but I'll undoe ye,
I gave it to his wife, you must restore Sir,
And make a new provision.

Don Juan Perez

Am I mad now or am I christen'd, you my pagan cousin,
My mighty Mahound kinsman, what quirk now?
You shall be welcom all, I hope to see Sir
Your Grace here, and my couz, we are all Souldiers,
And must do naturally for one another.

Don Juan de Medina

Are ye blank at this? then I must tell ye Sir,
Ye have no command, now ye may goe at pleasure
And ride your asse troop, 'twas a trick I us'd
To try your jealousie upon entreatie,
And saving of your wife.

n

All this not moves me,
Nor stirs my gall, nor alters my affections,
You have more furniture, more houses Lady,
And rich ones too, I will make bold with those,
And you have Land i'th' Indies as I take it,
Thither we'll goe, and view a while those climats,
Visit your Factors there, that may betray ye,
'Tis done, we must goe.

Garita

Now thou art a brave Gentleman,
And by this sacred light I love thee dearly.
The house is none of yours, I did but jest Sir,
Nor you are no couz of mine, I beseech ye vanish,
I tell you plain, you have no more right than he

Has, that senseless thing, your wife has once more fool'd ye:
Goe ye and consider.

n

Good morrow my sweet cousin, I should be glad Sir.

hael Perez

By this hand she dies for't,
Or any man that speaks for her.

[Exit Perez.]

n de Castro

These are fine toys.

garita

Let me request you stay but one poor month,
You shall have a Commission and I'll goe too,
Give me but will so far.

n

Well I will try ye,
Good morrow to your Grace, we have private business.

e of Medina

If I miss thee again, I am an arrant bungler.

n de Castro

Thou shalt have my command, and I'll march under thee,
Nay be thy boy before thou shalt be baffled,
Thou art so brave a fellow.

120

I have seen visions.

[Exeunt.]

Actus Quintus

Scena Prima.

Enter Leon, with a letter, and Margarita.

n

Come hither wife, do you know this hand?

garita

I do Sir,

'Tis Estifania, that was once my woman.

n

She writes to me here, that one Cacafogo
An usuring Jewellers son (I know the Rascal)
Is mortally faln in love with ye.

garita

Is a monster, deliver me from mountains.

n

Do you goe a birding for all sorts of people?
And this evening will come to ye and shew ye Jewels,
And offers any thing to get access to ye,
If I can make or sport or profit on him,
(For he is fit for both) she bids me use him,
And so I will, be you conformable, and follow but my will.

garita

I shall not fail, Sir.

n

Will the Duke come again do you think?

garita

No sure Sir,
H'as now no policie to bring him hither.

n

Nor bring you to him, if my wit hold fair wife:
Let's in to dinner.

[Exeunt.

Enter Perez.

hael Perez

Had I but lungs enough to bawl sufficiently,
That all the queans in Christendom might hear me,
That men might run away from contagion,
I had my wish; would it were most high treason,
Most infinite high, for any man to marry,
I mean for any man that would live handsomely,
And like a Gentleman, in his wits and credit.
What torments shall I put her to, Phalaris bull now,
Pox they love bulling too well, though they smoak for't.
Cut her apieces? every piece will live still,
And every morsel of her will do mischief;
They have so many lives, there's no hanging of 'em,
They are too light to drown, they are cork and feathers;
To burn too cold, they live like Salamanders;
Under huge heaps of stones to bury her,
And so depress her as they did the Giants;
She will move under more than built old Babel,
I must destroy her.

Enter Cacafofo, with a Casket.

afofo

Be cozen'd by a thing of clouts, a she moth,
That every silkmans shop breeds; to be cheated,
And of a thousand duckets by a whim wham?

hael Perez

Who's that is cheated, speak again thou vision,
But art thou cheated? minister some comfort:
Tell me directly art thou cheated bravely?
Come, prethee come, art thou so pure a coxcomb
To be undone? do not dissemble with me,
Tell me I conjure thee.

afogo

Then keep thy circle,
For I am a spirit wild that flies about thee,
And who e're thou art, if thou be'st humane,
I'll let thee plainly know, I am cheated damnably.

hael Perez

Ha, ha, ha.

afogo

Dost thou laugh? damnably, I say most damnably.

hael Perez

By whom, good spirit speak, speak ha, ha, ha.

afogo

I will utter, laugh till thy lungs crack, by a rascal woman,
A lewd, abominable, and plain woman.
Dost thou laugh still?

hael Perez

I must laugh, prethee pardon me,
I shall laugh terribly.

afogo

I shall be angry, terrible angry, I have cause.

hael Perez

That's it, and 'tis no reason but thou shouldst be angry,
Angry at heart, yet I must laugh still at thee.
By a woman cheated? art' sure it was a woman?

afogo

I shall break thy head, my valour itches at thee.

hael Perez

It is no matter, by a woman cozen'd,
A real woman?

afogo

A real Devil,
Plague of her Jewels and her copper chains,
How rank they smell.

hael Perez

Sweet cozen'd Sir let me see them,
I have been cheated too, I would have you note that,
And lewdly cheated, by a woman also,
A scurvie woman, I am undone sweet Sir,
Therefore I must have leave to [l]augh.

afogo

Pray ye take it,
You are the merriest undone man in Europe.
What need we fiddles, bawdy songs and sack,
When our own miseries can make us merry?

hael Perez

Ha, ha, ha.
I have seen these Jewels, what a notable penniworth
Have you had next your heart? you will not take Sir
Some twenty Duckets?

afogo

Thou art deceiv'd, I will take.

hael Perez

To clear your bargain now.

afogo

I'll take some ten, some any thing, some half ten,
Half a Ducket.

hael Perez

An excellent lapidary set these stones sure,
Do you mark their waters?

afogo

Quick-sand choak their waters,
And hers that bought 'em too, but I shall find her.

hael Perez

And so shall I, I hope, but do not hurt her,
You cannot find in all this Kingdom,
(If you had need of cozening, as you may have,
For such gross natures will desire it often,
'Tis at some time too a fine variety,
A woman that can cozen ye so neatly,
She has taken half mine anger off with this trick.

[Exit.

afogo

If I were valiant now, I would kill this fellow,
I have many enough lies by me at a pinch
To pay for twenty Rascals lives that vex me, I'll to this Lady, there I shall be satisfied.

[Exit.

Enter Leon, and Margarita.

n

Come, we'll away unto your country house,
And there we'll learn to live contently,
This place is full of charge, and full of hurry,
No part of sweetness dwells about these cities.

garita

Whither you will, I wait upon your pleasure;
Live in a hollow tree Sir, I'll live with ye.

n

I, now you strike a harmony, a true one,
When your obedience waits upon your Husband,
And your sick will aims at the care of honour,
Why now I dote upon ye, love ye dearly,
And my rough nature falls like roaring streams,
Clearly and sweetly into your embraces.
O what a Jewel is a woman excellent,
A wise, a vertuous and a noble woman!
When we meet such, we bear our stamps on both sides,
And through the world we hold our currant virtues,
Alone we are single medals, only faces,
And wear our fortunes out in useless shadows,
Command you now, and ease me of that trouble,
I'll be as humble to you as a servant,
Bid whom you please, invite your noble friends,
They shall be welcome all, visit acquaintance,
Goe at your pleasure, now experience
Has link't you fast unto the chain of goodness:
What noise is this, what dismal cry?

[Clashing swords. A cry within, down with their swords.]

garita

'Tis loud too.
Sure there's some mischief done i'th' street, look out there.

n

Look out and help.

Enter a Servant.

ant

Oh Sir the Duke Medina.

n

What of the Duke Medina?

ant

Oh sweet Gentleman, is almost slain.

garita

Away away and help him, all the house help.

[Exit Servant.

n

How slain? why Margarita,
Why wife, sure some new device they have a foot again,
Some trick upon my credit, I shall meet it,
I had rather guide a ship Imperial Alone, and in a storm, than rule one woman.

Enter Duke, Margarita, Sanchio, Alonzo, Servant.

garita

How came ye hurt Sir?

e of Medina

I fell out with my friend the noble Coronel,
My cause was naught, for 'twas about your honour:
And he that wrongs the Innocent ne'r prospers,
And he has left me thus for charity,
Lend me a bed to ease my tortur'd body,
That e're I perish I may show my penitence,
I fear I am slain.

n

Help Gentlemen to carry him,
There shall be nothing in this house my Lord,
But as your own.

e of Medina

I thank ye noble Sir.

n

To bed with him, and wife give your attendance.

Enter Juan.

n de Castro

Doctors and Surgions.

de Medina

Do not disquiet me,
But let me take my leave in peace.

[Ex. Duke, Sanchio, Alon. Marg. Servant.

n

Afore me
'Tis rarely counterfeited.

n de Castro

True, it is so Sir,
And take you heed, this last blow do not spoil ye,
He is not hurt, only we made a scuffle,
As though we purpos'd anger; that same scratch
On's hand he took, to colour all and draw compassion,
That he might get into your house more cunningly.
I must not stay, stand now, and y'are a brave fellow.

n

I thank ye noble Coronel, and I honour ye.

[Exit Juan.

Never be quiet?

Enter Margarita.

garita

He's most desperate ill Sir,
I do not think these ten months will recover him.

n

Does he hire my house to play the fool in,
Or does it stand on Fairy ground, we are haunted,
Are all men and their wives troubled with dreams thus?

garita

What ail you Sir?

n

Nay what ail you sweet wife,
To put these daily pastimes on my patience?
What dost thou see in me, that I should suffer thus,
Have not I done my part like a true Husband,
And paid some desperate debts you never look'd for?

garita

You have done handsomely I must confess Sir.

n

Have I not kept thee waking like a hawk?
And watcht thee with delights to satisfy thee?
The very tithes of which had won a Widow.

garita

Alas I pity ye.

n

Thou wilt make me angry,
Thou never saw'st me mad yet.

garita

You are alwaies,
You carry a kind of bedlam still about ye.

n

If thou pursuest me further I run stark mad,
If you have more hurt Dukes or Gentlemen,

To lye here on your cure, I shall be desperate,
I know the trick, and you shall feel I know it,
Are ye so hot that no hedge can contain ye?
I'll have thee let blood in all the veins about thee,
I'll have thy thoughts found too, and have them open'd,
Thy spirits purg'd, for those are they that fire ye,
Thy maid shall be thy Mistris, thou the maid,
And all those servile labours that she reach at,
And goe through cheerfully, or else sleep empty,
That maid shall lye by me to teach you duty,
You in a pallet by to humble ye,
And grieve for what you lose.

garita

I have lost my self Sir,
And all that was my base self, disobedience,

[kneels.

My wantonness, my stubbornness I have lost too,
And now by that pure faith good wives are crown'd with,
By your own nobleness.

Enter Altea.

n

I take ye up, and wear ye next my heart,
See you be worth it. Now what with you?

a

I come to tell my Lady,
There is a fulsome fellow would fain speak with her.

n

'Tis Cacafogo, goe and entertain him,
And draw him on with hopes.

garita

I shall observe ye.

n

I have a rare design upon that Gentleman,
And you must work too.

a

I shall Sir most willingly.

n

Away then both, and keep him close in some place
From the Dukes sight, and keep the Duke in too, Make 'em believe both, I'll find time to cure 'em.

[Exeunt.]

Enter Perez, and Estifania, with a Pistol, and a Dagge[r].

hael Perez

Why how darst thou meet me again thou rebel,
And knowst how thou hast used me thrice, thou rascal?
Were there not waies enough to fly my vengeance,
No holes nor vaults to hide thee from my fury,
But thou must meet me face to face to kill thee?
I would not seek thee to destroy thee willingly,
But now thou comest to invite me,
And comest upon me,
How like a sheep-biting Rogue taken i'th' manner,
And ready for the halter dost thou look now!
Thou hast a hanging look thou scurvy thing, hast ne'r a knife
Nor ever a string to lead thee to Elysium?
Be there no pitifull 'Pothecaries in this town,
That have compassion upon wretched women,
And dare administer a dram of rats-bane,
But thou must fall to me?

fania

I know you have mercy.

hael Perez

If I had tuns of mercy thou deserv'st none,
What new trick is now afoot, and what new houses
Have you i'th' air, what orchards in apparition,
What canst thou say for thy life?

fania

Little or nothing,
I know you'l kill me, and I know 'tis useless
To beg for mercy, pray let me draw my book out,
And pray a little.

hael Perez

Do, a very little,
For I have farther business than thy killing,
I have mony yet to borrow, speak when you are ready.

fania

Now now Sir, now,

[shews a Pistol.

Come on, do you start off from me,
Do you swear great Captain, have you seen a spirit?

hael Perez

Do you wear guns?

fania

I am a Souldiers wife Sir,
And by that priviledge I may be arm'd,
Now what's the news, and let's discourse more friendly,
And talk of our affairs in peace.

hael Perez

Let me see,
Prethee let me see thy gun, 'tis a very pretty one.

fania

No no Sir, you shall feel.

hael Perez

Hold ye villain, what thine own Husband?

fania

Let mine own Husband then
Be in's own wits, there, there's a thousand duckets,
Who must provide for you, and yet you'l kill me.

hael Perez

I will not hurt thee for ten thousand millio[n]s.

fania

When will you redeem your Jewels, I have pawn'd 'em,
You see for what, we must keep touch.

hael Perez

I'll kiss thee,
And get as many more, I'll make thee famous,
Had we the house now!

fania

Come along with me,
If that be vanish't there be more to hire Sir.

hael Perez

I see I am an asse when thou art near me.

Enter Leon, Margarita, and Altea, with a Taper.

n

Is the fool come?

a

Yes and i'th' celler fast,
And there he staies his good hour till I call him,
He will make dainty musick among the sack-butts,
I have put him just, Sir, under the Dukes chamber.

n

It is the better.

a

Has given me royally,
And to my Lady a whole load of portigues.

n

Better and better still, go Margarita,
Now play your prize, you say you dare be honest,
I'll put ye to your best.

'garita

Secure your self Sir, give me the candle,
Pass away in silence.

[Ex. Leon and Altea. She knocks.]

e of Medina

Who's there, oh oh.

'garita

My Lord,

e of Medina within

Have ye brought me comfort?

'garita

I have my Lord.
Come forth 'tis I, come gently out I'll help ye,

Enter Duke, in a gown.

Come softly too, how do you?

e of Medina

Are there none here?
Let me look round; we cannot be too wary,

[noise below.]

Oh let me bless this hour, are you alone sweet friend?

garita

Alone to comfort you.

[Cacafofo makes a noise below.]

Medina

What's that you tumble?
I have heard a noise this half hour under me,
A fearful noise.

garita

The fat thing's mad i'th' cellar,
And stumbles from one hogs-head to another,
Two cups more, and he ne'r shall find the way out.
What do you fear? come, sit down by me cheerfully,
My Husband's safe, how do your wounds?

Medina

I have none Lady,
My wounds I counterfeited cunningly,

[noise below.]

And feign'd the quarrel too, to enjoy you sweet,
Let's lose no time, heark the same noise again.

garita

What noise, why look ye pale? I hear no stirring,
This goblin in the vault will be so tiptled.
You are not well I know by your flying fancy,
Your body's ill at ease, your wounds.

Medina

I have none, I am as lusty and as full of health,
High in my blood.

garita

Weak in your blood you would say,
How wretched is my case, willing to please ye,
And find you so disable?

Je of Medina

Believe me Lady.

Je of Medina

I know you will venture all you have to satisfy me,
Your life I know, but is it fit I spoil ye,
Is it my love do you think?

Je of Medina

Here's to the Duke.

Je of Medina

It nam'd me certainly,
I heard it plainly sound.

Je of Medina

You are hurt mortally,
And fitter for your prayers Sir than pleasure,
What starts you make? I would not kiss you wantonly,
For the world's wealth; have I secur'd my Husband,
And put all doubts aside to be deluded?

Je of Medina

I come, I come.

Je of Medina

Heaven bless me.

Je of Medina

And bless us both, for sure this is the Devil,
I plainly heard it now, he will come to fetch ye,
A very spirit, for he spoke under ground,
And spoke to you just as you would have snatcht me,
You are a wicked man, and sure this haunts ye,
Would you were out o'th' house.

Isabel of Medina

I would I were,
O' that condition I had leapt a window.

Isabella

And that's the least leap if you mean to scape Sir,
Why what a frantick man were you to come here,
What a weak man to counterfeit deep wounds,
To wound another deeper!

Isabel of Medina

Are you honest then?

Isabella

Yes then and now, and ever, and excellent honest,
And exercise this pastime but to shew ye,
Great men are fools sometimes as well as wretches.
Would you were well hurt, with any hope of life,
Cut to the brains, or run clean through the body,
To get out quietly as you got in Sir,
I wish it like a friend that loves ye dearly,
For if my Husband take ye, and take ye thus a counterfeit,
One that would clip his credit out of his honour,
He must kill ye presently,
There is no mercy nor an hour of pity,
And for me to intreat in such an agony,
Would shew me little better than one guilty,
Have you any mind to a Lady now?

Isabel of Medina

Would I were off fair,
If ever Lady caught me in a trap more.

Isabella

If you be well and lusty, fy fy shake not,
You say you love me, come, come bravely now,
Despise all danger, I am ready for ye.

Isabel of Medina

She mocks my misery, thou cruel Lady.

‘garita

Thou cruel Lord, wouldst thou betray my honesty,
Betray it in mine own house, wrong my Husband,
Like a night thief, thou darst not name by day-light?

e of Medina

I am most miserable.

‘garita

You are indeed,
And like a foolish thing you have made your self so,
Could not your own discretion tell ye Sir,
When I was married I was none of yours?
Your eyes were then commanded to look off me,
And I now stand in a circle and secure,
Your spells nor power can never reach my body,
Mark me but this, and then Sir be most miserable,
'Tis sacrilege to violate a wedlock,
You rob two Temples, make your self twice guilty,
You ruine hers, and spot her noble Husbands.

e of Medina

Let me be gone, I'll never more attempt ye.

‘garita

You cannot goe, 'tis not in me to save ye,
Dare ye do ill, and poorly then shrink under it?
Were I the Duke Medina, I would fight now,
For you must fight and bravely, it concerns you,
You do me double wrong if you sneak off Sir,
And all the world would say I lov'd a coward,
And you must dye too, for you will be kill'd,
And leave your youth, your honour and your state,
And all those dear delights you worship't here.

[Noise below.]

Je of Medina

The noise again!

afogo below

Some small beer if you love me.

garita

The Devil haunts you sure, your sins are mighty.
A drunken Devil too, to plague your villany.

Je of Medina

Preserve me but this once.

garita

There's a deep well
In the next yard, if you dare venture drowning,
It is but dea[t]h.

Je of Medina

I would not dye so wretchedly.

garita

Out of a garret window I'll let you down then,
But say the rope be rotten, 'tis huge high too.

Je of Medina

Have you no mercy?

garita

Now you are frightened throughly,
And find what 'tis to play the fool in folly,
And see with clear eyes your detested folly,
I'll be your guard.

Je of Medina

And I'll be your true servant,
Ever from this hour vertuously to love ye,
Chastly and modestly to look upon ye,
And here I seal it.

garita

I may kiss a stranger, for you must now be so.

Enter Leon, Juan, Alonzo, Sanchio.

n

How do you my Lord,
Me thinks you look but poorly on this matter.
Has my wife wounded ye, you were well before,
Pray Sir be comforted, I have forgot all,
Truly forgiven too, wife you are a right one,
And now with unknown nations I dare trust ye.

n de Castro

No more feign'd fights my Lord, they never prosper.

n

Who's this? the Devil in the vault?

a

'Tis he Sir, and as lovingly drunk, as though he had studied it.

afogo

Give me a cup of Sack, and kiss me Lady,
Kiss my sweet face, and make thy Husband cuckold,
An Ocean of sweet Sack, shall we speak treason?

n

He is Devilish drunk.

e of Medina

I had thought he had been a Devil.
He made as many noises and as horrible.

n

Oh a true lover Sir will lament loudly,
Which of the butts is your Mistris?

afogo

Butt in thy belly.

n

There's two in thine I am sure, 'tis grown so monstrous.

afogo

Butt in thy face.

n

Go carry him to sleep,
A fools love should be drunk, he has paid well for't too.
When he is sober let him out to rail,
Or hang himself, there will be no loss of him.

[Exit Caca. and Servant.

Enter Perez, and Estifania.

n

Who's this? my Mauhound cousin?

hael Perez

Good Sir, 'tis very good, would I had a house too,
For there is no talking in the open air,
My Tarmogant Couz, I would be bold to tell ye,
I durst be merry too; I tell you plainly,
You have a pretty seat, you have the luck on't,
A pretty Lady too, I have mist both,
My Carpenter built in a mist I thank him,
Do me the courtesie to let me see it,
See it but once more. But I shall cry for anger.
I'll hire a Chandlers shop close under ye,
And for my foolerie, sell sope and whip-cord,
Nay if you do not laugh now and laugh heartily,
You are a fool couz.

n

I must laugh a little,
And now I have done, couz thou shalt live with me,
My merry couz, the world shall not divorce us,

Thou art a valiant man, and thou shalt never want,
Will this content thee?

hael Perez

I'll cry, and then I'll be thankfull,
Indeed I will, and I'll be honest to ye.
I would live a swallow here I must confess.
Wife I forgive thee all if thou be honest,
At thy peril, I believe thee excellent.

fania

If I prove otherwaies, let me beg first,
Hold, this is yours, some recompence for service,
Use it to nobler ends than he that gave it.

e of Medina

And this is yours, your true commission, Sir,
Now you are a Captain.

n

You are a noble Prince Sir,
And now a souldier, Gentleman, we all rejoyce in't.

n de Castro

Sir, I shall wait upon you through all fortunes.

izo

And I.

a

And I must needs attend my Mistris.

n

Will you goe Sister?

a

Yes indeed good Brother,
I have two ties, mine own bloud,
And my Mistris.

garita

Is she your Sister?

n

Yes indeed good wife,
And my best Sister,
For she prov'd so, wench,
When she deceiv'd you with a loving Husband.

a

I would not deal so truly for a stranger.

garita

Well I could chide ye,
But it must be lovingly and like a Sister,
I'll bring you on your way, and feast ye nobly,
For now I have an honest heart to love ye,
And then deliver you to the blue Neptune.

n de Castro

Your colours you must wear, and wear 'em proudly,
Wear 'em before the bullet, and in bloud too,
And all the world shall know
We are Vertues servants.

e of Medina

And all the world shall know, a noble mind Makes women beautifull, and envie blind.

[Exeunt.]

Prologue.

Pleasure attend ye, and about ye sit
The springs of mirth, fancy, delight and wit
To stir you up, do not your looks let fall,
Nor to remembrance our late errors call,
Because this day w' are Spaniards all again,
The story of our Play, and our Scene Spain:
The errors too, do not for this cause hate,
Now we present their wit and not their state.
Nor Ladies be not angry if you see,
A young fresh beauty, wanton and too free,
Seek to abuse her Husband, still 'tis Spain,
No such gross errors in your Kingdom reign,
W' are Vesrals all, and though we blow the fire,
We seldom make it flame up to desire,
Take no example neither to begin,
For some by precedent delight to sin:
Nor blame the Poet if he slip aside
Sometimes lasciviously if not too wide.
But hold your Fanns close, and then smile at ease,
A cruel Scene did never Lady please.
Nor Gentlemen, pray be not you displeased,
Though we present some men fool'd, some diseased,
Some drunk, some mad: we mean not you, you're free,
We tax no farther than our Comedie,
You are our friends, sit noble then and see.

Epilogue.

Good night our worthy friends, and may you part
Each with as merry and as free a heart

As you came hither; to those noble eyes
That deign to smile on our poor faculties,
And give a blessing to our labouring ends,
As we hope many, to such fortune sends
Their own desires, wives fair as light as chaste;
To those that live by spight Wives made in hast.

APPENDIX

RULE A WIFE, AND HAVE A WIFE.

The Dramatis Personae are not given in the quarto of 1640 nor in the 2nd folio. They are as follows:--Duke of Medina. Juan de Castro, Sanchio, Alonzo, Michael Perez, Officers. Leon, Altea's brother. Cacafoego, a usurer. Lorenzo. Coachman, etc. Margarita. Altea. Estifania. Clara. Three old ladies. Old woman. Maids, etc.

Unless where otherwise stated the following variations are from the quarto of 1640, the title-page of which runs thus:--

Rule a Wife | And have a Wife. | A Comoedy. | Acted by his | Majesties
Servants. | Written by | John Fletcher | Gent. | Oxford, | Printed by Leonard
Lichfield | Printer to the University. | Anno 1640.

- p. 170, ◦ l. 30. mouth.
- p. 171, ◦ l. 14. most subtlest.
 ◦ l. 18. With yee.
 ◦ l. 19. them.
 ◦ l. 38. and often elsewhere] um for 'em.
- p. 172, ◦ l. 2. the picke.

- p. 173,
 - l. 22. thank ye.
- p. 175,
 - l. 1. Yes I.
 - l. 29. Exit.
 - l. 31. mine ayme.
- p. 176,
 - l. 30. 2nd folio prints] calling. | And
- p. 178,
 - l. 10. a starv'd.
 - l. 22. look'st.
 - l. 24. 2nd folio misprints] hear.
- p. 179,
 - l. 33. Or any.
- p. 182,
 - ll. 6, etc. Quarto frequently prints 4 for Altea here and in similar places.
 - l. 33. doubty.
- p. 183,
 - l. 2. Has not.
 - l. 3. 2nd folio misprints] hin.
 - l. 5. Has no.
 - l. 38. 2nd folio misprints] compaines.
- p. 184,
 - l. 13. a house.
- p. 185,
 - l. 2. Altea, the Ladies.
 - l. 4. has been.
- p. 187,
 - l. 26. I finde.
- p. 189,
 - l. 28. enter'd here.
 - l. 39. salute him.
- p. 190,
 - l. 25. if she.
- p. 194,
 - ll. 8 and 11. Omits Lady here and often similarly elsewhere.
- p. 196,
 - l. 26. Exit.
- p. 197,
 - l. 20. basinesse.
- p. 198,
 - l. 29. (some copies), and ruine too.
 - l. 32. have meaner.

- 1. 39. 2nd folio misprints] Jaun.
- p. 200,
 - 1. 8. Some copies read] laugh him, leave ager.
- p. 201,
 - 1. 2. Adds the following line] It is a Ladies, what's the Ladies name wench.
 - 1. 6. a the.
 - 1. 23. they are.
 - 1. 38. flea me.
- p. 202,
 - 1. 27. Nor I.
 - 1. 28. Omits of.
- p. 203,
 - 1. 13. Tas.
 - 1. 17. as ere I looked on.
- p. 204,
 - 1. 20. Both into.
 - 1. 37. Adds the following line] And hold it to my use, the law allowes it,
- p. 206,
 - 1. 38. I have seen.
- p. 207,
 - 1. 3. Save.
 - 1. 29. Is possest.
- p. 208,
 - 1. 1. a your.
 - 1. 17. bless ye.
- p. 209,
 - 1. 5. believe ye.
 - 1. 6. Pray ye.
 - 1. 12. after ye.
 - 1. 18. forgot ye.
 - 1. 34. vild, vild.
- p. 210,
 - 1. 15. 2nd folio] do brave, Captain.
- p. 211,
 - 1. 10. 2nd folio misprints] Ptithee.
 - 1. 23. put your fury up, Sir.
 - 1. 32. colt ye.
 - 1. 33. teach ye.
- p. 212,
 - 1. 22. on, it looked so.

- 1. 30. Pray ye.
- p. 213,
 - 1. 39. heere Don Juan.
- p. 214,
 - 1. 30. 'Tas.
 - 1. 33. Omits do.
- p. 215,
 - 1. 21. all sit.
 - 1. 28. Has.
- p. 216,
 - 1. 22. 2nd folio misprints] thinks.
 - 1. 31. I goe alas.
 - 1. 38. linnens.
- p. 220,
 - 1. 1. Has.
 - 1. 21. I use.
- p. 223,
 - 1. 10. 2nd folio misprints] Perox.
 - 1. 14. 2nd folio misprints] haugh.
- p. 227,
 - 1. 12. 2nd folio] Dagge.
 - 1. 24. Nor never.
- p. 228,
 - 1. 17. 2nd folio misprints] millius.
 - ll. 18 and 19. pawn'd um.
- p. 230,
 - 1. 17. A that.
- p. 231,
 - 1. 16. too Templers.
 - 1. 35. 2nd folio misprints] deah.
- p. 234,
 - 1. 25. raignes.
 - 1. 12. Adds Finis.
 - 1. 24. abuse your.
 - 1. 29. president.

 END OF THE PROJECT GUTENBERG EBOOK RULE A WIFE,
AND HAVE A WIFE ***

Updated editions will replace the previous one—the old editions will be renamed.

Creating the works from print editions not protected by U.S. copyright law means that no one owns a United States copyright in these works, so the Foundation (and you!) can copy and distribute it in the United States without permission and without paying copyright royalties. Special rules, set forth in the General Terms of Use part of this license, apply to copying and distributing Project Gutenberg™ electronic works to protect the PROJECT GUTENBERG™ concept and trademark. Project Gutenberg is a registered trademark, and may not be used if you charge for an eBook, except by following the terms of the trademark license, including paying royalties for use of the Project Gutenberg trademark. If you do not charge anything for copies of this eBook, complying with the trademark license is very easy. You may use this eBook for nearly any purpose such as creation of derivative works, reports, performances and research. Project Gutenberg eBooks may be modified and printed and given away—you may do practically ANYTHING in the United States with eBooks not protected by U.S. copyright law. Redistribution is subject to the trademark license, especially commercial redistribution.

START: FULL LICENSE

THE FULL PROJECT GUTENBERG™ LICENSE

PLEASE READ THIS BEFORE YOU DISTRIBUTE OR USE THIS WORK

To protect the Project Gutenberg™ mission of promoting the free distribution of electronic works, by using or distributing this work (or any other work associated in any way with the phrase “Project Gutenberg”), you agree to comply with all the terms of the Full Project Gutenberg License available with this file or online at www.gutenberg.org/license.

Section 1. General Terms of Use and Redistributing Project Gutenberg electronic works

1.A. By reading or using any part of this Project Gutenberg electronic work, you indicate that you have read, understand, agree to and accept all the terms of this license and intellectual property (trademark/copyright) agreement. If you do not agree to abide by all the terms of this agreement, you must cease using and return or destroy all copies of Project Gutenberg electronic works in your possession. If you paid a fee for obtaining a copy of or access to a Project Gutenberg electronic work and you do not agree to be bound by the terms of this agreement, you may obtain a refund from the person or entity to whom you paid the fee as set forth in paragraph 1.E.8.

1.B. “Project Gutenberg” is a registered trademark. It may only be used on or associated in any way with an electronic work by people who agree to be bound by the terms of this agreement. There are a few things that you can do with most Project Gutenberg electronic works even without complying with the full terms of this agreement. See paragraph 1.C below. There are a lot of things you can do with Project Gutenberg electronic works if you follow the terms of this agreement and help preserve free future access to Project Gutenberg electronic works. See paragraph 1.E below.

1.C. The Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation (“the Foundation” or PGLAF), owns a compilation copyright in the collection of Project Gutenberg electronic works. Nearly all the individual works in the collection are in the public domain in the United States. If an individual work is unprotected by copyright law in the United States and you are located in the United States, we do not claim a right to prevent you from copying, distributing, performing, displaying or creating derivative works based on the work as long as all references to Project Gutenberg are removed. Of course, we hope that you will support the Project Gutenberg mission of promoting free access to electronic works by freely sharing Project Gutenberg works in compliance with the terms of this agreement for keeping the Project Gutenberg name associated with the work. You can easily comply with the terms of this agreement by keeping this work in the same format with its attached full Project Gutenberg License when you share it without charge with others.

1.D. The copyright laws of the place where you are located also govern what you can do with this work. Copyright laws in most countries are in a constant state of change. If you are outside the United States, check the laws of your country in addition to the terms of this agreement before downloading, copying, displaying, performing, distributing or creating derivative works based on this work or any other Project Gutenberg work. The Foundation makes no representations concerning the copyright status of any work in any country other than the United States.

1.E. Unless you have removed all references to Project Gutenberg:

1.E.1. The following sentence, with active links to, or other immediate access to, the full Project Gutenberg License must appear prominently whenever any copy of a Project Gutenberg work (any work on which the phrase “Project Gutenberg” appears, or with which the phrase “Project Gutenberg” is associated) is accessed, displayed, performed, viewed, copied or distributed:

This eBook is for the use of anyone anywhere in the United States and most other parts of the world at no cost and with almost no restrictions whatsoever. You may copy it, give it away or re-use it under the terms of the Project Gutenberg™ License included with this eBook or online at www.gutenberg.org. If you are not located in the United States, you will have to check the laws of the country where you are located before using this eBook.

1.E.2. If an individual Project Gutenberg electronic work is derived from texts not protected by U.S. copyright law (does not contain a notice indicating that it is posted with permission of the copyright holder), the work can be copied and distributed to anyone in the United States without paying any fees or charges. If you are redistributing or providing access to a work with the phrase “Project Gutenberg” associated with or appearing on the work, you must comply either with the requirements of paragraphs 1.E.1 through 1.E.7 or obtain permission for the use of the work and the Project Gutenberg trademark as set forth in paragraphs 1.E.8 or 1.E.9.

1.E.3. If an individual Project Gutenberg electronic work is posted with the permission of the copyright holder, your use and distribution must comply with both paragraphs 1.E.1 through 1.E.7 and any additional terms imposed by the copyright holder. Additional terms will be linked to the Project Gutenberg License for all works posted with the permission of the copyright holder found at the beginning of this work.

1.E.4. Do not unlink or detach or remove the full Project Gutenberg License terms from this work, or any files containing a part of this work or any other work associated with Project Gutenberg.

1.E.5. Do not copy, display, perform, distribute or redistribute this electronic work, or any part of this electronic work, without prominently displaying the sentence set forth in paragraph 1.E.1 with active links or immediate access to the full terms of the Project Gutenberg License.

1.E.6. You may convert to and distribute this work in any binary, compressed, marked up, nonproprietary or proprietary form, including any word processing or hypertext form. However, if you provide access to or distribute copies of a Project Gutenberg work in a format other than “Plain Vanilla ASCII” or other format used in the official version posted on the official Project Gutenberg website (www.gutenberg.org), you must, at no additional cost, fee or expense to the user, provide a copy, a means of exporting a copy, or a means of obtaining a copy upon request, of the work in its original “Plain Vanilla ASCII” or other form. Any alternate format must include the full Project Gutenberg License as specified in paragraph 1.E.1.

1.E.7. Do not charge a fee for access to, viewing, displaying, performing, copying or distributing any Project Gutenberg works unless you comply with paragraph 1.E.8 or 1.E.9.

1.E.8. You may charge a reasonable fee for copies of or providing access to or distributing Project Gutenberg electronic works provided that:

- You pay a royalty fee of 20% of the gross profits you derive from the use of Project Gutenberg works calculated using the method you already use to calculate your applicable taxes. The fee is owed to the owner of the Project Gutenberg trademark, but he has agreed to donate royalties under this paragraph to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation. Royalty payments must be paid within 60 days following each date on which you prepare (or are legally required to prepare) your periodic tax returns. Royalty payments should be clearly marked as such and sent to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation at the address specified in Section 4, “Information about donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation.”
- You provide a full refund of any money paid by a user who notifies you in writing (or by e-mail) within 30 days of receipt that s/he does not agree to the terms of the full Project Gutenberg™ License. You must require such a user to return or destroy all copies of the works possessed in a physical medium and discontinue all use of and all access to other copies of Project Gutenberg™ works.
- You provide, in accordance with paragraph 1.F.3, a full refund of any money paid for a work or a replacement copy, if a defect in the electronic work is discovered and reported to you within 90 days of receipt of the work.

- You comply with all other terms of this agreement for free distribution of Project Gutenberg™ works.

1.E.9. If you wish to charge a fee or distribute a Project Gutenberg™ electronic work or group of works on different terms than are set forth in this agreement, you must obtain permission in writing from the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, the manager of the Project Gutenberg™ trademark. Contact the Foundation as set forth in Section 3 below.

1.F.

1.F.1. Project Gutenberg volunteers and employees expend considerable effort to identify, do copyright research on, transcribe and proofread works not protected by U.S. copyright law in creating the Project Gutenberg™ collection. Despite these efforts, Project Gutenberg™ electronic works, and the medium on which they may be stored, may contain “Defects,” such as, but not limited to, incomplete, inaccurate or corrupt data, transcription errors, a copyright or other intellectual property infringement, a defective or damaged disk or other medium, a computer virus, or computer codes that damage or cannot be read by your equipment.

1.F.2. LIMITED WARRANTY, DISCLAIMER OF DAMAGES - Except for the “Right of Replacement or Refund” described in paragraph 1.F.3, the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, the owner of the Project Gutenberg™ trademark, and any other party distributing a Project Gutenberg™ electronic work under this agreement, disclaim all liability to you for damages, costs and expenses, including legal fees. YOU AGREE THAT YOU HAVE NO REMEDIES FOR NEGLIGENCE, STRICT LIABILITY, BREACH OF WARRANTY OR BREACH OF CONTRACT EXCEPT THOSE PROVIDED IN PARAGRAPH 1.F.3. YOU AGREE THAT THE FOUNDATION, THE TRADEMARK OWNER, AND ANY DISTRIBUTOR UNDER THIS AGREEMENT WILL NOT BE LIABLE TO YOU FOR ACTUAL, DIRECT, INDIRECT, CONSEQUENTIAL, PUNITIVE OR INCIDENTAL DAMAGES

EVEN IF YOU GIVE NOTICE OF THE POSSIBILITY OF SUCH DAMAGE.

1.F.3. LIMITED RIGHT OF REPLACEMENT OR REFUND - If you discover a defect in this electronic work within 90 days of receiving it, you can receive a refund of the money (if any) you paid for it by sending a written explanation to the person you received the work from. If you received the work on a physical medium, you must return the medium with your written explanation. The person or entity that provided you with the defective work may elect to provide a replacement copy in lieu of a refund. If you received the work electronically, the person or entity providing it to you may choose to give you a second opportunity to receive the work electronically in lieu of a refund. If the second copy is also defective, you may demand a refund in writing without further opportunities to fix the problem.

1.F.4. Except for the limited right of replacement or refund set forth in paragraph 1.F.3, this work is provided to you 'AS-IS', WITH NO OTHER WARRANTIES OF ANY KIND, EXPRESS OR IMPLIED, INCLUDING BUT NOT LIMITED TO WARRANTIES OF MERCHANTABILITY OR FITNESS FOR ANY PURPOSE.

1.F.5. Some states do not allow disclaimers of certain implied warranties or the exclusion or limitation of certain types of damages. If any disclaimer or limitation set forth in this agreement violates the law of the state applicable to this agreement, the agreement shall be interpreted to make the maximum disclaimer or limitation permitted by the applicable state law. The invalidity or unenforceability of any provision of this agreement shall not void the remaining provisions.

1.F.6. INDEMNITY - You agree to indemnify and hold the Foundation, the trademark owner, any agent or employee of the Foundation, anyone providing copies of Project Gutenberg™ electronic works in accordance with this agreement, and any volunteers associated with the production, promotion and distribution of Project Gutenberg™ electronic works, harmless from all liability, costs and expenses, including legal fees, that arise directly or indirectly from any of the following which you do or cause to occur: (a) distribution of this or any Project Gutenberg work, (b) alteration, modification, or additions or deletions to any Project Gutenberg work, and (c) any Defect you cause.

Section 2. Information about the Mission of Project Gutenberg

Project Gutenberg is synonymous with the free distribution of electronic works in formats readable by the widest variety of computers including obsolete, old, middle-aged and new computers. It exists because of the efforts of hundreds of volunteers and donations from people in all walks of life.

Volunteers and financial support to provide volunteers with the assistance they need are critical to reaching Project Gutenberg's goals and ensuring that the Project Gutenberg collection will remain freely available for generations to come. In 2001, the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation was created to provide a secure and permanent future for Project Gutenberg and future generations. To learn more about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation and how your efforts and donations can help, see Sections 3 and 4 and the Foundation information page at www.gutenberg.org.

Section 3. Information about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

The Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation is a non-profit 501(c)(3) educational corporation organized under the laws of the state of Mississippi and granted tax exempt status by the Internal Revenue Service. The Foundation's EIN or federal tax identification number is 64-6221541. Contributions to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation are tax deductible to the full extent permitted by U.S. federal laws and your state's laws.

The Foundation's business office is located at 41 Watchung Plaza #516, Montclair NJ 07042, USA, +1 (862) 621-9288. Email contact links and up to date contact information can be found at the Foundation's website and official page at www.gutenberg.org/contact

Section 4. Information about Donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

Project Gutenberg™ depends upon and cannot survive without widespread public support and donations to carry out its mission of increasing the number of public domain and licensed works that can be freely distributed in machine-readable form accessible by the widest array of equipment including outdated equipment. Many small donations ($1 to $5,000) are particularly important to maintaining tax exempt status with the IRS.

The Foundation is committed to complying with the laws regulating charities and charitable donations in all 50 states of the United States. Compliance requirements are not uniform and it takes a considerable effort, much paperwork and many fees to meet and keep up with these requirements. We do not solicit donations in locations where we have not received written confirmation of compliance. To SEND DONATIONS or determine the status of compliance for any particular state visit www.gutenberg.org/donate.

While we cannot and do not solicit contributions from states where we have not met the solicitation requirements, we know of no prohibition against accepting unsolicited donations from donors in such states who approach us with offers to donate.

International donations are gratefully accepted, but we cannot make any statements concerning tax treatment of donations received from outside the United States. U.S. laws alone swamp our small staff.

Please check the Project Gutenberg web pages for current donation methods and addresses. Donations are accepted in a number of other ways including checks, online payments and credit card donations. To donate, please visit: www.gutenberg.org/donate.

Section 5. General Information About Project Gutenberg electronic works

Professor Michael S. Hart was the originator of the Project Gutenberg concept of a library of electronic works that could be freely shared with anyone. For forty years, he produced and distributed Project Gutenberg eBooks with only a loose network of volunteer support.

Project Gutenberg eBooks are often created from several printed editions, all of which are confirmed as not protected by copyright in the U.S. unless a copyright notice is included. Thus, we do not necessarily keep eBooks in compliance with any particular paper edition.

Most people start at our website which has the main PG search facility: www.gutenberg.org.

This website includes information about Project Gutenberg, including how to make donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, how to help produce our new eBooks, and how to subscribe to our email newsletter to hear about new eBooks.