

ESOP
IV RHYME

THE
FABLES
OF
ÆSOP
IN RHYME
BY
J. G. K. G.

ILLUSTRATED

The Project Gutenberg eBook of Aesop, in Rhyme: Old Friends in a New Dress

This eBook is for the use of anyone anywhere in the United States and most other parts of the world at no cost and with almost no restrictions whatsoever. You may copy it, give it away or re-use it under the terms of the Project Gutenberg License included with this eBook or online at www.gutenberg.org. If you are not located in the United States, you will have to check the laws of the country where you are located before using this eBook.

Title: Aesop, in Rhyme: Old Friends in a New Dress

Author: Aesop

Marmaduke Park

Release date: April 19, 2007 [eBook #21189]

Most recently updated: January 2, 2021

Language: English

Other information and formats: www.gutenberg.org/ebooks/21189

Credits: Produced by David Edwards, Jacqueline Jeremy and the Online Distributed Proofreading Team at <https://www.pgdp.net>

(This file was produced from images generously made available by The University of Florida, The Internet Archive/Children's Library)

 START OF THE PROJECT GUTENBERG EBOOK AESOP, IN RHYME: OLD FRIENDS IN A NEW DRESS ***

CONTENTS

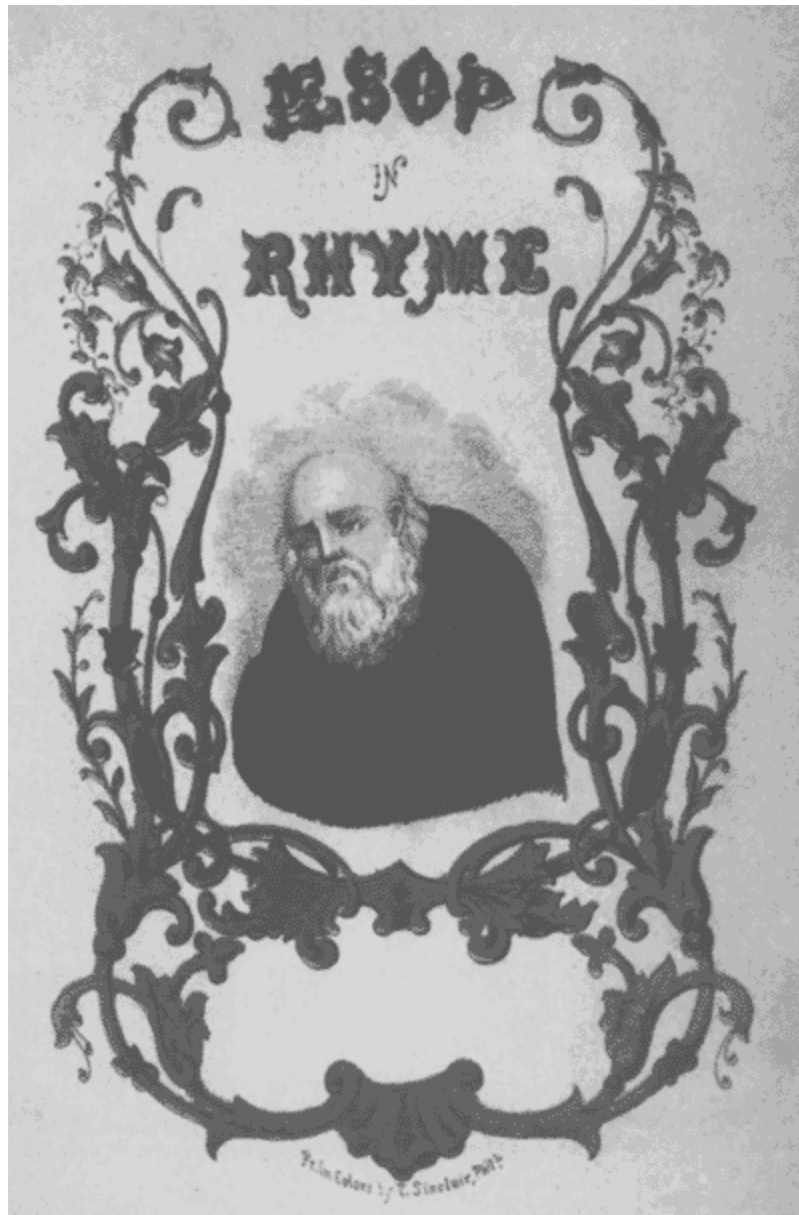

THE DOG AND THE WOLF	5
THE HERDSMAN	8
THE BOYS AND THE FROGS	11
THE COCK AND THE JEWEL	13
THE MAN AND THE LION	15
THE FOX AND THE CRANE	18
THE TRAVELLER AND THE SATYR	22
THE TRAVELLERS AND THE PURSE	25
THE MOUTH AND THE LIMBS	27
THE HARE AND THE TORTOISE	31
THE MILKMAID	34
THE LARK AND HER YOUNG ONES	39
THE PHILOSOPHER AND THE ACORN	43
THE WOLF AND THE CRANE	45
THE DOG AND THE SHADOW	48
THE TRAVELLERS AND THE BEAR	50
THE FROGS AND THE BULL	52
THE COUNCIL OF MICE	54
THE WOLF AND THE LAMB	57
THE BEASTS IN PARTNERSHIP	60
THE LION AND THE MOUSE	64
THE JEALOUS ASS	67
THE TOWN AND COUNTRY MICE	71
THE FOX AND THE CROW	75
THE LION AND THE ECHO	79
THE PAPER KITE	82

THE RATS AND THE CHEESE	85
AURELIA AND THE SPIDER	88
THE REDBREAST AND THE SPARROW	90
THE POET AND THE COBWEBS	92
THE EPICURE AND THE PHYSICIAN	96
THE FROGS DESIRING A KING	101
THE HARE AND THE BRAMBLE	104
THE HORSE AND THE STAG	106
THE CAT AND THE OLD MOUSE	108
THE FOX AND THE VISOR MASK	110
THE GOOSE THAT LAID THE GOLDEN EGGS	112
THE FOX AND THE GRAPES	114
THE MOUSE AND THE WEASEL	116
THE MISER AND HIS TREASURE	118
THE JACKDAW AND THE PEACOCKS	120
THE SPARROW AND THE HARE	122
THE ASS AND THE LION	123
THE STAG AND THE FOUNTAIN	125
THE EAGLE, THE CAT, AND THE SOW	127
THE EAGLE, THE RAVEN AND THE TORTOISE	129
THE FLAY AND THE HORSE	131
ESOP AT PLAY	132
THE OLD PILOT AND THE SAILORS	134
THE CRAB AND HER DAUGHTER	135
THE SUN AND THE WIND	137
THE TWO POTS	139
HERCULES AND THE CARTER	141
THE ANT AND THE GRASSHOPPER	142
THE CROW AND THE PITCHER	144
THE ANGLER AND THE LITTLE FISH	145
THE FROG AND THE FOX	146
THE APE AND HER YOUNG ONES	147
THE FIR TREE AND THE THORN	149
THE ASS IN THE LION'S SKIN	151
THE DOG IN THE MANGER	153
THE STAG AND THE VINE	154
THE FIR MISCHIEVOUS DOG	155

THE SICK MAN AND THE PHYSICIAN	156
THE FARMER AND HIS SONS	158
THE SWALLOW AND THE BIRDS	160
THE BOASTING TRAVELLER	162
THE OLD WOMAN AND HER MAIDS	164
THE FIR INDUSTRY AND SLOTH	166
THE SHEPHERD TURNED MERCHANT	168
THE SPENDTHRIFT AND THE SWALLOW	170
THE EAGLE AND THE CROW	171
THE WOLF AND THE SHEPHERD'S BOY	173
THE FOX WITHOUT A TAIL	175
THE MEN AND THE OYSTER	177
THE SHEPHERD AND HIS DOG	179
THE COUNTRYMAN AND THE JUSTICE	181
THE COCK AND THE FOX	183
THE BLIND MAN AND THE LAME	185
THE MAN AND THE SERPENT	187
THE TWO STREAMS	189
THE SOT AND HIS WIFE	191
THE FARMER AND HIS QUARRELSOME SONS	193
THE FIG TREE AND THE FLOWERING SHRUB	195
THE FARMER AND THE LANDLORD	197
THE SCHOOL-BOY AND THE MONITOR	199
THE MILLER AND HIS ASS	201
THE DREAMER AND HIS SONS	204
THE OLD MAN AND DEATH	206
THE PAINTER	209
THE COBBLER AND THE NABOB	212
THE HORSE AND HIS RIDER	215
THE GOOD MINISTER	219
THE SWAN AND THE COOK	221
THE LYNX AND THE MOLE	223
THE OLD CAT AND THE YOUNG MOUSE	225
THE TWO FRIENDS	227
THE SICK STAG	230
THE FOREST AND THE WOODMAN	232
THE ELEPHANT AND THE MONKEY OF JUPITER	234

THE WOODCUTTER AND DEATH	237
THE RAT AND THE OYSTER	239
THE PHYSICIANS	242
THE MOUNTAIN IN LABOR	244
THE CAT METAMORPHOSED INTO A WOMAN	246
THE FROG AND THE RAT	248
THE LION AND THE FLY	251
THE TWO MULES	253
THE JUPITER AND THE FARMER	255
THE COCK, THE CAT, AND THE LITTLE MOUSE	258
THE MONKEY	261
THE HORSE AND THE ASS	263
THE ASTROLOGER WHO FELL INTO A WELL	265
THE ANIMALS SICK WITH THE PLAGUE	269
THE CANDLE	273
THE HOG, THE GOAT, AND THE SHEEP	275
THE DELICATE HERON	278
THE BLACKAMOR AND HER MISTRESS	280
THE BEAR AND THE GARDENER	282
THE VULTURES AND THE PIGEONS	284
THE BEAR AND THE BEES	287

ÆSOP,
IN RHYME;

OR,

OLD FRIENDS IN A NEW DRESS.

ÆSOP,
IN RHYME;
OR,
OLD FRIENDS IN A NEW DRESS.

BY MARMADUKE PARK.

PHILADELPHIA :
C. G. HENDERSON, & CO., N. W. CORNER ARCH AND FIFTH STREETS.
1852.

BY MARMADUKE PARK.

PHILADELPHIA:
C. G. HENDERSON, & CO., N. W. CORNER ARCH AND FIFTH STREETS.
1852.

Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1852,

BY C. G. HENDERSON & CO., in the Clerk's Office of the District Court of the United States, in and for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

THE DOG AND THE WOLF.

was, whose scanty fare
person lean and spare;
as, so amply fed,
plump and sleek; 'tis said met this prosp'rous cur, n: "Your servant, sir;
see you look so well,
t is I cannot tell;
ke my fast to-day;
n concern'd to say,
tore or expectation,
a great vexation."

the dog replied:
so great beside;
not like to be come live with me."
oined the wolf, "I'll go: t work am I to do?"
e house, and do not fail ves, and wag your tail."

gg'd, and soon arrived

friendly mastiff lived.
The wolf, "I can't deny better house than I."
The other then replied,
"I will hence abide."
The wolf, "how kind you are!
Don't call that, hanging there?
A chain, or what?"
The dog, "I quite forgot that; sometimes, you see,
It little chain to me;
Intend to keep Walking in our sleep,
You wear it, you would find,
That you need to mind."

"The word," the wolf replied.
"I shall ne'er be tried;
Liberty again,
Collar and your chain."

MORAL.

Those sometimes seem to be Better off than we;
But they really are,
Their troubles too to bear,

ruth were really known, rievious as our own.

THE HERDSMAN.

who lived at a time and a place
l you not know, is but little disgrace, e morning, on counting his stock, iad been stolen that night from the flock.

iad caught ye, whoever ye be,
let you know, I'd have soon let ye see,
o expect," said the herdsman, "I trow;
ht of a scheme that will trouble you now."

e do, sir, but put up a board, e thief, and proposed a reward the man who would give information e thief, and his true designation.

cceded; for soon there applied neighbor, with others beside.
ie thief," said the herdsman, "at least;"
" said they, "and we'll show you the beast!"

aid the rustic, who thought he should die on n he found that the thief was a lion!

'hurry, what now shall I do?
amb to detect you 'tis true;
nsent all my substance to pay,
with safety get out of your way."

MORAL.

sk things that would ruin, if sent;
them in haste, and at leisure repent.

THE BOYS AND THE FROGS.

side a pond or lake,
once at duck and drake?
ess to their heart's content, nes were quickly sent.

e some (there will be such) eem amused so much;
e frogs, to whom the game,
ort was not the same.

one arrived, 'tis said,
e frog a broken head;
less than half an hour,
ath the dreadful shower.

ne, "You silly folks, I say, stones another way;
to you, to throw them thus,
ay, 'tis death to us!"

MORAL.

his moral may be learn'd:
by to all concern'd.

THE COCK AND THE JEWEL.

was: a sage was he (If Esop we may trust,) make a meal, you see,
 As other sages must.

it, as heretofore,
 When on the hunt for grain;
ch'd the litter o'er
 With all his might and main.

minute had he scratch'd,
 When, to his great surprise,
olden chain attach'd,
 He saw with both his eyes.

h he, "what have we here?
 A diamond, I protest!
nd ladies buy so dear,
 And hold in such request.

l barley-corn to me
 Has more intrinsic worth earls now in the sea,

Or gold now in the earth."

MORAL.

e, in Esop's mind,
Was this, there's not a doubt:
lost value, which we find
We cannot do without.

THE MAN AND THE LION.

on once had a dispute,
ckon'd the greatest, the man or the brute;
ursed on his side at some length, larged on his courage and strength.

would think, had enough to reply e question, which none could deny;
others who make a pretence, ect nonsense, and thought it good sense.

"don't be prating,—look yonder, I pray, ire of marble, now what will you say?
quished; but as for the man upon him; deny it who can."

id the lion, "who sculptured that stone?"
aid the man, "I must candidly own."
are sculptors," the other replied, i on the man see the lion astride."

MORAL.

it have added, if he had been wise, annot sculpture a stone, if he tries." tly shows where the difference lies.

THE FOX AND THE CRANE.

link," said a fox to a crane,
I am of yours is remarkably plain;
The you wear is so frightful a feature,
I appear a most singular creature."
The crane offended at what she had heard,
In full speed, without saying a word:
Said the fox, "Mrs. Crane, I protest To stand me, 'twas only a jest."
The fox affronted—stay with me and dine;
Why well 'tis this temper of mine
To hold things to my intimate friends;
That poor Reynard no mischief intends."
The crane thought it best not to break with him quite,
His remarks in a good-natured light.
As pleasant a face as she could
She lent her to dine, and replied that she would.
The fox perceived that his jokes were not over,
And removed from the victuals its cover
The game, butcher's meat, chicken, not fish;
The soup, in a broad shallow dish.
The fox lapp'd with his tongue very quick,
The crane could scarce dip in the point of her beak;
The fox said, "Poor dinner," said he to his guest;
The crane no means," said the bird, "I protest."

ask'd the fox on a subsequent day,
, it seems, for their dinner had they ced meat served up in a narrow-neck'd jar; narrow, for Reynard by far.
oor dinner, I fear," said the bird;
" said the fox, "'twould be very absurd
you say, yet I cannot complain, rough a fox, that I'm matched by a crane."

MORAL.

who play tricks which good manners condemn, ir own tricks play'd again upon them.

THE TRAVELLER AND THE SATYR.

ght, in winter slow,
re a forest through
gry, tired and wet,
ls like these to fret:
narp inclement day!
smal, dreary way!
ot, no cheering fields,
owling forest yields;
store or expectation!
t before me but starvation."

bad," a voice replied;
aveller turned aside,
atyr of the wood,
side his dwelling stood.
ave hard by," said he, re welcome, pray be free."

lid not hesitate,
mething good to eat,
o his heart's content,
nger as he went.

e satyr, "may I know blow your fingers so?"

ou," said the man, "be told?— ingers, 'numb'd with cold."

all his host replied, ottage to provide,
well, with spice infused,
vering guest produced:

as Esop sung,
raveller scald his tongue;
not again to do it,
d not wait, but blew it.

his host, in accent rough, ottage hot enough?"
e man, "full well I know it, t, that's why I blow it."
lain! do you so?"
ed, with angry brow;
l not a moment hold
ows both hot and cold!
ogues can that be done, ealing wretch, begone!"

MORAL.

scarce deserved such wrath, fingers—cooling broth.
d or new forbid it,
the same mouth he did it:
e of old and young,
ant—a double tongue;
now with civil clack,
soon behind one's back.

THE TRAVELLERS AND THE PURSE.

nce were walking in sociable chat,
When a purse one espied on the ground;
d he, (thank my fortune for that,)
"What a large sum of money I've found!"

ay I" said his friend, "for you know
'Tis but friendship to share it with me;" n you," said the other. "How so?
He who found it the owner should be."

d his friend, "but what sound do I hear?
'Stop thief!' one is calling to you;
n a constable close in the rear!"
Said the other, "Oh, what shall we do?"

ay we," said his friend, "for you know You claimed the sole right to the prize!
the money was taken by you,
With you the dishonesty lies."

MORAL.

are selfish, dishonest, and mean,
in dealing, will quickly be seen.

THE MOUTH AND THE LIMBS.

e, they say, 'twas then When all things spoke their mind;
legs of certain men,
 To treason felt inclined.

id legs together met,
 As snugly as they could,
d elbows, hands and feet,
 In discontented mood.

s neither right nor fair,
 Nor is there any need,
such toil and care,
 The greedy mouth to feed."

solved no more to do, Though we so long have done it;"
knees and elbows too,
 "And we are bent upon it."

ngue, "may surely speak, Since I his inmate am;

ces while you seek,
His virtues I'll proclaim.

nouth embezzles all,
The fruit of your exertion;
ssembly call
To prove the base assertion.

ich you with labor gain,
He too with labor chews;
ong the food retain,
But gives it for your use.

fice has resign'd
To whom you may prefer; herefore now to find Some other treasurer."

," they all replied;
"His wish shall be obeyed; lands may now be tried As treasurers in his stead."

h joy to this agreed,
And all to them was paid;
easure kept indeed,
And no disbursements made.

clam'rous members met,
A lean and hungry throng;
ved, from head to feet,
That what they'd done was wrong.

ice once again,
The mouth they all implored;
epted it, and then
Health was again restored.

MORAL.

tate affairs is meant,
Which we need not discuss;
will be content,
To find a moral thus:

s claims of large amount,
From arms, legs, feet, and hands;
ot, on that account,
Pay more than it demands.

THE HARE AND THE TORTOISE.

a tortoise, "Good sir, what a while
You have been only crossing the way;
Believe that to go half a mile,
You must travel two nights and a day."

intended," the creature replied,
"Though I walk but a tortoise's pace, I'll proper the point to decide,
We will run half a mile in a race."

said the hare; said the tortoise, "Proceed, And the fox shall decide who has won,"
started off with incredible speed;
But the tortoise walk'd leisurely on.

e, friend tortoise, walk on," said the hare,
"Well, I shall stay here for my dinner;
I'll give you a month, at that rate, to get there,
Then how can you hope to be winner?"

e could hear not a word that she said
For he was far distant behind;

It secured while at leisure she fed,
And took a sound nap when she dined.

slow walker came up with the hare,
And there fast asleep did he spy her;
Slyly crept with such caution and care,
That she woke not, although he pass'd by her.

Thought the hare, when she open'd her eyes,
"For the race,—and I soon shall have done it;"
Describe her chagrin and surprise,
When she found that the tortoise had won it!

MORAL.

Adding people, we often shall find,
Many confident people behind.

THE MILKMAID.

Who poized a full pail on her head,
In her prospects in life, it is said:
Should think that this milk will procure Good eggs, or fourscore to be sure.

Top a bit,—it must not be forgotten,
May be broken, and some may be rotten;
For accidents should be detach'd,
Be just sixty sound eggs to hatch'd.

Sound eggs—no; sound chickens, I mean;
May die—we'll suppose seventeen—
Not so many—say ten at the most,
Five fifty chickens to boil or to roast.

Be's their barley; how much will they need?
But one grain at a time when they feed,
Be trifle; now then let us see,
Set price, how much money there'll be?

A pair—five—four—three-and-six,
Mistakes, that low price I will fix;

I that make? fifty chickens, I said, ‘ee-and-sixpence—I'll ask brother Ned.

—three-and-sixpence a pair I must sell 'em;
a couple—now then let us tell 'em; ‘ty will go—(my poor brain!)
ore times, and five pair will remain.

pair of fowls—now how shameful it is,
ckon up as much money as this!
o use in trying; so let's give a guess;
ity pounds, and it can't be no less.

ds, I am certain, will buy me a cow,
and two turkeys—eight pigs and a sow;
urn out well, at the end of the year,
n my pockets with guineas 'tis clear.

that old tumble-down hovel good-bye;
e'll scold, and my sisters they'll cry:
re a crow's egg for all they can say;
stop with such beggars as they!"

her burden, when this she had said, erciliously toss'd up her head r her prospects—the milk pail descended!
schemes for the future were ended.

MORAL.

think, may be safely attach'd:
i your chickens before they are hatch'd.

THE LARK AND HER YOUNG ONES.

ad her nest conceal'd,
a barley field;
rest time drew near,
f the corn to fear;
ould her nest descry,
der brood could fly.
nem therefore every day,
d she flew away,
armer in her stead,
ll to all he said.

e day, she scarce was gone,
ame and his son.
ell his field survey'd, bservations made;
ll you what," said he,
it to cut, I see;
ighbor's help must borrow,
re begin to-morrow."

the lark returned,
r brood this news she learned.
nother," then, said they,

l begone to-day."

aid she, "you need not fret, ineasy yet;
; for neighbor's aid,
ong will be delay'd."

eft her nest once more, ier young ones as before.

mer came again,
r his friends in vain,
ie man, "I fancy, son,
we can't depend upon;
rly, mind you go,
vn relations know."

. approach'd her nest,
er all her young ones press'd,
mother, word for word,
lligence they heard.

be at ease," said she other day, I see;
tions, you will find,
iends, will stay behind."

i the lark withdrew,

her charge renew.

The farmer early came,
The case was just the same.
The day was high;
The help drew nigh.
The farmer, "Hark ye, son—
The work will not be done,
Do not wait for friends and neighbors;
Let us commence our labors:
Early, we'll begin
To get our harvest in."

The lark, when this she heard,
Said it must not be deferr'd;
The father and his son Began, 'twill soon be done."

Proved the lark was right;
The work was done by night.

MORAL.

Do not wait for other's aid,
Needs must be delay'd;
Be done with half the labor

o go and call a neighbor.

THE PHILOSOPHER AND THE ACORN.

, proud of his wit and his reason, an oak in a hot summer season.
ew an acorn or two, it is said:
l grew a pumpkin as big as his head.

age, "What's the reason this oak is so strong to bear that are scarce an inch long;
or feeble plant has a weight to sustain, ich better hang on the tree, it is plain?"

time the philosopher spoke p'd down on his head from the oak;
who just now thought his plan was so clever, t this was not a pumpkin, however."

MORAL.

ld no doubt have looked grievously dull, n descended with force on his scull.
en let us in future beware, at such matters are best as they are:

iners and customs of oak trees alone,
l pumpkins—and look to our own.

THE WOLF AND THE CRANE.

forgetting the size of his swallow, Tried to pass a large marrow-bone through it.
d the beast, thinking death was to follow,
"How careless and stupid to do it!"

s propp'd open by means of the bone,
And his breathing was greatly impeded, ming up, he contrived to make known What kind of assistance he needed.

?" said the bird; said the beast, "Very ill,
For a bone has gone down the wrong way;
extract it by means of your bill,
The service I'll amply repay."

rane, "I'm no surgeon: yet all must agree, That my bill will make excellent forceps;
money, I do not now see Why I need refuse taking his worship's."

"It's agreed;" said his patient, "Proceed, And take the bone hence, I beseech;"

while, and with infinite toil, The crane at last managed to reach.

irs!" said the beast, from his terrors released,
"Thank you too, sir," said he to the bird;
The crane, "is this all I'm to gain,
I was waiting the promised reward."

"You forget, I've contracted no debt,
Since the service was rendered by me;
I was saved from the jaws of a beast,
And now you're demanding a fee!"

MORAL.

Do not expect, when you've done to be paid,
To a wolf, should he beg for your aid,

THE DOG AND THE SHADOW.

g thinner, for want of a dinner, Once purloined him a joint from a tray, am, with this shoulder of lamb," Thought the cur as he trotted away.

at he took, lay just over a brook,
Which he found it was needful to cross;
ore ado, he plunged in to go through,
Not dreaming of danger or loss.

ld appear, in this rivulet clear,
As he thought upon coolest reflection, himself, who with ill-gotten pelf,
Had run off in that very direction.

og, a propos! but that instant let go (As he snatched at this same water-spaniel) possess'd:—so with hunger distress'd
He slowly walk'd home to his kennel.

MORAL.

we are needy, don't let us be greedy, (Excuse me this line of digression,) ing at all, like the dog, we let fall
 The good that we have in possession.

THE TRAVELLERS AND THE BEAR.

one morning set out from their home,
from Sparta, from Athens, or Rome;
which, but agreed, it is said,
to arise, to lend each other aid.

As this done, when forth rushing amain,
from a wood tow'rds these travellers twain;
our heroes, with courage immense,
a tree, and there found his defence.

He fell flat to the earth with dread,
The bear came and smelt him, and thought he was dead;
To see his carcass, away trotted he,
And our brave hero descended the tree.

"I can't think what the bear could propose,
To your ear, he presented his nose."
Said the other, "he told me to do,
The future of cowards like you."

MORAL.

who run from their friends in distress,
when themselves are in trouble, I guess.

THE FROGS AND THE BULL.

reading near a bog,
entrails of a frog,
 Who near his foot did trust them;
at was the contusion,
his inwards such confusion,
 No art could re-adjust them.

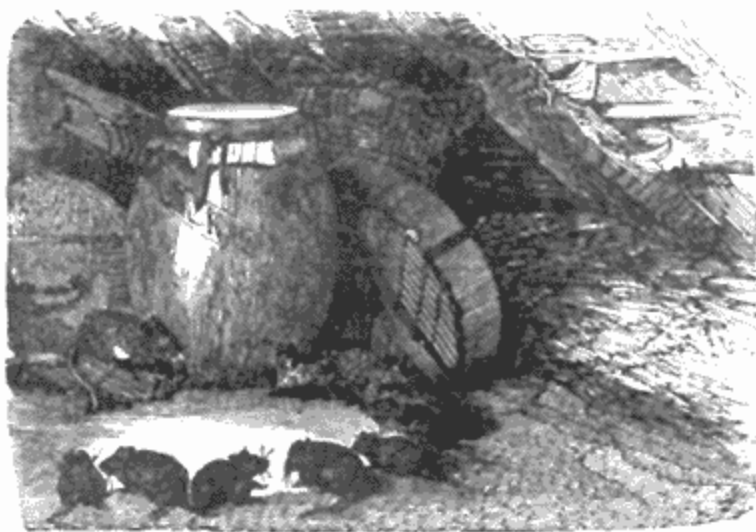

t some who saw his fate,
l the deed relate,
 With croakings, groans, and hisses;
aid they, "in size excell'd ts," their neighbors swell'd, And ask'd, "as large as this is!"

: than that," said they, pt it, madam, pray;"
 But still the frog distended, burst, but I'll exceed,"
burst herself indeed!
 And so the matter ended.

MORAL.

ith pride inflate and swell,
g: then who can tell!
y crack, as has been shown,
aughing crack our own.

THE COUNCIL OF MICE.

no saw fit, once a quarter to meet,
To arrange the concerns of their city;
useful to choose, as is common with us,
First a chairman, and then a committee.

Chairman was seated, the object he stated
For which at that meeting they sat:
should seem, the concerting a scheme
To defeat the designs of the cat.

These rose, and said, "I would propose,
To this cat we fasten a bell;
what I've said, now will hold up his head;
He who does not, may hold up his tail."

Next, they their noses erect, Except one who the order reversed;
but one, but yet nought could be done,
Until he had his reasons rehearsed.

And this mouse, "waste the time of the house,
In long arguments; since, as I view it, could succeed without doubt, if indeed We could find any mouse who would do it."

was the cry, and "no bells we will try, Unless you will fasten them on;"
Un-heated the members departed,
For the bill was rejected nem. con.

MORAL.

So hasty in giving advice,
Mice should remind of the council of mice;
To delay your opinion a year,
In a ridiculous one, it is clear.

THE WOLF AND THE LAMB.

mb once chanced to meet,
m, whose waters sweet us kinds of beasts together, sultry was the weather;
ne wolf came there to drink, egan to think,
ar the lamb he came,
esolved to kill the same;
better to begin,
ng words and angry mien.

l he, to him below,
u stir the water so?
ol refreshing flood,
eer, and thick as mud."

lamb, "that cannot be,
vs from you to me;
ible, I think,
o can spoil your drink."

you saucy puss:
contradict me thus;

. this, you idle clack,
ie behind my back
, I have been told;"
not a twelvemonth old," ied; "So I suspect not quite correct."

nother it must be, es all the same to me," wolf—who waited not ate him on the spot.

MORAL.

: wolf, adopt the plan,
irrel if they can;
you can hold dispute,
mined to be mute;
roverb must be true,
irrel must have two.

THE BEASTS IN PARTNERSHIP.

ere existed, I'd have you to know, Wolf, Tiger, Fox, Leopard, and Co.; Unless were join'd, and of course 'twas implied, Cocks should unite, and the profits divide.

he relates, it so happened one day,
The parts combined, made a bullock their prey:
That the Lion should make the division,
He waited the monarch's decision.

Then said the Lion, "I've parted, you see,
Six to six, which is right, you'll agree;
My claim, as my share in the trade."
"I'd welcome," they all of them said.

He said the second; since no one denies
The courage and conduct that gained you the prize:
The bird; that you know is a fine
The manor, and therefore is mine."

Then said the fox; "Stop a bit," said the lion,
"I'll wait till it's done," said he, fixing his eye on e parts; "you are fully aware, e, one other part comes to my share.

would be prudent, the next to put by ife in my den for a future supply, you know, will but barely suffice, xpenses which always arise."

case," said the fox, "I discern ess to us is a losing concern; aw, I should think would be best;"
is break up the firm," said the rest;
you may not have heard of it yet,— dissolved, though not in the gazette.

MORAL.

their dealings, like him in the fable, rs' shares, if they think they are able;
ot wonder who act in this way, ne will join them in business or play.

THE LION AND THE MOUSE.

the heat oppress'd,
posed himself to rest;
dozed, as he intended,
royal back ascended;
of harm as Esop tells,
not for something else,
over him, and round him,
we left him as he found him, emblem when you hear,
near the monarch's ear!
Lion awoke with wrath immense, his head to cast him thence.
"What are you about,"
he had turned him out.
"Soon," the lion said,
"house-hole in my head!"
prepared his foot,
resembling tiny brute;
mouse, with tearful eye,
lion's clemency,
it best at least to give rather a reprieve.
Twelve months after this,
found his way to miss;

g forward: heedless yet,
led in a net.
rage he stamp'd and tore,
ommenced a lordly roar;
r mouse who heard the noise,
she knew his voice.
lion's utmost strength
ct, she did at length:
abor she applied
net-work to divide;
forth issued he,
ouse set free.

MORAL.

all or weak, I guess,
t us in distress;
ver, if we're wise,
or the least, despise.

THE JEALOUS ASS.

' says friend Esop, "some ages ago, id feelings acute, you must know;
jealous, felt strongly inclined,
as which follow, felt hurt in his mind."

his master, as I understand, dog which he fed from his hand.
was permitted to jump on his knee:
vex'd our poor donkey to see.

at he, "what's the reason, I cannot see any,
favors, while he has so many?
t by just wagging his tail, t one, which I'll wag without fail."

resolved to try what he could do ed unusual attentions to show, ter was dining, came into the room.
id his friends, "why your donkey is come!"

. their host, great astonishment showing, the ass come, while his tail was a-going;

describe his dismay or fear, key rear'd up, and bray'd loud in his ear!

st down,—John, Edward, or Dick!
i? make haste, and come here with a stick."
d—the guests laugh'd—the dog bark'd—the bell rung:
and tongs, at the donkey were flung,

and the kicks, with combined demonstration,
n that this was a bad speculation;
deeply, his footsteps retrod he,
his mind, but still more in his body.

MORAL.

children, as stupid as may be,
dulgements fit for a baby.
r'd the room while the donkey withdrew,
æen their own folly and punishment too:
c of this fable, and what came to pass;
who play'd this fine game was an ass.

THE TOWN AND COUNTRY MICE.

Onest, country mouse,
Miller's house;
He, invited down Distance of the town:
Brought his dainties out;
And there's not a doubt.
Peas and green peas,
Bread, and some cheese;
And if I'm not mistaken,
A slice of Yorkshire bacon.
Now he was expert
To serve, a fine dessert Produced, all which he press'd, Freedom, on his guest.

My epicure,
You could not endure
I've broken his fast
But, but said, at last,
Now, I'll tell you what:
This lonely spot;
A dismal, dirty hole,
Adapted for a mole
You; Oh! could you see how charm'd you'd be.

ging up your brood
vet, and solitude,
em all at once to town,
courtier of a clown.
r your children's sake, r advice to take."
is host, "I can but try, uiet hole good bye!"

jogg'd for many a mile, endid things the while;
n, they all arrived—
he city mouse had lived—lnight through a crack, m their tedious track.

ie city mouse, "I'll show fare I've brought you to:"
ed the rustic mice
nug and nice,
ing a mouse could relish,
f and nook embellish.

uis to be preferr'd
peas?" "Upon my word,
itry mouse replied,
needs the point decide."

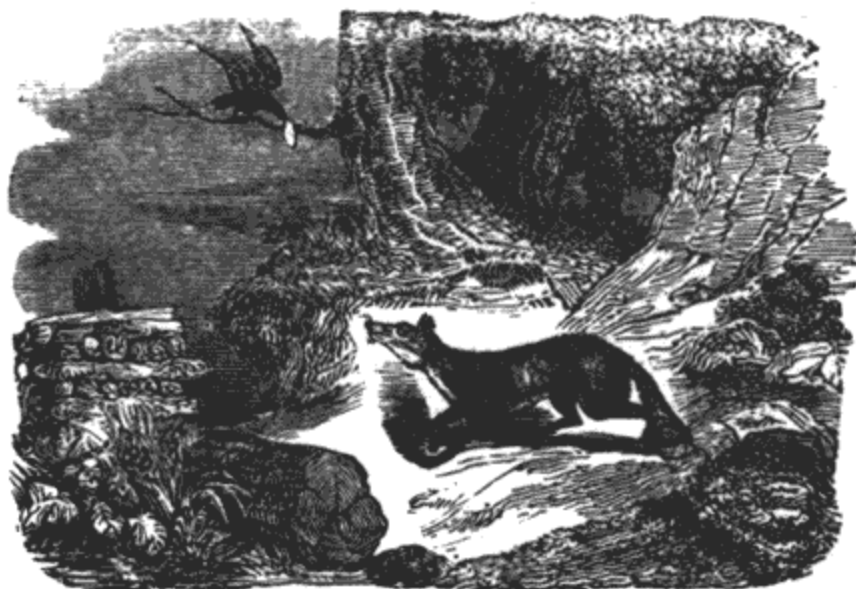

ey spoke these words, when, lo!
ants hasten'd through,
gigantic cats,
r country mouse and brats.
iely exit, she self and family.

ot," said she in haste,
g dainties more to taste;
my homely peas,
ngers such as these."

MORAL.

iose begin to grumble,
afe, though poor and humble;
who better fares,
ood, has twenty cares.

THE FOX AND THE CROW.

on worms: yet an author affirms Cheshire cheese they will get if they're able;
"I well know, one unprincipled crow Once purloined a large piece from my table."

rted she, to the shade of a tree,
To deposit the booty within her;
ocurr'd to the mind of the bird,
That a fox was to have it for dinner.

slip, 'twixt the cup and the lip!" (Excuse me, I pray, the digression,) himself, "I can share in the pelf, If I act with my usual discretion."

it you? pray, ma'am, how do you do, I have long wish'd to pay you a visit;
month has pass'd, since I heard of you last Which is not very neighborly, is it?

dam," said he, "you are dining, I see;
On that subject I'd ask your advice;

How can you tell, where provisions they sell,
That are not an extravagant price?

That are so dear, and have been for a year,
That poor people can scarcely endure it,
Because it is so high, that such beggars as I,
Till it falls, cannot hope to procure it."

The saved bird did not utter a word,
Still intent on retaining her plunder;
But, "It should seem, this is not a good scheme, What else can I think of, I wonder?"

And once more, "I ne'er knew it before, But your feathers are whiter than snow is!"
Then, when he'd said it, "she'll ne'er give it credit, For what bird is so black as a crow is."

That your voice is a horrible noise,
Which they say of all sounds is the oddest;
Is absurd, for it never is heard, Since you are so excessively modest."

Then thought the crow, "I will soon let you know That all doubt on that score may be ended;"
And ghingly piped, the poor silly biped,
When quickly her dinner descended!

MORAL.

had not been so vain and conceited,
by the fox quite so soon have been cheated;
the term biped to some may be new:
biped creature—perchance it is you.

THE LION AND THE ECHO.

t of the wood,
disputed stood,
de domains he prowl'd,
: of booty growl'd,
a distant cave
iculously grave:
urprised, began
st it was a man;
on sage, he found
a lion's sound.
is that which growls at mine?" isk'd. Says Echo, "Mine!"
the Lion: "Who art thou?"
cried, "Who art thou?"
ion, hear and tremble!"
ng. Cried Echo, "Tremble!" says Lion; "show thyself."
answered, "Elf."
u call me, vile pretender?"
eplies, "Pretender!"
ous of his reign,
rage; she growl'd again.
nore, he chafed and foam'd,
: spacious forest roam'd al of his throne,

h him dispute the crown.

ten'd all the while,
monarch with a smile:
st humbly I make bold,
may not be always told,
phantom which you hear,
s your royal ear,
f your throne:
fears are all your own."
ors scare
ul with real fear;
wise and brave are cow'd ons from the crowd:
nay disharm,
auseless the alarm!

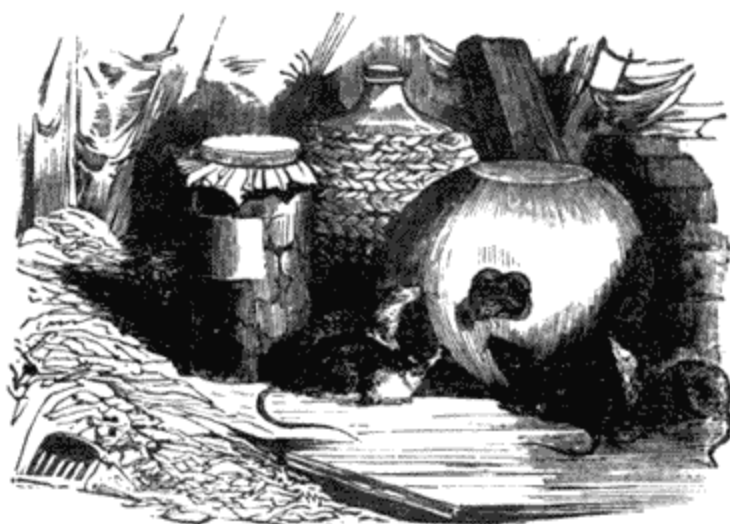

THE PAPER KITE.

e, a paper kite
to a wondrous height;
with its elevation,
'd self-admiration:
crowds of gazing people ght above the steeple;
ey wonder, if they knew like me, could do?
e, I'd take a flight,
e clouds beyond their sight.
poor prisoner bound,
fines me near the ground.
agle's towering wing, / without a string."
ull'd, while thus it spoke, tring—at last it broke!
nce of all its stay,
to soar away:
n weight to bear,
vnward through the air;
n course to guide,
n plunged it in the tide.
te, thou hadst no wing,
hou fly without a string?

ed, "Oh, Lord, I see
e kite resembles me!
by thee I stand,
y ruling hand;
vish'd to break the lines or my lot assigns!
ged a vain desire
; more or something higher!
ace and love divine,
adful had been mine."

THE RATS AND THE CHEESE.

rnment maintain,
rats of stronger brain
ower, as well bethought ian axioms taught?
re, for thus of late
the rats' free state.
his subjects more to please) hty Cheshire cheese, inisters of state
plenty and grow great.
rty straight combined,
ed forces join'd,
measures into play,
yal were as they;
n patriots, to support
untry as the court.
re those Dons admitted wondrous virtues quitted) eediest means devise selves and families.
well observing
'd were, while they were starving, brought in disgrace,
and supplied their place;

principles were known orders of the throne, subjects liberty
would they) freely die;
I fix'd in their station,
their prince and nation,
others, all their skill might their paunches fill.
Not quite so blind
as human kind,
onor, thus replied:
all on either side;
ventions are but these,
all best secure the cheese."

AURELIA AND THE SPIDER.

rn, from tears of grief
a sought relief;
laints she pass'd the day;
ock neglected lay:
at the weaving trade,
l the sighing maid
opping in a trice,
gratis) her advice:
rl! behold in me
industry
' woes, my dear, with mine, who should most repine:
ere you left your room, naid's remorseless broom ment that destroy'd,
h thousands were employ'd!
s great; but as my life relentless strife,
ing was in vain,
it to work again.
ork, a day or more,
sion did restore:
ar which you have shed
edle-full of thread,

of sad despair
tch of proper care,
have been the luckless rent, ay have been misspent."

THE REDBREAST AND THE SPARROW.

ree, hard by a rural cot, aging cheer'd the humble spot;
the thatch in critic spleen asion to reprove the strain:
ried he, "thou dull dejected thing, mulate the birds of spring?
warbling dare approach the thrush accents in the hawthorn bush?
rk dost thou poor mimic, vie,
's unequal'd melody?
rds possessing twice thy fire ntent in silence to admire."
judge," the minstrel bird replied, 7 efforts arrogance or pride;
ition makes me act this part,
ause I love the art:
leed, but much revere
hose fame the test of skill will bear;
arising to surpass,
charming songs my own to class;
incite my humble strain.
your pardon may obtain,
ot the rural vale to move of the lays I love."

THE POET AND THE COBWEBS.

pen had brought him more of the precious ore, garret oft reposed
templative half-closed.
nd in antique glory,
household inventory,
his roving brains
itude of scenes.

said he, "of murder-spinners brains out for their dinners, too long unsung has lain ethren of Duck Lane,
at its little plan
yclopedia of man.

ose radiant thread
e from centre spread,
lanetary skies,
rounds of various size, ame I aptly call
hematical.

is, that dirty line,
sun presumes to shine,
and filth, and time beset,
sh that comes to net,
m, the Muse supposes
eb of Virtuosos.

ne gaudy insect sings,
of the court of kings,
threads conceal the gin.
knaves are caught therein.

x'd 'mid mildew'd panes, Christmas the remains
and sing its cheer, ps Lent throughout the year) or'd o'er and o'er,
the lawyer's lore,
flies, on gambols borne,
are, when lost, undone.

ng webs, with dirt and age, atter'd equipage,
aquarian crew,
every thread I view.

isseminated lies,
omies of flies;
d limbs declare

lie in ambush there:
with drugg'd perdition,
t' misnamed physician.

l webs, long pendent there,
; a subtle snare,
ve disposition,
ike gout of inquisition, ominated be,
of divinity."

' bard described the scene, rough a broken pane;
he sweets of every flower,
dventurous tour,
p'd. Exert thy sting,
liberate thy wing!
ly dropp'd his pen,
captive from its den;
o'er his empty table,
ral of his fable.

THE EPICURE AND THE PHYSICIAN.

years ago, or more,
ss'd a miser's store;
nd his father dead,
rifty viands fed;
ishes crown'd his board,
vholesome trifle stored.
ong'd to eat again,
appetite in vain:
gh dress'd a thousand ways,
te accustom'd praise;
thing—sickly grew—
aste of something new.
his disastrous case,
imes he join'd the chase:
plain the hunters fly,
out a joyous cry;
efore them lay;
l, mistook his way,
e bewildered rode,
asant's poor abode;
pt, from six to four,
ng unfelt before;
wain this want supplied,
e eggs and bacon fried.

w, the squire in haste
aised their savory taste;
neal had such a gout
ts and olios knew.
ink he'd found a dish,
his long unanswer'd wish,
thankful host he paid,
im back from whence he stray'd;
art, so well he dined,
: the squire enjoin'd ome next day a stock
eggs and charming hock.
dish of savory meat
hat still 'twas bliss to eat;
nd, like all the rest,
re tasteless things at best;
: a dog would touch,
ever tasted such!
ss to fetch the clown,
ess'd him with a frown:
his bacon, that you sent,
food were never meant;
ink the moon's a cheese, dress'd the same with these.
it"—"Sir," says the peasant,
' worship is so pleasant:
sure: for I can swear,
fowls that laid them are!
well that all the bacon self-same flitch was taken:

l, about our green
ake the stomach keen."
se?" the squire replied;
be directly tried."
nand—a house he hired,
goes with hope inspired,
cooks—a favorite train;
oly their art in vain.
riding did the feat:
t still he cannot eat.
l, to physic bred,
case, and thus he said:
ne, you soon shall eat,
st, the plainest meat;
each rising morn,
cow of sable horn;
drops of morning dew
ever-verdant yew;
ir own hand be done,
'd westward from the sun.
half an hour is past,
with biscuit, break your fast;
rom food (or all is vain)
e hours and one abstain—
one substantial dish, s'd, of flesh or fish."
he doctor as he spake—cludes th' advice to take,
into temperance, found ormer luxury drown'd.

THE FROGS DESIRING A KING.

dom flourish'd long,
ized the giddy throng.
n weary to obey,
yranny a prey.
ough mild he sway'd,
ce had not allay'd.
ere cursing in despair,
had not learn'd to bear,
nger to describe,
fable to the tribe:

ike you, of freedom tired,
king desir'd:
ld execute the law,
dissolute in awe.
and threw them down a log,
g fell and shook the bog.
eeds the tremblers fled:
bold advanc'd his head, nonarch of the flood
othered in the mud.
oaking race around:
ng!" the banks resound.
ov'd they swim about him,

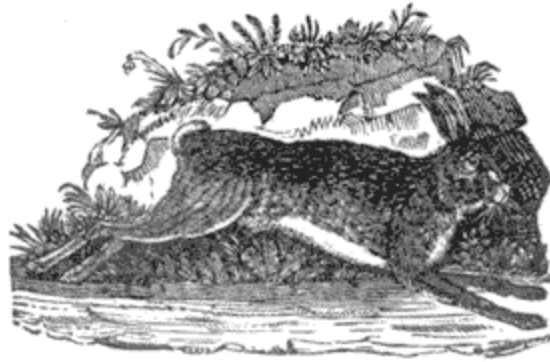

jeer and mock and flout him;
ers to Jove depute,
grant their suit.
x he sent them then,
l swallow'd half the fen.
arce daring to reveal,
y night they steal,
o entreat of Jove
rant to remove.
God, 'they chose their lot, le what they have got:'
ends, had best go home something worse should come."

THE HARE AND THE BRAMBLE.

y pursued, thought it prudent and meet for refuge awhile to retreat; covert, but entering, found
d thorns did on all sides abound;
gh he was safe, yet he never could stir,
hey would wound, or would tear off his fur:
p his shoulders, but would not complain:
small evils," quoth puss, "is in vain:
can be perfect, I very well knew—ame source good and evil doth flow—y my skin though these briers may rend, off the dogs, and my life will defend:
f the good, then, let evil be borne—t has its bitter, each bramble its thorn."

THE HORSE AND THE STAG.

in pasture,
 There lived some creatures wild.
blue, the grass was green,
 The air was very mild.

his field was large and fine,
 They could not live in love:
ness in one large spot
 A horse and stag once strove.

strongest in the strife,
 And so the battle won;
field the horse was sent
 And with chagrin was stung.

the horse applied,
 For help, the stag to beat,
ial was his help,
 The stag had to retreat.

o away he tried,
 The man held to him fast:

are of use," he cried,
"You'll serve me to the last."

THE CAT AND THE OLD MOUSE.

run a certain house—
was found a mouse.
e mistress went,
then puss was sent.

e were many caught,
The mice were taught
e cunning must devise ey from pussy's eyes.

n shelf so high,
h puss in vain might try,
nice together got,
lved to leave it not.

d that to eat them,
rt to stratagem.
ast by means of pegs,
ended by the legs.

d she then hung her head,
; though she were quite dead—sought to cheat the mice, r dwellings them entice.

use, well "up to trap," two eyes did clap.
ed, "puss are you there?
ach, I would not dare—
gh it were proved by law, le skin were stuffed with straw."

THE FOX AND THE VIZOR MASK.

alking out one day,
o chanced to stray;
ys that stood arrayed,
was there displayed,
eks, complexion fair,
and auburn hair,
lue, and Grecian nose;
uties to disclose,
le. The fox, with sighs, 1, ah!" he cries,
read it naught contains,
uty, but no brains."

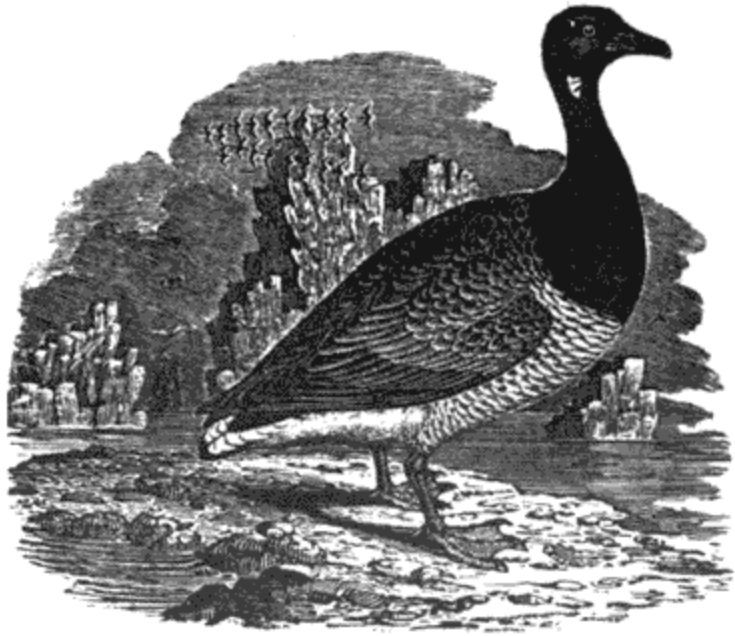

MORAL.

shed beau, in air and mien how blest.
ashioned, and his hair well dress'd—ss'd within: to give him brains atter's or his barber's pains.

THE GOOSE THAT LAID GOLDEN EGGS.

Had a goose I'm told,
Laid each day an egg of gold.
Treasures were well spent,
And many were content.
But he desired more;
For eggs he had rich store;
One day the goose he'd kill,
To see his pockets fill.
Rounded round and round, Caught and firmly bound
From neck to tail
The fowl did bewail.
The egg was there,
And 'twas this treasure rare.

THE FOX AND THE GRAPES.

took it in his pate,
at a garden gate,
which grew on the trees,
to his hunger to appease.
And there he spied
To reach them hard he tried.
They were large and luscious too, and beautiful to view.
He ran with many a bound,
and fell to the ground,
for the grapes hang o'er his head, and he said, "Well! well!"
They were green, and hard as stone, and he away is thrown.
"O your solitude,
how can I make me food."

THE MOUSE AND THE WEASEL

And hungry mouse,
 Into a granary stole,
A basket full of grain,
 In which was a small hole.

Squeezing he got in,
 And there he ate his fill;
Tried to issue out,
 The hole seemed smaller still.

He stood looking on,
 Cried out in sneering tone,
"Get out, my little dear, Until you've smaller grown.

"If starved when you crept in,
 And now you are quite stout;
Get out until you can,
 As you got in, get out."

THE MISER AND HIS TREASURE.

IN a retired spot,
A miser had got Treasure in store.
And it was his delight,
Each morn and each night,
To add to it more.

He had made the hole deep,
And he thought none would peep,
Of his secret retreat.
But a servant so sly,
His master did spy,
That his cunning he'd beat.

So one dark winter night,
He took out his light,
And hastened away;
And he laughed in his sleeve,
To think how 'twould grieve
To miss it next day.

And indeed the distress
Of his lord you may guess,

't describe it, I'm sure.

He tore out his hair,

Clasp'd his hands in despair

Was ruined and poor.

A man passing by,

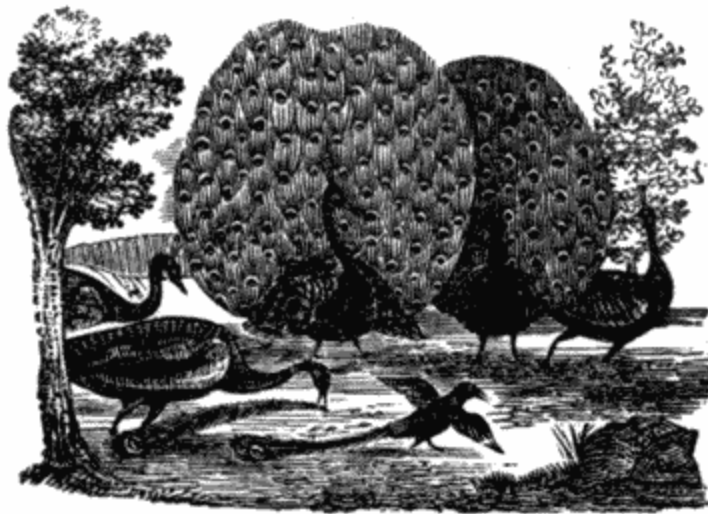

His grief chanced to spy;

"'tis useless to mourn.

You can look at the hole,

To solace your soul,

The money is gone."

THE JACKDAW AND THE PEACOCKS.

is the folly shown,
merits not your own.

empty, pert and vain,
equals in disdain,
his beautiful feathers found,
drock on the ground.
In audy plumage dress'd, winning his fortune bless'd;
He sturdily strode along,
He in'd the peacock throng;
He pertinence to pay,
He him, and then chas'd away.
He in a coxcomb homeward sneaks,
His former comrades seeks;
He comes, with scorn they leave him,
The jackdaw will receive him.
He had disdain'd, at last,
He art, thou mightst have pass'd,
He now been cast behind,
He scandal of thy kind."

THE SPARROW AND THE HARE.

other's ills deride,
lest his own provide.
icing on a hare,
cries puss rends the air;
sparrow from a tree,
her misery:
puss, thy boasted speed see, then, in time of need!"
He spoke, when, like an arrow, he sped on the sparrow.
He resign'd her breath,
he cried, "consoles in death who hast my woes derided, series hast divided!"

THE ASS AND THE LION.

credit may surprise,
who knows them will despise.

hunting took
found him in a nook.
Prest made him bray,
to seize the passing prey.
Hear such horrid cries,
Nature trembling flies;
Tamed in his trade,
Wanton carnage made;
Boil, the ass he calls,
To cease his hideous brawls.
Grown with slaughter weary,
Of his noble quarry,
With self-importance, said:
"For a purpose I have bray'd!"
"Famously could do,"
"But thee I knew,
We have been frightened too."

THE STAG AND THE FOUNTAIN.

For bad men rarely know,
 may serve to show:

At fountain's side,
 With curling horns with pride;
 With spindle-shanks ashamed,
 With distorted form he blamed.
Hears the hunter's cries,
 And nimbly flies.
Receive their well-known guest.
Returns, his feet arrest;
Approach, and seize their prey;
Thus was heard to say:
 Alas! too late I learn,
 The truth discern!
Have saved me, I despised,
 Been my ruin, prized!"

THE EAGLE, THE CAT, AND THE SOW.

gh an eagle made
er kittens laid;
tom of the tree
d her progeny.
ain her wicked ends,
' both of them pretends.
gle's aerie mounts,
er false alarms recounts:
uth our dangerous state,
tance I relate;
really gone so far,
I no longer dare.
ght the treacherous sow ndermined below;
mot choose but fall,
hopes to eat us all."
en she saw her lies,
ristly sow she hies;
eighbor!" crying out,
ind what you're about,
nty I know,
ts but till you go,
h great concern I say,) little ones her prey."

ead when thus inspir'd, le all day retir'd;
ght on silent paw,
vn and kittens' maw.
v nor eagle dare.
ell hunger ends their care;
nischief-making beast brood on carrion feast.

ve simples, ere too late,
ouble-tongued create.

THE EAGLE, THE RAVEN AND THE TORTOISE.

oe united find
l a remorseless mind, strength and prowess be, d in jeopardy.

a tortoise held,
ny house concealed,
ain essayed to break
ry of his beak.
ey he wing'd the air,
centur'd near:
excellent," says she,
give a share to me,
his iron hide,
ainty may divide."
ade, "On yonder wall,
he raven, "let him fall."
the hoary sinner;
urtle made their dinner.

d force their purpose gain, rtifies in vain.

THE FLY AND THE HORSE.

coach-box seated,
e the horses rated.
ies out the paltry thing, ean to feel my sting."
eed," a horse replied,
se skilful hand can guide vhip. We better know en we should stop or go."

out or sense or weight, ves born to rule the state.

ESOP AT PLAY.

nian Esop saw,
chool-boys once at taw, laughter shook his sides;
fter thus derides:
bow before you laid,
sprightly sir," he said, crowd had gather'd round.)
man no answer found:
ng, but all his wit
xplanation hit.
Esop's side; says he,
; bow unbended see,
: needs must break,
; so we must take 1, that the mind
when wanted find."

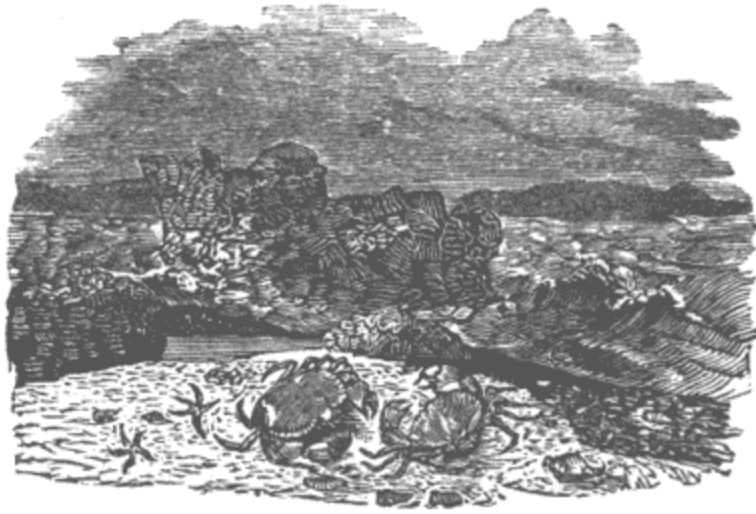

mless sport employs
, is not unwise.

THE OLD PILOT AND THE SAILORS.

aining of his fate,
e did relate.

ng tempests toss'd,
giving all for lost,
ould weep and pray the most.
t once the sky and sea,
joyful extacy.
n experience wise,
w did thus advise:
oice, nor over grieve,
what comes receive;
d ill succeed so near,
rope and good with fear."

THE CRAB AND HER DAUGHTER.

er hear, but what they see,
and domestics be.

y her daughter chid;
as you are bid,
d you o'er and o'er,
l gait to use no more?
once for all to know,
and not backward go."
ys Miss, "how strange you talk!
rn'd from you to walk?
e the other way,
ollow you I pray?"

THE SUN AND THE WIND.

breas from on high
a traveller spy,
ak for fear of rain.
'his precaution's vain
l show you for a joke make him quit his cloak."
ys Phebus, "let us see eeds, or you or me."
low so fierce began,
l upset his man;
oak, for all his roar,
nore closely than before.
what he could had done,
trial," says the Sun,
eams so warm'd the air,
nantle could not bear,
st, then threw aside.

mbending sons of pride
nners will prevail, s and bluster fail.

THE TWO POTS.

ream to make their way, s says pot of clay:
s stout and clay is frail,
a distance sail.
ition that I fear
ls humble Earthenware,
nds leave you to yourself;
e my ribs of delf,
sh our sides together;
ld be the damage, whether ould you or I impel;
ed, and fare you well."

7e folks of low estate, istance from the great.

HERCULES AND THE CARTER.

ed, a carter pray'd
o come and aid.
e God, "thou lazy dog.
le from the bog;
Gods nothing have to do uch knaves as you?"

THE ANT AND THE GRASSHOPPER.

mmet, well sustain'd
ndustry had gain'd,
' some aid desir'd.
; trade?" the ant inquir'd.
e grasshopper replied;
untry far and wide,
y from door to door,
ime to form a store."
ranaries, says the ant, riend, you are in want;
mmer sings, may chance
e forc'd to dance."

ime in idle song,
ss grasshopper was wrong;
re a small supply,
ean and niggardly.

THE CROW AND THE PITCHER.

ingenuity
atural means supply.

some water found,
l so profound,
neck at utmost stretch,
she could not reach.
ie in the pitcher places,
op the water raises;
nocent device
isure satisfies.

THE ANGLER AND THE LITTLE FISH.

Small salmon caught,
With earnestness besought
To let her go: says she,
I do with such as me!
You're grown a little bigger,
You might make a figure."
The angler replied, "No, no;
You, though small, you go.
It is better far,
In the bushes are."

THE FROG AND THE FOX.

n defects amend,
thers we pretend.

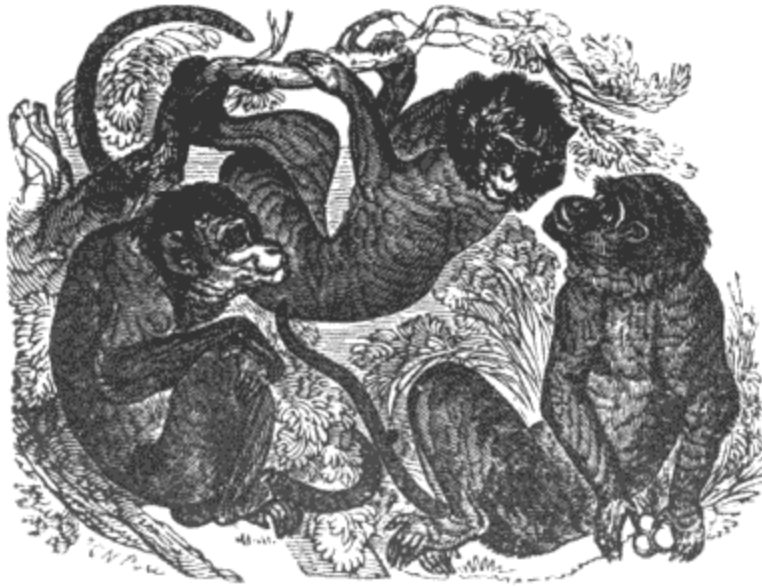

kl'd, spotted frog,
ian left the bog.
lady could cure," animals endure."
self your science show,"
: "that the world may know knowledge, pray begin spots to clear your skin:
look so sick and pale,
drugs you'll ne'er prevail."

THE APE AND HER YOUNG ONES.

bs; one much she lov'd, ll affection prov'd.
ears the hunter's cries;
up her darling flies:
she stumbled o'er some stones · little favorite's bones; er back who clung
nt with her along.

are! the fondl'd child
enderness is spoil'd;
ho hardships have endur'd,
are best inur'd.

THE FIR TREE AND THE THORN.

l contented state
n the wounds of fate.

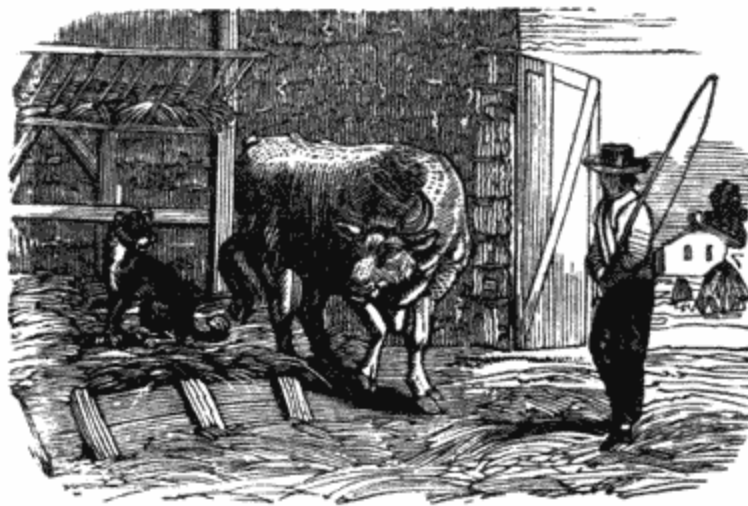

i a humble thorn
top look'd down with scorn.
mes we grow," she said,
est masts are made,
oor bramble, canst produce ament or use."
he modest thorn replied,
urp axe shall pierce your side, en may wish to be and unknown like me."

THE ASS IN THE LION'S SKIN.

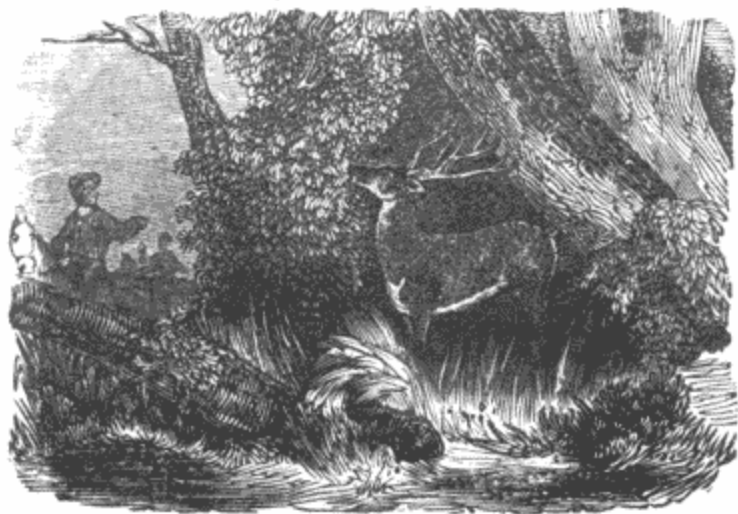

other fools impose;
real value knows.

ound a lion's skin,
o himself therein,
ld that he came nigh,
and herds, and shepherds fly.
ountry round, at last naster where he pass'd, s instantly descries agnificent disguise:
lgel on his side,
ou stupid fool," he cried:
or a lion pass;
r an arrant ass."

THE DOG IN THE MANGER.

stable lay,
manger full of hay.
Dog drew near to eat,
urged it to retreat.
He said, "detested creature,
by malignant nature,
that others let enjoy
you never canst employ!"

THE STAG AND THE VINE.

d with horn and hound
yard shelter found.
ught the danger past,
e began to feast.

hears the rustling noise, half-eaten leaves descries horns, the pack recalls, he creature falls
ude a prey.

otectors who betray,
the world will see
leath and infamy.

THE MISCHIEVOUS DOG.

ands, bought with shame,
but more proclaim.
vn'd a vicious dog,
ir fix'd a log,
n cur supposed to be
th and dignity.
his foolish pride;
gnantly he cried,
put about your neck
rous designs to check;
e you to declare,
ish race you are."

THE SICK MAN AND THE PHYSICIAN.

id where those who guide,
people's foolish pride,
i there is nought to dread, eatens o'er their head.

d to tell his pains,
hivering cold complains.
d," the doctor said;
remain in bed,
ned'cines I shall send,
soon be at an end."
e question was repeated, plain'd he much was heated;
he leech, "is better still!"
ich increasing ill,
oing well," he cried,
artyr sunk and died.

THE FARMER AND HIS SONS.

My boys, with hand and mind!
You will fruitful find.

I, about to die,
Children to come nigh:
Says, "a small estate,
Ial to make it great:
Easure it contains,
Wh will take the pains."
Sons dug all the ground,
Hidden treasure found;
Tive was the soil,
Or o'erpaid the toil.
When they the corn had sold,
'twas our sire foretold!"

THE SWALLOW AND THE BIRDS.

guides stand most in need,
n'd advice to heed.

allow, learn'd and wise,
ner'd neighbors cries:
laborers there below;
rk ye, that they sow?
friends; of which are made for us all are laid;
wonder men are gone,
seeds up one by one."
itants of air
tion little care.
prung; again the swallow
d advice to follow;
nse! they deride.
l grown, and cut, and dried,
un, the nets were made,
ry birds betray'd,
their hapless fate,
ity too late.

re danger to foresee,

neir maturity.

THE BOASTING TRAVELLER.

abroad had been,
ne had done and seen:
it at Rhodes," he said, nty yards he made
ten feet high;
sses were by."
ys one, at the same table, l fence to o'erleap you're able.
y much, so high or wide;
periment be tried.
self at Rhodes, and we witnesses will be."
ed, "that he to-day
well," and stole away.

what they cannot do
and folly show.

THE OLD WOMAN AND HER MAIDS.

Evils to endure,
Wrong a doubtful cure.

Her maids awoke
Hearing of the cock.
Early rising tir'd,
Miless cock conspir'd.
Near him crow in wait,
Lay in bed till eight.
Knew the trick they had play'd, Harum to be made,
Silently in their ears
Before the dawn appears.

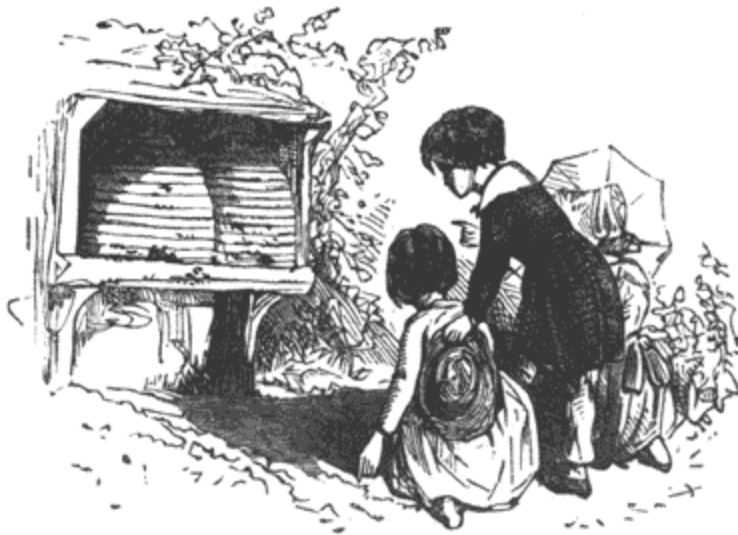

INDUSTRY AND SLOTH.

her object gains,
g she obtains.

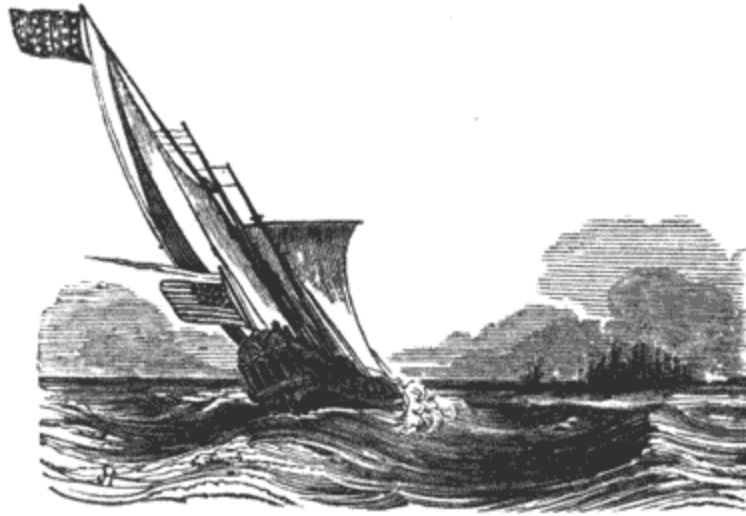

why so long in bed?
ause," he said;
unclose my eyes.
excites to rise."
says, "to meet the sun, esterday's undone!"
as sloth, "it is not warm,
e sleep can do no harm;
time your work to do,
r amusement too."

THE SHEPHERD TURNED MERCHANT.

sailors, keep at home,
the storm will come.

an inland breed
coast his flocks to feed;
a summer sea,
empted him to be.
eep, and with the sale
ates an ample bale.
rious tempest rose;
s dates he throws;
g from the bark to land,
ead upon the strand.
fterwards who stood
ie calmness of the flood,
e simple shepherd said gain it would be fed."

THE SPENDTHRIFT AND THE SWALLOW.

I had thrown away,
ing pennyless one day,
vallow. "Ho," says he,
ome at last I see!"
his mantle sold.
is severely cold:
valk'd, the bird he found
h upon the ground.
ool was I," he cried, swallow I relied!"

o readily believe,
ality may grieve.

THE EAGLE AND THE CROW.

know their force to weigh,
cannot do, essay.

When an eagle saw
A lamb with beak and claw.
He could better do,
Than a well fed ewe;
That the sheep was caught;
Why with it he sought,
Gled in the wool,
Seiz'd the helpless fool.

THE WOLF AND THE SHEPHERD'S BOY.

...a shepherd's boy
...neighbor's with his cry;
...e wolf!" And when they came,
...bor made his game.
...lf when there indeed,
...they did not heed;
...ck a prey were made,
...s he dearly paid.

...e known to have deceiv'd,
...eak truth, are not believ'd.

THE FOX WITHOUT A TAIL.

modes we often see,
eal deformity:
n nature has been kind,
such fopperies behind.

a trap was taken,
rush to save his bacon.
all the world should know ad been cheated so, y of the nation
ollowing oration:
ught the tails we wear
e appendage are;
utility, I pray?
t to obstruct our way.
al do I find,
onderous length behind.
vithout more debate,
ls we amputate."
show yourself behind,"
moke the jest inclin'd, overed what it was)
naps shall see the cause, rudent counsel take,

curious motion make?"
riors when they found,
shook the benches round;
fox without a tail
he mode prevail.

THE MEN AND THE OYSTER.

better make,
hungry law should take.

Two travellers found
Oyster on the ground;
One obstinately lays:
'One eager says;
'The other cries;
'He is certainly the prize.'
Usual, loud and long;
By reason'd, more were wrong;
Ghboring lawyer see Mutually agree
Or their referee.
Nity of face,
Both relate the case;
Are good," then gravely said, Lawsuit would have made Or I cannot tell,
I must take a shell;
'Oyster is but one,
Will swallow down;
Otherwise had lain,
Wash been spent in vain;

7 off; go home content;
fish was excellent."

THE SHEPHERD AND HIS DOG.

ter so deceiv'd,
st of curs believ'd.
trusted to his care,
shepherd was not there.
ise, a favored guest,
upon the best.
as guard his charge betray'd eep in secret prey'd.
hen the crime was prov'd,
ndignation mov'd,
k the halter tied
og for mercy cried;
olf escape," he said,
iore slaughter oft has made."
s the man, "the wolf declares boldly dares;
fidence abused:
hou my trust hast used:
f! and on this tree shalt hanged be."

THE COUNTRYMAN AND THE JUSTICE.

ends the readiest aid,
r ministers are paid.

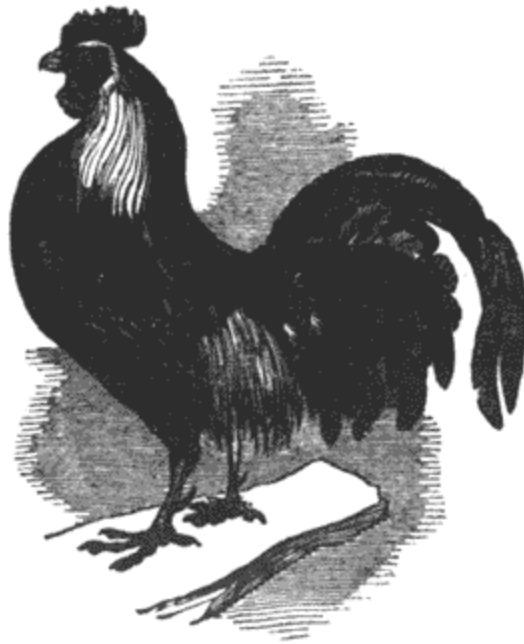

, by power oppress'd,
ve his wrongs redress'd,
ice went in vain;
e could ne'er obtain,
id again to come;
ngag'd"—or "not home!"
c took a kid
n a basket hid;
to the house drew near,
h him by the ear,
rter, from the hall,
e little fatling squall;
naster's mind who knew,
or and let him through.
laughing as he pass'd,
l, "Thy cries at last
or my wrongs obtain;
haps, redress will gain."

THE COCK AND THE FOX.

praises the lucky hit,
praises the biter bit.

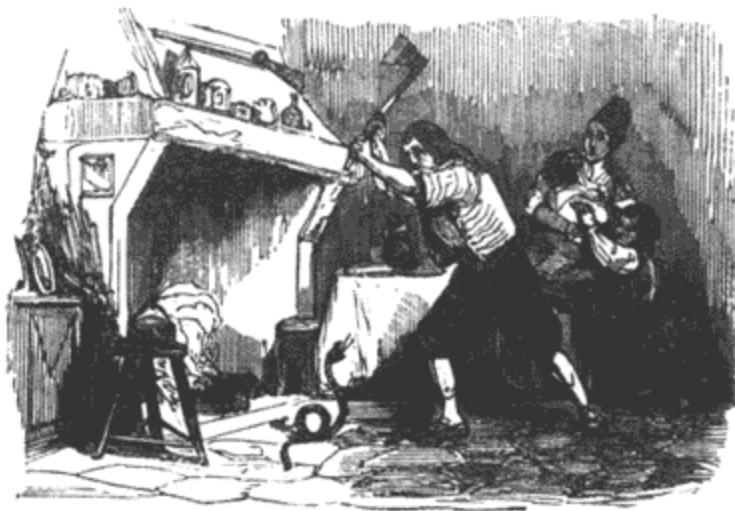

fox invited down
from a tree had flown.
now, my friend," says he,
wish, reptile, man agree,
worth in amity?
and celebrate the day."
to the cock, "you truly say;
see come o'er the dell, with, the news to tell." Ren. "'Tis best to go;
the treaty may not know."

THE BLIND MAN AND THE LAME.

stance give and take,
journey best will make.

blind, the other lame,
together came.
as rapid, and the way
art the current lay;
tion says the blind,
road I ne'er shall find."
limbs," the lame replied, rapid force abide."
the blind, "my loins are strong,
n my back along,
guide me give the word;"
safely cross'd the ford.

THE MAN AND THE SERPENT.

world a cursed race,
erverse and base,
llows you should save,
nemy you have.

a serpent found,
frost upon the ground,
home; but when the fire
gor to inspire,
ieck with angry eyes,
ot with hissing cries.
n his axe did take,
ie return you make?
atitude?" he said,
he reptile on the head.

THE TWO STREAMS.

display much dash and din, any thing within.

ller, one day,
river in his way;
the foaming tide
ocks from side to side, his course to keep,
with trembling step;
water neither deep,
ad; and got well o'er.
ravell'd some leagues more,
river came,
flowed, a silent stream:
at easily to pass;
he middle was,
to a gulf profound,
et no bottom found;
swim with all his might,
re in piteous plight.

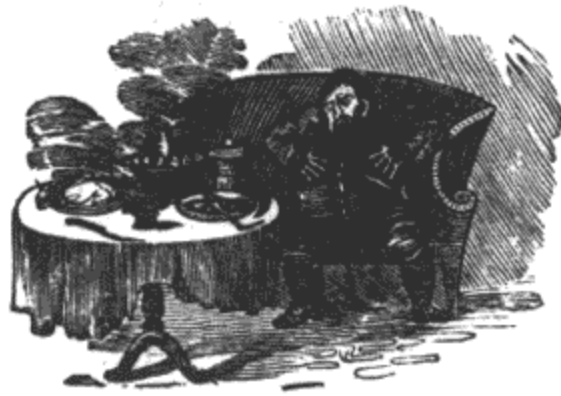

THE SOT AND HIS WIFE.

is seldom cur'd.

ing a sot endur'd,
ne in taverns spent,
irs in ruin went.
sible he lay,
n in a corpse's array,
ndertaker's aid,
vault convey'd.
persed, the man awakes;
he takes.
glimmering of a lamp
nsion drear and damp,
v his life had pass'd,
rtance came at last.
i suited voice and dress,
nfernal mess:
ray take away your meat;
rtite to eat,"
faith I'm devilish dry:
owl of wine supply?"
eeing all was vain,
o his casks again:
certainty, that he

l corpse must be.

THE FARMER AND HIS QUARRELSOME SONS.

honest farmer had;
ne'er a lad
the other two agree;
fighting perpetually.
The contest spent,
the farm to ruin went;
the farmer and his wife wretched life.
The unhappy sire
by his evening fire,
The twigs in bundles stand,
The basket-maker's hand.
He says: "My boys," says he,
The strongest, let me see;
The bundle breaks in twain,
He, and this prize shall gain,"
(The air of Sunday shoes.)
The very effort use
The utmost force when tried,
He took the twigs untied,
He took them one by one,
Immediately was done.
He says, "that broken lie, son may supply:

amity who live,
each other give,
forces to resist
and their work assist."

THE FIG TREE AND THE FLOWERING SHRUB.

h many leaves display,
auty fade away.

ese, with saucy sneer,
tree growing near,
t, honest friend, that thou ring no blossoms show?"
ep them out of view,
ild resemble you,
umn nought produce
e and solid use."

l much essay to shine,
remature decline.

THE FARMER AND THE LANDLORD.

an honest fame,
to his landlord came:
"I," he weeping said,
"bull, your ox is dead.
"done?" "The case is plain,"
said; "the creature slain,
the bull must pay;
without delay."
"Your worship long to live!
I'll a good one give,
good!" "How! your's, my friend?
I can't comprehend:
I say, my ox has gored?"
"The mistake, my lord,
is on I have made;
the ox that must be paid;
—what's just for me
is it for your worship be:
I'll heed what you say."
"I'll think of it to-day.
Justice must be had;
the fences were but bad;
I'll come again to-morrow."
The poorer saw with sorrow, ears a different face,

nselves men put the case.

THE SCHOOL-BOY AND THE MONITOR.

ames's verdant side
fell into the tide, entially there stood
ding o'er the flood.
branch, he floating lay,
ass'd by that way.
ts his life to save:
es with aspect grave,
business had you there?
ll our watchful care!
d a word we say;
ence you shall pay!"
ie boy, "pray stretch your hand:
hen I come to land."

se, with vain parade
ice, instead of aid.

THE MILLER AND HIS ASS.

ging to the fair
e might show him there,
l looking let him trot;
with his son on foot.
met upon the road,
ians laugh'd loud,
e two legged asses," cried,
on foot when they might ride!"
h the hint complies:
r mount. Now other cries
rs; by graybeards blam'd;
ught to be asham'd
: your father walk!"
ned to their talk.
p, the youth got down;
through a country town,
the mothers said,
ght on thy old head!
owels for thy kind?
p the lad behind."
r next were thus address'd:
on a little beast?
to carry him!"
th this senseless whim,

is feet in air,
n their shoulders bear.
shouts spread far and wide.
ures untied,
son," then said the man:
world, do all we can,
ossible, you see,
elves content we'll be."

THE DREAMER AND HIS SON.

g down upon their head
ries most they dread.

of a rich knight
ly took delight.
ng in alarm,
l come to any harm,
ie saw him on the ground,
lion's fatal wound.
ow'd to hunt no more,
nfinement bore.
ie unlucky day,
mber where he lay,
on the wall,
cried, "the cause of all."
the wall he struck,
id an iron stuck,
g bones and sinews through,
ien a gangrene grew.
'ather's ill-tim'd care
of his son and heir.

THE OLD MAN AND DEATH.

Be welcome to the wise,
Take him by surprise;
Every day and hour
Flee the tyrant's power, Talents, worth, are vain.
In spite to obtain.
Well known, and yet how rare
The age to prepare
For the last day!
No more delay.

He suffer'd many a year,
His life drew near,
He said, that unawares
He unsettled his affairs:
It completely made;
The trembling said,
"Let me live;
For 'tis but fair to give!
He is expected home;
Let the doctor come."
"No driveller!" Death replied,
"For thou should'st have died!
Thy foes, thyself outliv'd:

thou hast surviv'd:
thir day had scarce begun.
In their noon-tide sun—
That lines engrave thy brow, Hesitate to go?
Morning would'st thou have?
Lying in the grave:
Time, feeling, day by day,
Wasting in a long decay.
Not for my neglect;
Not a moment to expect!"

Nature warns, the sage Retire from old age;
Tired of life's lengthened feast,
Be, a sated guest.

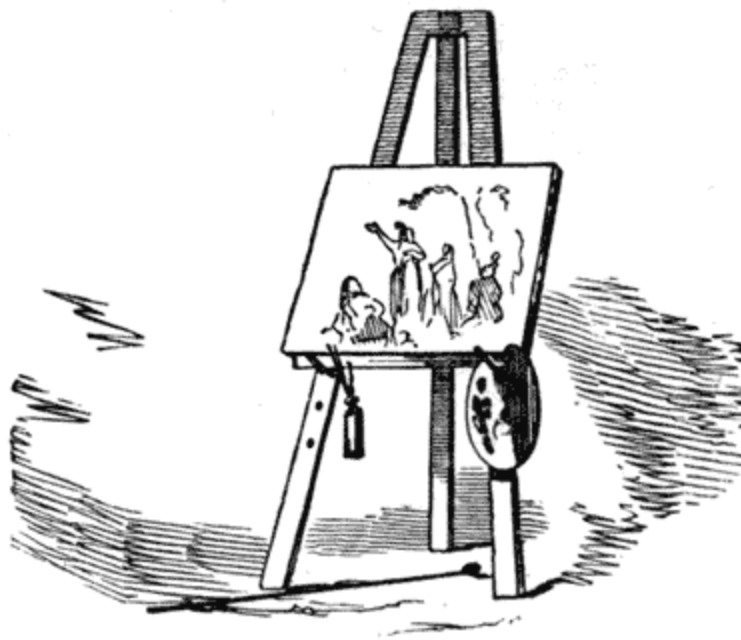

THE PAINTER.

critics deign to blame
oints the road to fame,
fools your works admire,
t once into the fire.

dwelt, in days of yore,
in graphic lore.
firm, his outline true,
e full well he knew.
nted, meant to show
arned skill could go.
plete, he call'd a friend, d taste he could depend.
s honest, spoke his thought,
nted out the fault,
k'd in every part,
much laborious art."
gued for his rules,
ims from the schools;
ous critic held
uld be more conceal'd.
puted on his stricture,
me to see the picture:
ries, "Good heavens, how fine!

wear, is quite divine!
the knot, the belt, the leather, gold, the silk, the feather, ture, all together!"
addening with despite,
y friend, by Jove, you're right.
h our art to know,
ve learn to show;
st be done again
e discerning men."

THE COBBLER AND THE NABOB.

He had fix'd his stall
By the lord's palace wall,
Not as others play,
But whistled all the day.
With an anxious care,
As the lord, by far;
One night he thought
That was not to be bought:
The morn he got a doze,
Which doubled his repose.
And the man attend—
Says he, "my honest friend,
So well you thrive?
The happiest man alive.
May be the profit clear,
To earn within the year?"
"Twelvemonth I can earn,
Never my concern;
Enough," the cobbler said,
"My daily bread."
His note—"twas twenty pound;
With so shrill a sound,
The generous nabob cries,
To your work you rise;

it to close my eyes."
his stall he went:
first felt discontent;
neither work'd nor ate,
of his happy fate.
When he retir'd to bed,
note beneath his head.
He sleep a single wink,
had do with it, to think;
The noise he heard,
as if he come to rob him, fear'd.
Constant dread to all,
Look towards his stall,
How low he was grown,
hardly to be known.
Said the lord to see:
"Your present, sir," said he,
"No, are not for me.
My song renew;
Gratitude to you:
The reward I will take,
That your slumber do not break."

THE HORSE AND HIS RIDER.

My long possess'd,
Feeble beast;
Old, and somewhat blind,
May he well could find;
Tumbled now and then,
On his feet again.
Many a year, the pack
Lay safely on his back.
One fatal day,
Some coxcombs say,
Said, 'tis quite a shame,
To ride old, blind, and lame."
One, "I know a steed
To carry him indeed;
Young, beautiful, and sound;
Where to be found."
Near he lent,
The boasted courser went:
As back he got,
He put him on a trot;
He plung'd, and leap'd about,
Till he shook him out,
He pitch'd him o'er his head,
On the pavement dead.

eature left at large,
r would discharge;
ind his heels surprise,
ot, that sprawling lies:
would seize the reins,
gled for his pains.
ourishment and rest
ist the fiercest beast;
f suspends its course,
its proper force.
more his eyes inspire,
ostrils snorted fire;
d, fatigu'd and lank,
ears, and beating flank.
ey, stout and able,
ring him to the stable;
his neck begins to pat, attles in his hat;
wn, repell'd by fear,
ighs, retires, comes near;
smell, begins to eat.
ulted in the seat:
hand the bridle plied,
rowels in his side.
and curvets still he made,
missively obey'd.
who such skill had shown,
ep him for his own:
nstant work alone
wicked spirit down

lay is on his back,
some new attack,
e, nor far nor near,
nan is every where.

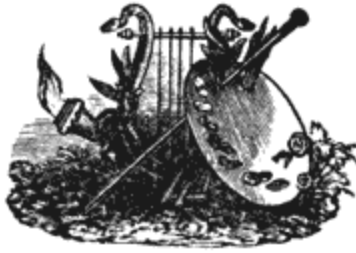

THE GOOD MINISTER.

Minister disgrac'd, easily replac'd,) Yet leisure in his fields, finds retirement yields.
He had his foes believ'd, none ere long perceiv'd.
Back again intent,
alone he went:
"You must return with me,"
"I value now I see."
The Recluse replied;
"I mean to abide.
Hence well I know,
I shall not again to go,
My best endeavors do,
My country, sir, and you,
If I so much prevail,
I never should fail;
My will and approbation,
The wishes of the nation,
Myself compell'd to yield,
I must quit the field."

Min, who will not bend

ce, or condescend
irt to knave or fool,
g a nation rule.

THE SWAN AND THE COOK.

Had a swan and goose

Among his birds and beasts.

Destined for a pet,

The other for a feast.

He saw them sailing

Gracefully on the current, side by side,

They played a game of tag,

Or plunged into the tide.

His master ordered

The cook to kill the goose,

For his dinner;

It was fat and fit for use.

He had taken a drop too much,

And it had gone to his head;

He went out for the goose

He took the swan instead.

He fast by the throat,

And would have kill'd it soon:

Now he was to die,

And he his throat did tune,

Out his farewell lay.

The cook straight dropped his knife

And, "what! what!" cried he,

"Shall I take the life

bird like this?

No, no! it must not be.

So to the garden he shall go back till'd by me."

THE LYNX AND THE MOLE.

met by chance a mole,
from his hole.
penetrating eye
of the place did spy,
mole to take a share
spect, rich and rare.
ound so good a place.
ll hill you see a space beneath your view,
pray do not you?
un begins to rise,
ison tints the skies.
ound its genial heat,
w enjoys a treat."
he mole aloud did cry
this and more, but I
before me see,
mist." "Truly,
e lynx, "I clearly see
e 'twixt you and me.
with perception bright
re always dark as night.
ld beneath the ground,
nge the forest round."

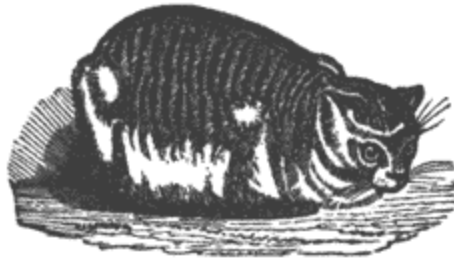

THE OLD CAT AND THE YOUNG MOUSE.

se of little experience,
ften an old cat,
her clemency,
his life at her expense.
ouse, or e'en a rat,
harge on the house;
t starve out the host.
om quit my post,
o a grain of corn
e since I first was born.
l, pray let me be,
children yet, you'll see."
t spoke the poor mouse. vered, "You mistake,
e this tone you take;
well talk to the deaf,
cat as I,
our tricks I spy,
go and chatter to the fates, will be fed on better cates."

MORAL.

ine, and hopes for all:
less; so says our moral.

THE TWO FRIENDS.

ds lived in Monomotapa, ged to one was for the other,
unto each a brother.
that country, thus,
iends than among us.
en fast asleep,

They each were sound reposing,
ted from his couch,

And stopped the other's dozing.
his friend,
aves, and in the end,
d is quite alarmed,
eek the other,
id purse. "My brother,
matter be?
ied, you see,
word to fight for you,
oney ready too,
st in play.
elcome to my handsome slave, hair, and eyes so grave."
other, "I need naught,
to-night, I thought,
nce, that you were sad,

ought nigh drove me mad,
our tent,
u sleeping quite content."

MORAL.

Two best loved the other?
; to ponder on.
s a precious thing,
you he will bring,
ss of love the other
; thinking of his brother.

THE SICK STAG.

Many stags are many,
and not any
days, delayed to come,
and consolation,
a bad situation.
My friends, pray let me die quietly, nor shed such tears." My consolers,
hear, and many a sigh,
persuaded by him to lie;
When left they helped themselves to his, the greedy elves!
He ran out his brook,
and of them such suppers took,
The stag revived,
his needs reduced;
His friends had thrived, or die of hunger.

THE FOREST AND THE WOODMAN.

ad broken or misplaced
andle of his axe,
d not be well replaced.
odman humbly prayed
ees a single branch,
to go elsewhere when he made lihood,
touch nor oak nor pine.
ch were all very good
him new arms,
menced all their alarms,
et. The axe was mended.
tance all was ended.
wretch but used it,
before abused it,
vn the forest trees,
d in spirit, and which died,
had themselves supplied.

MORAL.

y the world goes on,
nefits against our benefactors:
peaking thereupon,
our wants, we are good actors.

THE ELEPHANT AND THE MONKEY OF JUPITER.

elephant and the rhinoceros he light of empire nd the combat thus—their heart's desire.
ixed, when it was heard,
ey of Sire Jupiter
i in the air,
oud like any bird.
was quite convinced
e the new election,
e god evinced,
m a great affection,
e the monkey's highness,
i to speak about the fight,
l said monkey.

perceived that he must speak himself,
: "Sire Jupiter," said he,
oceros and me will see
at of legation;
for all the nation.
have already heard
aid monkey, "Not a word."

ashamed, and quite surprised,
: monkey with astonished eyes.
"In celestial place, rd are of equal race."
en because of us,"
"that you descended?"
e monkey, quite offended.
zens to share a grain of corn ants, nor knew that you were born.
are of mortal things;
ials in our eyes,
lk I feel surprise."

THE WOODCUTTER AND DEATH.

as toiling, all covered with dust, ere with his faggot ere night he must,
early he walks quite slow,
me he does not know.
xhausted with toil and trouble,
ht of the burden and his years, bent double.
his faggot, and thinks of his pains, ork, and what are his gains,
came into this weary world,
of blind fortune around he's been twirled.
or, a wood cutter, at best,
ead, always without rest.
is wife, his children, his taxes, farm with the subject he waxes.
ath; who comes without delay,
, in terror, knows not what to say.
iat to do the man wishes he should.
" he said, "with this faggot of wood.
s ache, and my limbs they crack.
put it upon my back."

THE RAT AND THE OYSTER.

ed in the field,
A rat of little wit,
ed of his father's house,
And quietly left it.
ld, the grain and wheat,
Set out to travel, left his hole,
on as he was out,
"How large and spacious on the whole untry spread about.
peninnes, and there Caucasus."
nole hill is a mountain.
some days our traveller arrives nton where every oyster thrives, d traveller turned very pale, aw great vessels setting sail
he, "My father was a dunce, e to travel even once,
een already,
empire,
to my heart's desire."
i learn'd man,
ard of such things,
has seen all he can.
any oysters closed,

open, which reposed,
, in the sun,
travelled man,
ached, thinking to make epast, and began to take ne oyster, plump and fat, osing on our rat,
ight him tight
with all its might.

MORAL.

s to show,
stake,
t all they know:
g nothing of the world,
ain is quickly whirled.
s moral let us make,
ght, who thinks to take.

THE PHYSICIANS.

THE-WORSE went out to see as one could be.
o-much-the-better,
ed an urgent letter,
sick man to visit.
worse declared he'd die,
better asked him why.
ir plans they thus discourse, died, so much the worse!
better now declared,
k man had not despaired,
e lived. So-much-the-worse ght, agree with me, lead, as you can see."

MORAL.

m in the saying, by my troth, ks will spoil the broth.

THE MOUNTAIN IN LABOR.

ought to be in labor,
horrid noise,
each stranger came and neighbor, and of all this noise would be as large as three.
all the province round,
from a little mound,
se.

MORAL.

upon this fable,
narration is false,
true;
ch in mind
a few,
it they are able
y subject as they please,
-do nothing.

THE CAT METAMORPHOSED INTO A WOMAN.

ssionately fond of his cat, e was pretty, and sleek, and all that;
d in the softest tone,
make her his own.

rayers, by tears,

By sorcery and charms,
y to a woman fair,

And took her in his arms.

nscot soon a rat

Made itself manifest,
n the pussy cat,

Could still no longer rest.

usband who believed

That nothing had of cat remained, he had her received—

Was, now, I warrant, somewhat pained.
vermin came,
er of her game—

For having changed her face, frightened,

Did not change their pace—ished spouse

Was very glad—

back—

And was no more cat-mad.

MORAL.

One is born,

Will in the flesh remain,

One morn,

And ne'er come out again.

THE FROG AND THE RAT.

er thinks to injure, d destroy himself.

exceeding well,
invited out to dine;
' said froggy, "will be quickly made, your foot to mine."
the delight of bathing, rieties they'd met upon the way,
rat consented to be tied,
bear him away.
owned resisted all he could.
ged the dinner he would make;
ng from a neighboring wood, red, and quickly did he take mbatants up in his bill, en had time to make their will;
ghted did the greedy sinner sh and flesh a hearty dinner.
'k's dominions, fast days
t.
g had acted as he ought,
ied to dine off the poor rat,
ot both have perished,

awk;
t, en so curious about
nment,
scrape got safely out.

MORAL.

conspiracy,
d well
ld seem as it could be,
l success,
less,

nspirators,
l, et them scheming.

THE LION AND THE FLY.

 d-fly worried,
 d by his sting,
 be off, vile fly—
 base thing!"
 ad ended his repast,
 d feels the beast at last,
 that he shook the earth,
 orious fly
 der's web his destiny.

MORAL.

 aw I from this tale:
 First, We should fear the smallest enemy;
 Ve may escape great perils,
 And from a trifling cause may die.

THE TWO MULES.

went travelling on their way,

One with a sack of corn;

And gold and bells so gay,

Most gaily tripped along.

With a load,

He kept the bells a ringing—

And loud, had he known how

He would have commenced singing.

Robbers rude appeared,

Who stopped this mule upon his road,

And they had him cleared

Of all his weight of precious gold.

And their blows, "I die,"

The expiring trotter cried,

"I," said the other,

"Low as I, you would not thus have died."

When you are high,

The passers by.

JUPITER AND THE FARMER.

farm to let,
rtised it, and people came,
istened, all the same,
jection.
the land
l dry,
nd.
eason, one had that,
man appeared,
try to farm it, agreed that e any weather that he chose.

on as he but yawns, it blows quite clear.
, even the most near,
ed by these changes.
. their weather ranges;
od crops,
ne.
ired, he began
into Jupiter.
the same thing,
eather he can bring—bors no more

ricans,
by the farming

it, with all his strife in vain, power to the God of rain; ing, that all along
ght,
ong.

MORAL.

le that Providence
ns much better than we can.

THE COCK, THE CAT, AND THE LITTLE MOUSE.

se, who had nothing seen, ught; You shall hear how other the adventure—
; listen, now:
frolic at a venture,
e animals appeared
es,
with surprise.
benign, and sweet,
oulent, and full of inquietude,
ice, piercing and rude,
ad a piece of flesh.
raised him up in the air, ily out of a mesh—
read out like a fan."
cock of which our little mouse,
other this fine picture, n like an enthusiast.
d he, "his flanks,
rms,
a noise and such a din, ed half to death,

que myself upon my courage cursed him in my heart, n, I'd taken part,
n with the gentle creature, nces would encourage.
, like us, with a long tail, s, and sparkling eyes, ike a rat. She spies und her. I turned pale
e other creature's din, ld have asked her in."
id the mother, "this last was a cat, every mouse and rat.
ck, whom do not fear,
ay dine on him here."

atever they may seem,
ople by their mien.

THE MONKEY.

on the death of the lion,

During his life, prince of the country, elect a king to try on

The regal crown, and chose a monkey.

the animals had all

regal crown, or let it fall, heads were all too big,

too horned, or too thick,

lipped through it;

t up many a trick,

I thought refined,

n with one mind.

egretted the election,

reign in his defection.

nade his compliment;

, "I know a treasure meant majesty. I will show

e it lies hid."

vent at Reynard's bid—

ht in a trap.

med,

think to govern us,

I, with all your fuss,

ell, do what you may,

rsel self out of harm's way."
greed,
ver suits very few indeed.

THE HORSE AND THE ASS.

panied by a horse uncourteous,
his harness on his back;
jackass staggered
d of vegetable and a pack;
horse to help him,

le bit,
ild.
ie poor beast,
-
ist, ity."
ised,
ie,
d.
nan
ie skin of honest Ben,
horse, whom they espied, cin and the cart beside.

MORAL.

and our aid

To others in distress,

are made

The means of happiness.

Unkind man

His neighbor's death may cause,

elp his family,

Through taxes and the laws.

THE ASTROLOGER WHO FELL INTO A WELL.

of high ambition,
ing fell down
age gentleman,"
people of the town,
think to read the stars, old man, not preserve your own position."
e in itself, without going further,
s a lesson, to most of mankind, als, a certain part inclines, that, with the help of mind,
destiny may easily be read,
by Homer and his disciples sung,
ed but Chance, by ancients, ristians named Providence instead.
e there can no science be,
l it be called by them Chance— certain, who knows in advance?
upon the fixed decree,
loes all things, and nothing does unwisely.
re read his will,
t which from us he would conceal?
tch the stars so nicely,
to avoid inevitable woe;

ure times, our fate will go;
n the midst of pleasure, sad, ted evil, drive us mad,
essings into curses dire?
wledge to which we aspire, r a crime thus to believe stiny can thus be known?
r-gazing above our head, ourselves to the Great One.
t exists, the stars go on their way,
nines upon us every day;
z, the day is lost in night, nowing aught else from the sight.
ns come, the crops are ripe, ood we should look out for snipe, r other things, but for the change it, by which the world doth range, it to do with Destiny.
e compilers of horoscopes, urts of princes in Europe,
you all mischief makers

elief no more than they do.

MORAL.

r in the well,

of his false art,
they are in danger, dream ers, they read the happiest theme.

THE ANIMALS SICK WITH THE PLAGUE.

which spread terror,
Heaven to punish earth—(to name it be no error) every animal perish.
Night have enriched Acheron,
Deaths made busy war.
In all there was not one,
ailing, was complaining sore;
No, but each was ill—
He now to eat his fill,
Ordered them to taste,
Whom he again lay waste,
On prey.
They fled from each other,
 More the live-long day.
He gave counsel—"My brother," Kissing each in turn,
Heaven hath allowed
 Death on us to fall
We have disavowed.
 I will confess all,
Who is most to blame,
I in the others' name.

ly obtain a common cure,
ls us that in like cases,
in others' places;
n be false to Nature,
our faults—in fine
acknowledge mine;
at oft I keep
on harmless sheep.
r done,
nded—
et lives have ended.
ith sorrow be it heard,
en the shepherd,
ledge all—
like a quiet bird—
ep you from your fall.
ed now in all justice, s most guilty perish."
e fox, "you are too good a king trivial thing;
are too nice.
l why not?
t a vice?
lid them honor;
phers, I desire,
heir false empire
and we have all we want fleece."
x, flatterers applaud,
; and other powers they laud,

most violent offence.
ne people,
astiffs,
nts.
donkey's turn came on,
m with many ifs.
w remember
ik's garden passing,
December,
gth soon faints,)
some dry plant,
I with terror pant."
pon him and devoured,
as the cause
rger being lowered.

d judges, right
he side of might.

THE CANDLE.

Some of the Olympian gods,
Lodged, 'tis said,
Met; and thitherwards
 With light tread.
The hives, the honey,
Taken out,
Were naught but wax,
Which, for money,
Were sold in packs.
The candles on a certain day
By fire was turned to brick,
Which harden his body the same;
Near the fire to try the trick,
The candles to flame condemned
To his philosophy the end.

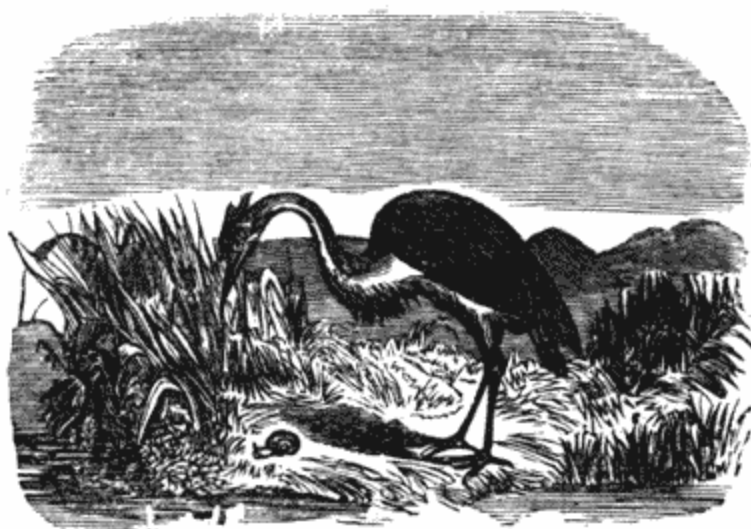

THE HOG, THE GOAT, AND THE SHEEP.

p, and a fat hog,
art were bound for the fair.
tially as any log,
seeking their amusement there.
be sold, so says the story.
o his business knows,
m into town to see the shows.
was inclined to squeal, butcher's knife she 'gan to feel.
d squeals, and cries
ugh to deafen one,
nals more wise,
rpered, with surprise
ave done!"
he porker turned,
you manners learned,
ll? Do you not see
e noisiest of the three?
s not a word,
ung goat's voice be heard."
e hog, "they both are fools.
r knew their fate,
out at greater rate,
only lose her milk,

wool, but here, poor me,
I, and know my destiny."
is quite right,
with all her might,
e,
: alter her sad fate.

THE DELICATE HERON.

By a river,
A heron walked out,
Sporting,
Pike, mackerel and trout.

With great ease,
Our bird might have caught,
If I'm hungry
The silly bird thought.

His appetite,
"Now I'll eat," the bird cries,
Fish from the bottom,
Just then he saw rise.

Not good enough
At this time of day,"
He looks for better
Till all swam away.

Starved
When all other means fail, glad to sup

On a poor little snail.

THE BLACKAMOOR AND HER MISTRESS.

ng lady,
 Took one of her maids,
to be black
 As the ace of spades,
I have her washed white,
 By the other maids;
n a tub,
 And with water and towels
did rub,
 Through a long summer day till the night;
hey did rub her,
 The blacker she got;
y did scrub her,
 She mourned her hard lot.
hrew away
 All their labor and care, ess gave up
 Her fine scheme in despair.

THE BEAR AND THE GARDENER.

gardener,
Who mutually tired
Each other,

And were inspired,
Friendship for each other,
Each to one another,
And so they were.
The death of the poor man
When it happened,

During the gardener in his sleep—
He put his head a fly,
He had bad company,
He and dropped it down,
Which is true,
The gardener's crown.

MORAL.

Fortunes or to mend,
A constant enemy

a foolish friend.

THE VULTURES AND THE PIGEONS.

habitants of air
ne a direful war.
budding groves who sing,
e amorous spring;
h Venus' car who fly
ght clouds and yielding sky ous vulture brood,
beak that thirsts for blood,
s. Their war, 'tis said, rrion corse was made.
resound from shore to shore;
eath is sanguin'd o'er;
science to destroy,
alor they employ.
i hundred tongues to tell,
om the air who fell.
race, a gentle nation,
f their mediation.
ssadors are sent;
vith the terms content,
arantee to take,
and treaty make.
re to interfere,
peace-makers full dear.

l, the ruthless crew,
nor faith who knew,
eless pigeons fall,
ad devoured them all.

MORAL.

from their quarrels cease, neighbor pays their peace.
heir warfare lies;
ot he should compromise.
Frederick, and Kate,
ofitable hate,
ties would heel,
ed Poland at a meal.

THE BEAR AND THE BEES.

ambled from his home,
igh a garden trim to roam,
the shelter of the trees,
d his hives of bees.
oney. "Now," said he,
store-house, Master Bee.
d hum about my ears,
ave bear never fears."
ir o'eturns a hive,
ne air is all alive,
emies, who sting
; and make bear sing,
of growls and roars,
n with smarting sores.

A CATALOGUE
OF ENTERTAINING AND INSTRUCTIVE
JUVENILE BOOKS,

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE BY

C. C. HENDERSON & CO.

AT THEIR

Central Book & Stationery Warehouse,

No. 164 CHESTNUT STREET,

Corner of Seventh,

UNDER BARNUM'S MUSEUM.

PHILADELPHIA

A

CATALOGUE

OF

ENTERTAINING AND INSTRUCTIVE

JUVENILE BOOKS,

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE BY

C. G. HENDERSON & CO.

AT THEIR

Central Book & Stationery Warehouse,

No. 164 CHESTNUT STREET,

Corner of Seventh,

UNDER BARNUM'S MUSEUM.

PHILADELPHIA

MAJA'S ALPHABET.

A VERY BEAUTIFUL
PICTORIAL ALPHABET,
In Rhyme.

WITH NEW AND ORIGINAL DESIGNS,
BY ABSOLON.

MAJA'S ALPHABET.

A

VERY BEAUTIFUL PICTORIAL ALPHABET,

In Rhyme.

WITH NEW AND ORIGINAL DESIGNS,

BY ABSOLON.

COSTUMES OF AMERICA.

An excellent volume for Young People of both sexes, and well calculated to awaken an interest in the History of this Continent.
Illustrated with Twenty-four Engravings of Original Costumes. One volume, square 16mo. Cloth, 50 cents. With Colored Plates, 75 cents.

COSTUMES OF AMERICA.

An excellent volume for Young People of both sexes, and well calculated to awaken an interest in the History of this Continent.

Illustrated with Twenty-four Engravings of Original Costumes. One volume, square 16mo. Cloth, 50 cents. With Colored Plates, 75 cents.

Little Charley's Christmas Amusements,

OR

WINTER SPORTS DURING THE HOLIDAYS.

With 28 Engravings on Wood.

One volume square 16mo. Cloth binding. Price 25 cents.

Little Charley's Christmas Amusements,

OR

WINTER SPORTS DURING THE HOLIDAYS.

With 28 Engravings on Wood.

One volume square 16mo. Cloth binding. Price 25 cents.

Little Charley's Stories of Great Men.

DESCRIPTIVE OF

HEROES, STATESMEN, AND SCHOLARS.

WRITTEN IN AN EASY STYLE FOR BEGINNERS.

One volume square 16mo. Cloth. 25 cents.

Little Charley's Stories of Great Men.

DESCRIPTIVE OF

HEROES, STATESMEN, AND SCHOLARS.

WRITTEN IN AN EASY STYLE FOR BEGINNERS.

One volume square 16mo. Cloth. 25 cents.

CARLO FRANCONI,

AN ITALIAN STORY,

And other Stories for Young People.

BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED WITH ENGRAVINGS FROM ORIGINAL DESIGNS

Square 16mo. Cloth Binding.

This is a very touching and entertaining Story for Youth. The Scene is laid in England, and in Italy, the incidents are of a peculiarly interesting character.

CARLO FRANCONI,

AN ITALIAN STORY,

And other Stories for Young People.

BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED WITH ENGRAVINGS FROM ORIGINAL DESIGNS

Square 16mo. Cloth Binding.

This is a very touching and entertaining Story for Youth. The Scene is laid in England, and in Italy, the incidents are of a peculiarly interesting character.

Little Charley's Games and Sports.

EMBELLISHED WITH 27 ENGRAVINGS OF THE PRIMARY
GAMES FOR LITTLE CHILDREN.

One volume square 16mo. Cloth. 25 cents.

Little Charley's Games and Sports.

EMBELLISHED WITH 27 ENGRAVINGS OF THE PRIMARY GAMES FOR LITTLE CHILDREN.

One volume square 16mo. Cloth. 25 cents.

Good Aunt Fanny's Budget

OF

Stories and Legends for Children.

TRANSLATED FROM THE GERMAN

By Charles A. Dana.

Illustrated with 40 spirited Engravings after designs by Richter.

One vol. quarto. Cloth binding. Price 75 cents.

Good Aunt Fanny's Budget

OF

Stories and Legends for Children.

TRANSLATED FROM THE GERMAN

By Charles A. Dana.

Illustrated with 40 spirited Engravings after designs by Richter.

One vol. quarto. Cloth binding. Price 75 cents.

Little Charley's Picture Alphabet.

A stands for an Army,
How bravely they go,
With flag, drum, and trumpet,
They make a great show.

One volume 16mo. Cloth. Price 25 cents.

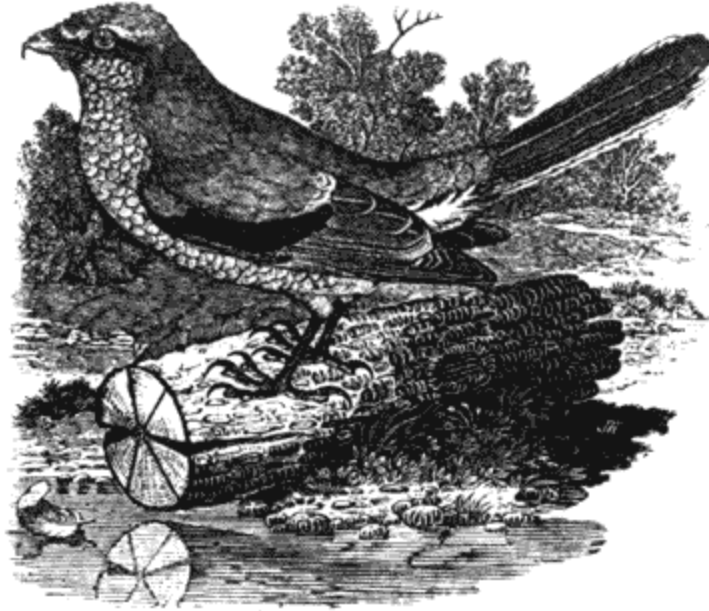

Little Charley's Picture Alphabet.

A stands for an Army,
How bravely they go,
With flag, drum, and trumpet,
They make a great show.

One volume 16mo. Cloth. Price 25 cents.

Little Charley's Country Walk,

OR

SUMMER RAMBLES

IN THE

FIELDS AND WOODS.

BY LITTLE CHARLEY.

An amusing and instructive book for Children from six to eight years of age.

Illustrated with 20 Engravings.

16mo. Cloth binding. Price 25 cents.

Little Charley's Country Walk,

OR

SUMMER RAMBLES

IN THE

FIELDS AND WOODS.

BY LITTLE CHARLEY.

An amusing and instructive book for Children from six to eight years of age.

Illustrated with 20 Engravings.

16mo. Cloth binding. Price 25 cents.

Little Charley's Rhymes and Dingles.

A NEW COLLECTION OF STORIES IN RHYME

FOR

ALL THE GOOD LITTLE BOYS OF AMERICA.

Embellished with 20 appropriate Wood Designs.

Square 16mo. Cloth. 25 cents.

Little Charley's Rhymes and Jingles.

A NEW COLLECTION OF STORIES IN RHYME

FOR

ALL THE GOOD LITTLE BOYS OF AMERICA.

Embellished with 20 appropriate Wood Designs.

Square 16mo. Cloth. 25 cents.

KRISS KRINGLE'S RHYME BOOK.

A Lively Book of Rhymes for very little Children.

RICHLY EMBELLISHED WITH PICTURES.

Square 16mo. Paper Covers,	. . .	12½ cents.
Cloth Binding,	. . .	25 "

KRISS KRINGLE'S

RHYME BOOK.

A Lively Book of Rhymes for very little Children.

RICHLY EMBELLISHED WITH PICTURES.

Square 16mo.

Paper Covers, Cloth Binding,

12½ 25

cents.
”

Nut Cracker and Sugar Dolly

A FAIRY TALE.

TRANSLATED FROM THE GERMAN.

BY CHARLES A. DANA.

SQUARE 16mo. CLOTH AND CLOTH GILT.

—♦—
This New Fairy Tale is one of the live'liest, most readable, and most unexceptionable for Children which has ever appeared.

Nut Cracker and Sugar Dolly

A FAIRY TALE.

TRANSLATED FROM THE GERMAN.

BY CHARLES A. DANA.

SQUARE 16mo. CLOTH AND CLOTH GILT.

This New Fairy Tale is one of the liveliest, most readable, and most unexceptionable for Children which has ever appeared.

The Complete
BOOK OF NURSERY RHYMES, FROM
The Creation of the World
TO
THE PRESENT TIME.
One volume 18mo, 252 pages. Cloth Binding.

The Complete

BOOK OF NURSERY RHYMES,

FROM

The Creation of the World

TO

THE PRESENT TIME.

One volume 18mo, 252 pages. Cloth Binding.

THRILLING STORIES

OF THE

OCEAN.

For the Entertainment and Instruction of the Young.

This is a neat volume of 300 pages, with numerous Embellishments.

It is written in a familiar, popular style, and is well suited to the Juvenile, Family or School library.

CLOTH BINDING, PLAIN AND GILT EXTRA.

THRILLING STORIES

OF THE

OCEAN.

For the Entertainment and Instruction of the Young.

This is a neat volume of 300 pages, with numerous Embellishments. It is written in a familiar, popular style, and is well suited to the Juvenile, Family or School library.

CLOTH BINDING, PLAIN AND GILT EXTRA.

COSTUMES OF EUROPE.

Beautifully Embellished with 24 Engravings of Original Costumes. One vol.
Square 16mo. Fine Cloth binding, 50 cts.; with Col'd Engravings, 75 cts.

This is a Companion volume to the COSTUMES OF AMERICA, and is equally instructive as well as pleasing for young readers.
Every intelligent Boy should possess a Copy of the Book of Costumes of Europe and America.

COSTUMES OF EUROPE.

Beautifully Embellished with 24 Engravings of Original Costumes. One vol. Square 16mo. Fine Cloth binding, 50 cts; with Col'd Engravings, 75 cts.

This is a Companion volume to the COSTUMES OF AMERICA, and is equally instructive as well as pleasing for young readers.

—Every intelligent Boy should possess a Copy of the Book of Costumes of Europe and America.

 END OF THE PROJECT GUTENBERG EBOOK AESOP, IN RHYME: OLD FRIENDS IN A NEW DRESS ***

Updated editions will replace the previous one—the old editions will be renamed.

Creating the works from print editions not protected by U.S. copyright law means that no one owns a United States copyright in these works, so the Foundation (and you!) can copy and distribute it in the United States without permission and without paying copyright royalties. Special rules, set forth in the General Terms of Use part of this license, apply to copying and distributing Project Gutenberg™ electronic works to protect the PROJECT GUTENBERG™ concept and trademark. Project Gutenberg is a registered trademark, and may not be used if you charge for an eBook, except by following the terms of the trademark license, including paying royalties for use of the Project Gutenberg trademark. If you do not charge anything for copies of this eBook, complying with the trademark license is very easy. You may use this eBook for nearly any purpose such as creation of derivative works, reports, performances and research. Project Gutenberg eBooks may be modified and printed and given away—you may do practically ANYTHING in the United States with eBooks not protected by U.S. copyright law. Redistribution is subject to the trademark license, especially commercial redistribution.

START: FULL LICENSE

THE FULL PROJECT GUTENBERG™ LICENSE

PLEASE READ THIS BEFORE YOU DISTRIBUTE OR USE THIS WORK

To protect the Project Gutenberg™ mission of promoting the free distribution of electronic works, by using or distributing this work (or any other work associated in any way with the phrase “Project Gutenberg”), you agree to comply with all the terms of the Full Project Gutenberg License available with this file or online at www.gutenberg.org/license.

Section 1. General Terms of Use and Redistributing Project Gutenberg electronic works

1.A. By reading or using any part of this Project Gutenberg electronic work, you indicate that you have read, understand, agree to and accept all the terms of this license and intellectual property (trademark/copyright) agreement. If you do not agree to abide by all the terms of this agreement, you must cease using and return or destroy all copies of Project Gutenberg electronic works in your possession. If you paid a fee for obtaining a copy of or access to a Project Gutenberg electronic work and you do not agree to be bound by the terms of this agreement, you may obtain a refund from the person or entity to whom you paid the fee as set forth in paragraph 1.E.8.

1.B. “Project Gutenberg” is a registered trademark. It may only be used on or associated in any way with an electronic work by people who agree to be bound by the terms of this agreement. There are a few things that you can do with most Project Gutenberg electronic works even without complying with the full terms of this agreement. See paragraph 1.C below. There are a lot of things you can do with Project Gutenberg electronic works if you follow the terms of this agreement and help preserve free future access to Project Gutenberg electronic works. See paragraph 1.E below.

1.C. The Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation (“the Foundation” or PGLAF), owns a compilation copyright in the collection of Project Gutenberg electronic works. Nearly all the individual works in the collection are in the public domain in the United States. If an individual work is unprotected by copyright law in the United States and you are located in the United States, we do not claim a right to prevent you from copying, distributing, performing, displaying or creating derivative works based on the work as long as all references to Project Gutenberg are removed. Of course, we hope that you will support the Project Gutenberg mission of promoting free access to electronic works by freely sharing Project Gutenberg works in compliance with the terms of this agreement for keeping the Project Gutenberg name associated with the work. You can easily comply with the terms of this agreement by keeping this work in the same format with its attached full Project Gutenberg License when you share it without charge with others.

1.D. The copyright laws of the place where you are located also govern what you can do with this work. Copyright laws in most countries are in a constant state of change. If you are outside the United States, check the laws of your country in addition to the terms of this agreement before downloading, copying, displaying, performing, distributing or creating derivative works based on this work or any other Project Gutenberg work. The Foundation makes no representations concerning the copyright status of any work in any country other than the United States.

1.E. Unless you have removed all references to Project Gutenberg:

1.E.1. The following sentence, with active links to, or other immediate access to, the full Project Gutenberg License must appear prominently whenever any copy of a Project Gutenberg work (any work on which the phrase “Project Gutenberg” appears, or with which the phrase “Project Gutenberg” is associated) is accessed, displayed, performed, viewed, copied or distributed:

This eBook is for the use of anyone anywhere in the United States and most other parts of the world at no cost and with almost no restrictions whatsoever. You may copy it, give it away or re-use it under the terms of the Project Gutenberg™ License included with this eBook or online at www.gutenberg.org. If you are not located in the United States, you will have to check the laws of the country where you are located before using this eBook.

1.E.2. If an individual Project Gutenberg electronic work is derived from texts not protected by U.S. copyright law (does not contain a notice indicating that it is posted with permission of the copyright holder), the work can be copied and distributed to anyone in the United States without paying any fees or charges. If you are redistributing or providing access to a work with the phrase “Project Gutenberg” associated with or appearing on the work, you must comply either with the requirements of paragraphs 1.E.1 through 1.E.7 or obtain permission for the use of the work and the Project Gutenberg trademark as set forth in paragraphs 1.E.8 or 1.E.9.

1.E.3. If an individual Project Gutenberg electronic work is posted with the permission of the copyright holder, your use and distribution must comply with both paragraphs 1.E.1 through 1.E.7 and any additional terms imposed by the copyright holder. Additional terms will be linked to the Project Gutenberg License for all works posted with the permission of the copyright holder found at the beginning of this work.

1.E.4. Do not unlink or detach or remove the full Project Gutenberg License terms from this work, or any files containing a part of this work or any other work associated with Project Gutenberg.

1.E.5. Do not copy, display, perform, distribute or redistribute this electronic work, or any part of this electronic work, without prominently displaying the sentence set forth in paragraph 1.E.1 with active links or immediate access to the full terms of the Project Gutenberg License.

1.E.6. You may convert to and distribute this work in any binary, compressed, marked up, nonproprietary or proprietary form, including any word processing or hypertext form. However, if you provide access to or distribute copies of a Project Gutenberg work in a format other than “Plain Vanilla ASCII” or other format used in the official version posted on the official Project Gutenberg website (www.gutenberg.org), you must, at no additional cost, fee or expense to the user, provide a copy, a means of exporting a copy, or a means of obtaining a copy upon request, of the work in its original “Plain Vanilla ASCII” or other form. Any alternate format must include the full Project Gutenberg License as specified in paragraph 1.E.1.

1.E.7. Do not charge a fee for access to, viewing, displaying, performing, copying or distributing any Project Gutenberg works unless you comply with paragraph 1.E.8 or 1.E.9.

1.E.8. You may charge a reasonable fee for copies of or providing access to or distributing Project Gutenberg electronic works provided that:

- You pay a royalty fee of 20% of the gross profits you derive from the use of Project Gutenberg works calculated using the method you already use to calculate your applicable taxes. The fee is owed to the owner of the Project Gutenberg trademark, but he has agreed to donate royalties under this paragraph to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation. Royalty payments must be paid within 60 days following each date on which you prepare (or are legally required to prepare) your periodic tax returns. Royalty payments should be clearly marked as such and sent to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation at the address specified in Section 4, “Information about donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation.”
- You provide a full refund of any money paid by a user who notifies you in writing (or by e-mail) within 30 days of receipt that s/he does not agree to the terms of the full Project Gutenberg™ License. You must require such a user to return or destroy all copies of the works possessed in a physical medium and discontinue all use of and all access to other copies of Project Gutenberg™ works.
- You provide, in accordance with paragraph 1.F.3, a full refund of any money paid for a work or a replacement copy, if a defect in the electronic work is discovered and reported to you within 90 days of receipt of the work.

- You comply with all other terms of this agreement for free distribution of Project Gutenberg™ works.

1.E.9. If you wish to charge a fee or distribute a Project Gutenberg™ electronic work or group of works on different terms than are set forth in this agreement, you must obtain permission in writing from the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, the manager of the Project Gutenberg™ trademark. Contact the Foundation as set forth in Section 3 below.

1.F.

1.F.1. Project Gutenberg volunteers and employees expend considerable effort to identify, do copyright research on, transcribe and proofread works not protected by U.S. copyright law in creating the Project Gutenberg™ collection. Despite these efforts, Project Gutenberg™ electronic works, and the medium on which they may be stored, may contain “Defects,” such as, but not limited to, incomplete, inaccurate or corrupt data, transcription errors, a copyright or other intellectual property infringement, a defective or damaged disk or other medium, a computer virus, or computer codes that damage or cannot be read by your equipment.

1.F.2. LIMITED WARRANTY, DISCLAIMER OF DAMAGES - Except for the “Right of Replacement or Refund” described in paragraph 1.F.3, the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, the owner of the Project Gutenberg™ trademark, and any other party distributing a Project Gutenberg™ electronic work under this agreement, disclaim all liability to you for damages, costs and expenses, including legal fees. YOU AGREE THAT YOU HAVE NO REMEDIES FOR NEGLIGENCE, STRICT LIABILITY, BREACH OF WARRANTY OR BREACH OF CONTRACT EXCEPT THOSE PROVIDED IN PARAGRAPH 1.F.3. YOU AGREE THAT THE FOUNDATION, THE TRADEMARK OWNER, AND ANY DISTRIBUTOR UNDER THIS AGREEMENT WILL NOT BE LIABLE TO YOU FOR ACTUAL, DIRECT, INDIRECT, CONSEQUENTIAL, PUNITIVE OR INCIDENTAL DAMAGES

EVEN IF YOU GIVE NOTICE OF THE POSSIBILITY OF SUCH DAMAGE.

1.F.3. LIMITED RIGHT OF REPLACEMENT OR REFUND - If you discover a defect in this electronic work within 90 days of receiving it, you can receive a refund of the money (if any) you paid for it by sending a written explanation to the person you received the work from. If you received the work on a physical medium, you must return the medium with your written explanation. The person or entity that provided you with the defective work may elect to provide a replacement copy in lieu of a refund. If you received the work electronically, the person or entity providing it to you may choose to give you a second opportunity to receive the work electronically in lieu of a refund. If the second copy is also defective, you may demand a refund in writing without further opportunities to fix the problem.

1.F.4. Except for the limited right of replacement or refund set forth in paragraph 1.F.3, this work is provided to you 'AS-IS', WITH NO OTHER WARRANTIES OF ANY KIND, EXPRESS OR IMPLIED, INCLUDING BUT NOT LIMITED TO WARRANTIES OF MERCHANTABILITY OR FITNESS FOR ANY PURPOSE.

1.F.5. Some states do not allow disclaimers of certain implied warranties or the exclusion or limitation of certain types of damages. If any disclaimer or limitation set forth in this agreement violates the law of the state applicable to this agreement, the agreement shall be interpreted to make the maximum disclaimer or limitation permitted by the applicable state law. The invalidity or unenforceability of any provision of this agreement shall not void the remaining provisions.

1.F.6. INDEMNITY - You agree to indemnify and hold the Foundation, the trademark owner, any agent or employee of the Foundation, anyone providing copies of Project Gutenberg™ electronic works in accordance with this agreement, and any volunteers associated with the production, promotion and distribution of Project Gutenberg™ electronic works, harmless from all liability, costs and expenses, including legal fees, that arise directly or indirectly from any of the following which you do or cause to occur: (a) distribution of this or any Project Gutenberg work, (b) alteration, modification, or additions or deletions to any Project Gutenberg work, and (c) any Defect you cause.

Section 2. Information about the Mission of Project Gutenberg

Project Gutenberg is synonymous with the free distribution of electronic works in formats readable by the widest variety of computers including obsolete, old, middle-aged and new computers. It exists because of the efforts of hundreds of volunteers and donations from people in all walks of life.

Volunteers and financial support to provide volunteers with the assistance they need are critical to reaching Project Gutenberg's goals and ensuring that the Project Gutenberg collection will remain freely available for generations to come. In 2001, the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation was created to provide a secure and permanent future for Project Gutenberg and future generations. To learn more about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation and how your efforts and donations can help, see Sections 3 and 4 and the Foundation information page at www.gutenberg.org.

Section 3. Information about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

The Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation is a non-profit 501(c)(3) educational corporation organized under the laws of the state of Mississippi and granted tax exempt status by the Internal Revenue Service. The Foundation's EIN or federal tax identification number is 64-6221541. Contributions to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation are tax deductible to the full extent permitted by U.S. federal laws and your state's laws.

The Foundation's business office is located at 41 Watchung Plaza #516, Montclair NJ 07042, USA, +1 (862) 621-9288. Email contact links and up to date contact information can be found at the Foundation's website and official page at www.gutenberg.org/contact

Section 4. Information about Donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

Project Gutenberg™ depends upon and cannot survive without widespread public support and donations to carry out its mission of increasing the number of public domain and licensed works that can be freely distributed in machine-readable form accessible by the widest array of equipment including outdated equipment. Many small donations ($1 to $5,000) are particularly important to maintaining tax exempt status with the IRS.

The Foundation is committed to complying with the laws regulating charities and charitable donations in all 50 states of the United States. Compliance requirements are not uniform and it takes a considerable effort, much paperwork and many fees to meet and keep up with these requirements. We do not solicit donations in locations where we have not received written confirmation of compliance. To SEND DONATIONS or determine the status of compliance for any particular state visit www.gutenberg.org/donate.

While we cannot and do not solicit contributions from states where we have not met the solicitation requirements, we know of no prohibition against accepting unsolicited donations from donors in such states who approach us with offers to donate.

International donations are gratefully accepted, but we cannot make any statements concerning tax treatment of donations received from outside the United States. U.S. laws alone swamp our small staff.

Please check the Project Gutenberg web pages for current donation methods and addresses. Donations are accepted in a number of other ways including checks, online payments and credit card donations. To donate, please visit: www.gutenberg.org/donate.

Section 5. General Information About Project Gutenberg electronic works

Professor Michael S. Hart was the originator of the Project Gutenberg concept of a library of electronic works that could be freely shared with anyone. For forty years, he produced and distributed Project Gutenberg eBooks with only a loose network of volunteer support.

Project Gutenberg eBooks are often created from several printed editions, all of which are confirmed as not protected by copyright in the U.S. unless a copyright notice is included. Thus, we do not necessarily keep eBooks in compliance with any particular paper edition.

Most people start at our website which has the main PG search facility: www.gutenberg.org.

This website includes information about Project Gutenberg, including how to make donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, how to help produce our new eBooks, and how to subscribe to our email newsletter to hear about new eBooks.